

Hairston: Youngest Duck passed on NBA

"I remember meeting Coach (Scott) Duncan, but didn't know who he was, didn't know anything about Oregon or that there was a University of Oregon," Hairston said.

But Hairston was attracted to the run-and-gun offense, and Payne said he was ready for the challenge.

"I know how elated he was to join this program, play for Ernie Kent and to have the opportunity to build on the tradition that is already here," Payne said.

Unfortunately for Oregon fans, the more this youngster's game continues to improve, the more likely it will be that he may leave Oregon early for the NBA.

"I would like to stay here for as long as I can," Hairston said. "But if I'm blessed with the opportunity I'm going to snatch it up like any person would."

But Hairston's goals and competitive drive to win are focused on this team.

"Right now it is all about Oregon basketball," Hairston said. "I'm never hesitant to say I want a national championship. I also want a Pac-10 championship."

"I want as many as I can get."
