

THE OTHER SIDE OF AUTZEN-AREA LIVING

McKenna Estates and Chase Village defy college apartment stereotypes with quiet environments and numerous amenities

BY CHRIS FUNK
DAILY EMERALD FREELANCE REPORTER

When students think of the apartments by Autzen Stadium, they often imagine a place where Mardi Gras is eternal; a place where residence hall life and the real world combine to create a reality where the center of the universe is a bright, shiny keg. They might also imagine these apartments to be a place where a student lives if he or she wants to neglect academic duties. However, imaginations can often be wrong.

There are two apartment complexes in the Autzen Stadium vicinity that don't cater to the stereotypes of rowdy college apartment living.

These complexes are McKenna Estates and Chase Village.

The location of these complexes is ideal for students. The Lane Transit District bus system provides easy access to and from campus every half-hour from 7:30 a.m. to 6:22 p.m. Autzen Stadium and the University are within walking distance, a blessing to anyone who has attempted to park close to the stadium during game day or tried to find a parking spot on campus before a midday class.

McKenna Estates boasts the largest units of all the apartments near Autzen Stadium. For a one-bedroom apartment, the square footage is
