COUNTY SCHOOL FUNDS HEAVY

LARGEST SUM IN HISTORY OF THE COUNTY.

TOTAL AMOUNT IS $18,500

Supt. H. L. Mack Apportions School Funds to Various Districts, and by Law is Forced to Penalize Fourteen Districts.

Although warrants will not be issued until October 4th, County Supt. Mack has made his apportionment of county and state school funds. The total sum available is $18,710.42, about $3,000 greater than last year's fund and larger than any school fund in the history of the county. The increase in the county fund, over October, 1908, is $1930.72, and in the state fund, $1023.82.

Corvallis gets $5003.50 this year. The amount last year was $4428.31.

Fourteen districts in the county were penalized because of failure to use 85 per cent of money appropriated for teachers' salary. The penalties range from $1.40 to $34.30. The districts might as well have spent the money, for they lose it by not spending it.

The state fund furnishes 25 cents more per capita than last year, a total of $1.85. The county fund, after $100 is paid each organization and $5.00 is allowed for every teacher attending county institute or state association meeting, figures out $2.83 for each child between four and twenty years. The apportionment by districts is as follows:

BIG EASTERNERS LIKED OREGON

BODIES OF EDUCATORS SAW MUCH WORTH WHILE.

WERE AMAZED AT SPIRIT

They Had Little Idea of Extent and Fertility of Country and Expressed Great Pleasure at What They Saw. Pleased With Hospitality.

Oregon as viewed by eastern educators here recently—from the pen of President W. J. Kerr—appeared in Sunday's Oregonian. This article necessarily holds considerable interest for every Oregonian and is here reproduced. Dr. Kerr says:

I have been asked to say something about the educational conventions that were held in Portland during the week beginning August 16, with particular reference to the observations of the attendants upon these conventions regarding the conditions in the Northwest and the opportunities found here for investment and home-building. Regarding the conventions themselves, there would seem little to be said that has not already been published. In summary, attention may be called to the fact that there were, in all three conventions and one conference, an aggregate official attendance of upwards of 300 and approximately as many more visitors, making a total of some 600 or 700.

From Every State.

All the states and territories were represented except Tennessee, Connecticut and North Carolina; besides the District of Columbia, Canada and Porto Rico. The organizations include: The American Association of Farmers' Institute Workers, the Association for the Promotion of Agricultural Science, the Conference of Presidents of Agricultural and Mechanical Colleges the Association of American Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations. Of these, the last is the oldest, having been organized 23 years ago; while the Conference of College Presidents met in Portland for the first time August 17. A permanent organization of the Conference was effected, however, with W. J. Kerr, of Oregon, as president, and Howard Edwards, of Rhode Island, as secretary. Annual sessions are to be held hereafter on the day preceding the convention of the Associations of Colleges and Experiment Stations.

The Purpose.

The Association of American Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations is undoubtedly the most important organization of the kind in the country. It has certainly accomplished more during the last two decades than any other organization in developing the "new education," and in crystallizing sentiment on the question of adapting the system and methods of school work to the needs of modern civilization.

ALSEA VALLEY FARMER HARNESSES SPRING AND MAKES IT DO EVERYTHING BUT BAKE BREAD AND FEED THE PIGS

Courtesy of Pacific Homestead.

John Buster's Alsea Farm Home with Every Modern Convenience.

Great is the Alsea valley. Trees in size almost the equal of the giant Californian Sequoias, crops of grain and vegetable that are record breakers, the spirit to build a $10,000 high school, and the energy and foresight to build one of the best mountain roads in the country, the Alseans are indeed a great people, and their country is worthy of them. The latest from there is that the Alseans are fortifying the valley to resist any invasion of the Japanese, and that Hon. John Buster, is the one farmer 2000 miles from civilization who has every modern convenience at his home. The picture above is of the John Buster home. That gentleman is one of the most progressive, thoroughgoing dairy farmers in Oregon. At first a school teacher, then a pharmacist, and now a farmer, Mr. Buster finds great delight in introducing fine stock and modern methods in his community. Recently he harnessed a spring branch 150 feet above his house and hitched it to a cream separator, wood saw, grain chopper, washing machine and electric light plant near his yard; the little spring branch is doing the work of many men free of charge on the model dairy farm in the Alsea valley where there are no tramps and everybody has some money. In the picture John Buster, Sr. is near the shepherd dog that saves one man's wages. To his left is John Buster, Jr. Upon the grandfather's knee is John Buster sophomore, while John Buster, freshmen, is evidently an after consideration.
