LAND OBLIGATIONS.

While great fortunes have put it in the power of man to acquire land in great tracts, nature has placed a limit on the ability of even the most capable to manage it properly if it exceed the dimensions which reason and common sense would dictate. It might easily happen, for instance, that one of our modern millionaires should purchase a tract as large as one of our smaller states; and yet the man does not live who could manage a farm the size of the smallest county in the smallest state, in such a way as to get even moderately good results from the whole of it. By a farm is, of course, meant a tract of land suitable for general agricultural, and not a pasture range, which is rightly held in much larger areas. But be the land tillable, pasture, or woodland, the standard of conduct for him who assumes its ownership and management is precisely the same. "Let the earth bring forth grass, the herb yielding seed and the tree yielding fruit;" see that you do not hinder it; do not take the land out of commission; this law is written large in the evident purposes of nature and the needs of the world, and it lays upon the landowner an obligation so sacred and so imperative that it not only demands his best powers of mind and body, but forbids him to undertake more than he can carry out. For he has assumed the kingship of a portion of the universe; he is dealing directly with the forces of nature and of evolution.

A SENATOR OF RIGHT CONCEPT.

During the debate on the tariff bill in the senate, Senator Gore, of Oklahoma, refused to vote for a high tariff on oil though urged to do so by the oil producers of his state. Explaining his refusal, he said:

"I confess there is a good deal of human nature in me. I wish that this cup might pass from my lips. Many of the independent producers in the state of Oklahoma are my personal and political friends. They would render me any possible service, and I would reciprocate. I would render them any possible service that I could without violence to my conscience and my convictions. Perhaps my attitude on this occasion is attributable rather to verdure than to virtue. Perhaps when I have grown older in statecraft, and in political fineness, I may reverse both my views and my policies. Mr. President, I am not unaware that I may now be making a serious, a fatal political mistake, I am not unaware that I may be ordering a political casket. I am not unaware that I may be, like the ancient queen, lighting my own funeral pyre. But, sir, I shall never demand a protective duty in behalf of a product or an industry in my own state until I am willing to concede protection to every other industry in every other state of the American Union."

WHAT WOMAN IS MADE OF.

According to a Hindoo legend this is the proper origin of woman. Twashtri, the god Vulcan of the Hindoo mythology, created the world, but on his commencing to create woman he discovered that for man he had exhausted all his creative material, and that not one solid element had been left. This, of course, greatly perplexed Twashtri and caused him to fall into a profound meditation. When he arose from it he proceeded as follows. He took:

- The roundness of the moon.
- The undulating curve of the serpent.
- The graceful twist of the creeping plant.
- The light shivering of the grass-blade and the slenderness of the willow.
- The velvet of the flowers.
- The lightness of the feather.
- The gentle gaze of the doe.
- The frolicsomeness of the dancing sunbeam.
- The tears of the cloud.
- The inconsistency of the wind.
- The timidity of the hare.
- The vanity of the peacock.
- The hardness of the diamond.
- The cruelty of the tiger.
- The chill of the snow.
- The cackling of the parrot.
- The cooing of the turtle dove.
- All these mixed together and formed a woman.

NOT TOO GOOD

A Missouri editor gives his readers the following good advice:

"Whatever you do, brother, don't get too good. There is a piety that is depressing, and which immediately breeds suspicion and distrust. Most every man has his faults and if our secret acts and thoughts, or even those things people know about us, but which we think they don't know about us, were held up to the public, we would shrink, cut to the quick, and flee and hide our moral and spiritual nakedness.

"Some of us get drunk, and that's bad; some of us are adulterers, and that's bad; some of us lie like dogs, and that's worse; some peddle vile talk, and that's worse, and some of us love money better than we do truth, honor and goodness, and that's worse; some of us cheat, steal and dodge our taxes, and that's 'worse' still, though among the elect it is sometimes considered a virtue.

"But the crowning sin of all this is a hard, unmoving heart and a soul without charity for the frailties of others, which rejoices when others are crucified and which attempts to hide its secret joy with sniffling and pious deprecation. Men dislike such people, and God despises them. No, whatever you do, don't get too good. Heaven is going to be a big surprise party to most of us."

GREAT ACTIVITY AT MONROE

Benton's Southern Metropolis Soon to be Leading Fruit Center---Large Orchards Now Being Planted.

Preliminary survey work on the McFadden and Wilhelm ranches for the purpose of locating boundaries and securing suitable field maps of these parcels for the use of the apple company has just been completed. County Surveyor Wilkes and crew spent ten days on this part of the work, located all corners and marked each one with a personal marker. Within a few days the farms will be divided into five and ten acre tracts, when the real work of the Orchard Company will begin. It is the intention of these people, so our information goes, to place the ground in first-class condition and then to plant all that is suitable to apple trees. As there is 600 acres of such ground, the task will be no small one, and some little time and a large crew of laborers will be required to reach the desired results. However, the land, when once put in shape, will present a fine appearance and will no doubt find ready sale when put on the market.

The Kyle - Persinger - Quick threshing crew completed it labors Thursday. The Misses Cora Hawley and Stella Belknap presided over the bean dish during the season.

W. Eugene Knox, the versatile impersonator, will be in Monroe on Saturday night at Wilhelm's Hall for the benefit of the local camp of the M. W. A. Everybody come and help the boys.

Monroe Camp No. 9795 will hold a meeting on Saturday evening, Aug. 21, in their hall at Monroe. Chas. Cartwright, Consul.

Prunes of the Italian variety will be a very short crop this season. The petites are an average yield. "Uncle Si."

Second Crop of Strawberries

Douglas County is now enjoying its second crop of strawberries. From almost every direction from Roseburg people are bringing in strawberries and find ready market for them at 20 cents a box. This second crop is due to cultivation and comes mostly from non-irrigated lands. Roseburg Douglas County claims the honor of having the first and last strawberries of the season.
