Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Winslow and little daughter leave today for numerous Oregon and Washington points en route East where Mr. Winslow will study for a year. They were over-Sunday guests of relatives in this city, having arrived Saturday evening from an outing at Newport. Both are old O. A. C. students, Mrs. Winslow formerly residing here and is better known to Corvallis people as Jennie Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos S. Parkinson, of Wagner, Oklahoma, arrived here last night to spend several days with relatives and old time friends. He is a cousin of A. H. Campbell, and Mrs. J. Mason and a nephew of Mrs. S. A. Kisor, who left here thirty-three years ago. At the present time Mr. Parkinson is president of one of the Wagner banks, owner of the largest lumbering industry in that city, and for nine years has been a director in the State Lumbering Association. He is past grand master of the I. O. O. F. lodge and just now is en route to Seattle to attend a meeting of the Sovereign Grand Lodge, he being a representative from Oklahoma. Mr. Parkinson finds that Corvallis has changed some in thirty-three years, and he admits that it is for the better. Indeed, he is pleased to see such a charming little city.

THE NEWEST MILLINERY

This season's styles embrace the very best that can be produced and I have several dozen beautiful trimmed hats now ready to display suitable for street and dress wear, in all the leading and most becoming modes.

To please my patrons I have secured the services of an experienced and artistic trimmer who has been for many years at Gage's, Chicago, and in other large cities.

The ladies are invited to call and inspect the new styles now made up, the first to be shown here.

Mr. A. C. Beals and son, Glenn, returned Sunday from a week's visit at the A.-Y.-P. Exposition.

Mrs. J. B. Patrick and children, of Roseburg, arrived Saturday for a week's visit at the Beals home.

Oswald West, who has taken excellent care of his hop crop in this county, says hops are in as good a condition as ever, if not better. He thinks neglect of yards by growers who expected low prices is responsible for the lice and honey dew that is prevalent in the yards about Salem. He blames the weather less and careless and neglectful growers more, and says it will be the growers' fault entirely if they do not get top notch prices for their output.

It is just eight more days till the Lincoln County Fair and Festival says the Toledo Leader. The committees are all getting their work in good shape and before the time is up everything will be in readiness for what promises to be the biggest gathering of people ever assembled in the county. The people are taking the desired interest and exhibits of everything produced in the county will be on exhibit. There will be many prominent visitors from the different sections of the state. Benton county day will bring a special train load from Corvallis and other Benton county towns. Everybody will be entertained and profited by the Fair.

Sol King, grizzled veteran of many summers in the Willamette, is one of the big boosters for Dr. Manns, the chiropodist. About a year ago Mr. King had one of the sorest toes that any man ever looked at, and his expression to the Gazette-Times man is to the effect that he thought his foot was going to rot off. He had been in that shape several weeks when Dr. Manns took hold of the case. That gentleman trimmed up a terrible growth on the side of that large toe, put some kind of goose-grease on it, tied a rag around the sore spot and told Mr. King to leave it there until it came off. Mr. King did so, found his toe healed properly and no difficulty has developed since. The job cost him "four-bits" and has been worth hundreds of dollars to him. Sol King is convinced that any man with sore feet is a fool if he doesn't hustle off to Dr. Manns' place and let him work on his feet.

S. B. Bane, grower of vegetables and fancy chickens, refuses to take a back seat for any Chinaman, and he respectfully suggests that if "House-keeper" will phone him or go to either of the stores he supplies with garden truck, she will be supplied with as fine and as fresh vegetables, including cucumbers, as she ever bought of any Celestial. Mr. Bane says he lived in the midst of Chinese and Italian gardeners, knows the tricks of their trade, and a few more, hence he can and does produce garden truck that is not surpassed by the Albany bunch or the San Jose bunch. He isn't peddling because he has demonstrated that at this time of year it is not worth his while, but he does deliver to people who phone him, and prefers to do that to taking his truck to the local grocery. Mr. Bane says that if "House-keeper," or any other, prefers to buy of a Chinaman, he will disguise himself a little more as he has the brogue and form that will make an ideal Celestial. It is evident that instead of Chinamen, Corvallis needs grocers and growers who will advertise having fresh vegetables.

VICTOR HUGO CELEBRATION.

