IN BRIEF

Three young Ducks earn Pac-10 honors

The Pacific-10 Conference handed out its postseason awards Monday, and Oregon's Malik Hairston, Bryce Taylor and Aaron Brooks were all honored with awards.

Hairston and Taylor were named to the Pac-10 all-freshman team along with UCLA's Arron Afflalo and Jordan Farmer — who also won freshman of the year — and USC's Gabe Pruitt.

Hairston was second for the Ducks in scoring, averaging 13.1 points per game, and was first in field goal percentage (.509). The Detroit, Mich., native averaged 5.0 rebounds per game.

Taylor was Oregon's third-leading scorer, averaging 11.6 points per game while hitting 37 percent of his three-point attempts (44 of 119). He led the Ducks in scoring for nine games, including a career-high 26 points against Washington State on Jan. 15.

Brooks was named all-Pac-10 honorable mention. The point guard averaged 14.7 points and 4.6 assists per game and tied an Oregon record for a sophomore when he exploded for 34 points against USC Jan. 31.

Arizona State's Ike Diogu was named the conference's player of the year. The 6-foot-8 junior led the conference in scoring (22.5), rebounding (9.6) and blocked shots (2.23), becoming the first player ever to lead the Pac-10 in all three categories.

Softball: Ducks lose 4-0 to Long Beach State on Friday

Kathy Arendsen said.

Oregon pitcher Amy Harris took the brunt of the Duck defensive woes as she pitched 6 1/3 innings, giving up two earned runs on six hits and striking out eight.

The Ducks' 2004 First-Team All-Pacific-10 Conference pitcher Ani Nyhus pitched to the last two hitters and struck them both out to end the seventh. Nyhus is still recovering from an arm injury that occurred over the summer.

Next up for the Ducks is Portland State at 3 p.m. Wednesday at Howe Field. Oregon split a pair of games to the Vikings when the teams met earlier this season.

Tennis: Mendiburu capitalizes on opponent's weak forehand

Bak, a Beaverton native, has solidified the bottom half of the singles lineup all season long and improved to a 7-3 singles record with the win.

"I had a really good week of practice," Bak said. "I knew what I had to do. I had a game plan, and I stuck with it."

The 21-year-old said early on that she realized her opponent's weakness and took advantage of that throughout the match.

"I could tell from the beginning that the girl had a weaker forehand, so I was playing to her weakness," Bak said. "I was then able to close it out, and I played my game."

Oregon then took a commanding 5-0 lead when senior Davina Mendiburu closed out Nadja Woschek at the No. 3 position, 6-4, 6-0. Mendiburu has an 8-4 singles record for the season.

Anna Leksinska and Jamie Marshall suffered the only two losses for the Ducks in hard-fought matches. Despite winning the first set, Leksinska lost both the second and tie-breaking third sets against Tiffany Coll, 2-6, 7-5, (10-2).

Marshall nearly came back against Boise State's Carolina Pongratz after losing the first set and taking the second to a tiebreaker. But like Leksinska, Marshall fell short and ran out of gas, losing 6-1, 7-6 (7-0).

The Ducks play two more non-conference matches, both at home in the Student Tennis Center. Oregon faces Princeton at noon on Sunday and Brigham Young at noon March 19. Pac-10 play resumes March 22, when the Ducks travel to take on No. 8 Washington.
