Men: Ducks hold eighth-place spot heading into final game

Malik Hairston also played well for Oregon, pitching in 19 points and six rebounds. Schafer added 11 points, four rebounds and two blocked shots.

The Ducks, now in the eighth and final spot in the Pac-10 Tournament, control their own destiny after No. 10 Washington destroyed California, and Washington State upset Stanford.

Oregon will clinch a spot in the tournament with either a win against UCLA or a Cal loss to Washington State on Saturday.

Kent said he would rather beat the Bruins Saturday so they don't have to worry about the Washington State/Cal game.

"We need to beat UCLA and come through the front door," Kent said. "Don't get me wrong, though; I'll take the back door."

Oregon jumped on USC early, using a 10-0 run to take a 12-5 lead.

Taylor air-balled his first shot of the game, but hit back-to-back three-pointers during the run. Taylor scored 11 of his 23 points in the first half.

ERNIE KENT | Oregon head coach

Despite shooting 50 percent in the first half, the Ducks let the Trojans hang around in the first half with 12 turnovers and tied the game at 28 with Lodrick Stewart's three-pointer. The Ducks led at halftime, 38-36.

Women: Seniors Kraayeveld, Bills garner All-Pac-10 honors averaging 11.4 points per game, which ranks 10th in the conference. Bills also ranks fourth in rebounding, pulling down seven boards per game.

In addition to Kraayeveld and Bills receiving All-Pac-10 honors, freshman Kristen Forristall was named to the Pac-10 All-Freshman team.

What makes Oregon dangerous is the play of senior Brandi Davis. Davis, who replaced injured shooting guard Chelsea Wagner midseason, gives the Ducks a potent outside weapon and an outlet for Kraayeveld and Bills when they get doubled inside.

Davis is fifth in the conference in three-pointers made with 45. Since Oregon's game against UCLA last month, Davis has won Pac-10 Player of the Week twice and led the team in scoring four times in nine games.

Whomever the Ducks face on Saturday, the matchup will mark the third time this year the teams will face each other.

"Your team has to be playing at its highest (to face a team the third time around)," Washington head coach June Daugherty said. "You have to improve every time out, and that's what we will focus on this week."

Against Washington, the Ducks split the season series, winning 86-77 at McArthur Court in January and losing last month to the Huskies 81-57 in Seattle.

The Huskies are winners of four out of their last five, including the victory over the Ducks. Washington finished the regular season with a 64-60 win at Arizona.

Oregon swept the season series against Oregon State, winning by an average of 17.5 points. Oregon State senior Shannon Howell is third in the conference in scoring with 14.8 points per game.

"You're looking at a new season with new story lines to be written," Smith said. "This year, given the competitive nature of the Pac-10, it's going to be a great tournament with some great games to be played."

Tipoff for Saturday's game is set for 1:15 p.m.