Statue by Rodin to Be Unveiled-Tragic History of Author's Daughter.
The dedication of a statue of Victor Hugo by Rodin on Sept. 28, the fiftieth anniversary of the publication of the "Legende des Siecles" ("Story of the Centuries"), is to be made the occasion of a week's literary celebration in memory of the great novelist and poet. There will be a ceremony at the Pantheon, a revival at the Comedie Francaise of "Le Roi s'Amuse" with Stravinsky in the part of Triboulet, and a ceremony in front of Notre Dame, with a procession of vagabonds carrying colored torches.

The loge will be reserved at the Comedie Francaise for Adele Hugo, the daughter of the poet, whose sad and tragic history aroused the sympathy of the world. As a girl she was kidnapped at Guernsey by an English officer. Her parents searched Europe for her without obtaining a trace of her whereabouts, when, several months later, a girl was found wandering alone, apparently demented, in the streets of New York. "I am the daughter of Victor Hugo," was all she ever said. She was sent back to France to her parents, but she kept her lips sealed, and the mystery of her martyrdom, perhaps a stranger and more absorbing drama than her father ever wrote, was never revealed. She never entirely recovered her reason and since the death of her father has lived in his villa, morose, solitary and alone, seldom speaking, and never of the past. Occasionally she comes to Paris to witness from the back of a darkened box the reproduction of one of her father's plays, but otherwise she lives in seclusion, having no friends and never receiving visitors.

MEMORIAL TO MISS PHILLIPS.

Children to Contribute Pennies to Shaft on "Miss Santa Claus" Grave.

The thousands of children whose Christmases have been brightened through the work of Elizabeth A. Phillips of Philadelphia, known as "Miss Santa Claus" who recently killed herself by inhaling gas, will have opportunity to express their love for her by contributing pennies and dimes toward a memorial shaft to be erected on next Christmas day over her grave. This work will be directed by the Elizabeth A. Phillips Memorial association, which sprang into existence the other day through the desire of Miss Rose Weintraub, friend and fellow worker of Miss Phillips, to see something done in memory of the dead woman which would be in keeping with Miss Phillips' many years of service in the cause of happiness for others.

Miss Weintraub found willing helpers on every hand. A firm in Philadelphia at her petition will be the depository for the fund. Albert P. Maltby, the Philadelphia manager for an automobile company who used to supply whatever vehicles "Miss Santa Claus" needed to distribute her gifts at Christmas, will be treasurer.

CHURCH WITHOUT MEMBERS.

Clergyman Founds Memorial to His Own Hymn at Rockland, Me.

A church which has as yet not a single member and no congregation save that drawn by curiosity was recently dedicated at Rockland, Me. It is known as Galilee Temple and was founded by the Rev. E. S. Ufford as a memorial to his hymn "Throw Out the Life Line" on the thirtieth anniversary of his ordination.

It was built from the pastor's private funds at a cost of about $3,000 and has nine memorial windows, one contributed by the W. C. T. U. in honor of the late Frances E. Willard and eight in memory of the famous hymn writers. Worldly schemes of money making are barred by the pastor's announcement. Faith in God and the Bible is the creed.

Joke on Senator McLaurin.

Senator McLaurin of Mississippi is perhaps the most gallant member of congress. He never lets an opportunity escape to say nice things about women. They are telling a good joke about him in this connection. The senator and Mrs. McLaurin recently called upon some friends. There they met a congressional friend and his wife. The senator took occasion to compliment the woman several times during the evening upon her good looks, charming gown, etc. The host brought up the subject of politics and handed the senator a newspaper clipping in which reference was made to him. "I will take it home with me, if you don't mind," said the senator. "I neglected to bring my glasses with me, and I am practically blind without them."

Two Boy Kings.

One is a sad little Persian boy,
Latest and least of an inbred line;
The other is romping in riotous joy
Where the bees take toll of the buck-wheat vine.
One has all of a courtier's grace
And speaks with an accent low and sweet;
The other is loath to wash his face
And tracks the floor with his muddy feet.

One has a palace all his own,
With lackeys to meet his every wish;
An old pine stump is the other's throne
Near the lazy stream where he loves to bathe.

One is pale in his gold and lace,
Cursed with a power he does not crave;
The other is rough, with a freckled face,
Seldom silent and never grave.

One as he grows will ever fear
The rending bomb and the bravo's knife;
The other will drink while he lingers here
Long and deep of the wine of life.
Two boy kings, one tame, one wild,
Farted by leagues of rolling sea--
One is a sad little Persian child,
The other monarch belongs to me.
-C. E. Quincy in New York American.
