TAFT AND HIS COFFEE

On the wings of the Portland press comes the interesting news that at breakfast Saturday morning President Taft cooled his coffee by blowing on it, at it or over it—but the news is too meager in detail. The remarkable fact, that the President is the first to secure a cup of HOT coffee in Portland seems to have escaped the attention of the paragraphers who, absorbed in the pucker of the Presidential lips, recorded only the fact that he blowed. They even forget to mention whether Mr. Taft found it necessary to blow with force, or whether a soft-pedal blow answered. And what about the time necessary to cool the President's coffee thus? Did he consume one second or ten minutes in blowing his coffee? The public would be glad to know also whether the President blew his coffee while it was in the cup or whether he found it necessary or advisable to pour the coffee into a saucer and blow it there. Did the President lean far over and blow or did he raise the cup or saucer daintily, even jauntily, to his lips and blow in a generally acceptable manner? Did he blow with a hissing noise, or is the President such an expert coffee blower that he is able to reduce the temperature to the proper degree Fahrenheit without making any noise? Above all, did the Presidential smile come off as he blew his coffee?

The Portland press, which is reputed to get all the news even days before it happens, should be careful to get all the news when it does happen. Since the Rose City papers saw fit to mention this incident of the President's visit to Portland, they should have given an anxious public all the details. The Oregonians who cool their coffee by the same means adopted by the President desire to accomplish the result in the most acceptable fashion and would be glad to follow the Chief Executive's lead—but how can they unless the Portland press arises to the emergency and give, even at this late date, the neglected detail?

While the great dailies of Oregon's metropolis are about it they might also tell us what color tie the President discarded his green one for. Is it true that he puts his left sock on first? Does he take sugar in his coffee, and how many lumps? It would be interesting to know the brand of tooth brush he uses and whether he ever used a safety razor. The Portland press really has a great opportunity here, for an anxious following awaits in an agony of suspense. In the meantime they return thanks for even the meager fact that the President did actually blow his coffee.

Booster Girls' Contest

Girls Now Rustling for Subscriptions to G.-T.

Two will Make Trip to California at No Expense.

Contest Open to All. Big Two Weeks' Outing.

Who will represent Benton county in the party of Oregon Booster Girls which will tour California for two weeks during the holidays, is a question whose answer rests with the public in general and with the candidates themselves. The contest is to be a short one, of but a few weeks duration, and it is up to the candidates and their friends to say who shall be the winners.

That the public is becoming interested is attested by the numerous inquiries received regarding the contest and its conditions. Many of the contestants have already received quite a number of votes and the publishing of the standing of the contestants next Thursday will show a large ballot cast in each district. Who will be in the lead is a question that cannot be answered until the count Wednesday night. Every candidate has been furnished with receipt books and will take subscriptions from her friends in person, so the contestant who hustles is the one whose name will grace the top of the list. It is always a help in any contest to be in the lead and any one of the contestants can put herself there by a little work this week. Get there and stay there. An early start is a great help in a contest which will only last but a few weeks at this. A little hustling now will save a great deal of hard work later on.

Get busy among your friends right away. Let them know you are in the contest and out to win. Everyone likes to be on the side of a winner and you can be one of the two. All your friends will be glad to help you win one of these magnificent tours. Get their subscription today.

Ask them to pay a year in advance. They will be saving themselves money and at the same time be helping you. By paying in advance they will be getting the paper cheaper and give you a good boost toward winning one of these tours.

Candidates are required to make semi-weekly reports of subscriptions they have received. People in ordering the paper wish it right away. Reports should be turned in at the office or mailed each Wednesday and Saturday. The standing of the candidates will be published twice a week, Thursday and Monday. Be the leader in your district when the standings are published next Thursday. Remember the contest will only last a short time and it is up to you to see your friends right away.

It is not too late to enter this contest. In fact it has but just started, so if you wish to enter, fill out the nominating coupon and mail it, and receipt books will be furnished you so that you can go to work among your friends at once. Enter now and have your name appear next Thursday when the votes are published. Notify your friends that you have entered and have them save their subscriptions for you.

Hubbard's Lecture Here

"The decay of nations resulted from quitting work to have a good time. We must work and have a good time.

"We never get what we work for we always get some thing better, if we really work.

"Religion should be for the here and now. No man can enter heaven unless he carries heaven in his heart.

"The world is to be ruled by love not violence. Arms have ever failed, and all nations attempting to rule by the sword have gone to decay and oblivion.

President Kerr introduced Mr. Hubbard in words exceptionally well chosen.

$50,000 Spent Before
We Cut a Pattern

In Paris, the famous Mme. Savarie, spends eight months each year studying style and style tendencies.

Four times a year she brings over the costly, imported models which she has bought, which illustrate the newest and best that is known abroad.

Here in Cleveland, our eight Wooltex master designers, with Mme. Savarie's suggestions and models before them, create the new Wooltex styles—distinctive American styles.

The Wooltex style organization costs annually $50,000. $50,000 before we even cut a pattern, so that Wooltex, in style, may lead

Coats . Suits . Skirts . Dresses

For Well Dressed Women

But the extra value in Wooltex garments does not stop with style. It only begins there.

In Wooltex garments we use only extra quality materials—materials selected for the pureness of their all-wool texture, for their silky softness, and for their harmonious colors.

These extra quality materials are cut and fashioned by an organization of trained tailors which it has taken twenty-five years to perfect. No fads or freaks, but the best Parisian ideas, modified and adapted to meet the requirements of American good taste.

Every Wooltex garment is draped on live models to insure flowing lines and graceful fit.

The Wooltex garment which you buy, whether it be a coat, suit, skirt or dress, represents the utmost that is known in style.
