Spring break marked not only the end of the term but the end of an unusual streak of warm and dry weather. The highest temperature recorded was 73 degrees, just four degrees short of the record high for March and a full 17 degrees warmer than the average high of 56 degrees. Even with recent storms, the meager 1.96 inches of rainfall received so far this month is lower than the average 5.80 inches Eugene received in previous years.
