The City and Vicinity

Mr. E. Evans, of near Dallas, is visiting in Corvallis today.

Mrs. W. E. Smith and Mrs. W. H. Diley left today for Hood River as delegates from the local W. C. T. U., to the state convention.

Mrs. J. C. Wells, who recently returned from Oregon City, has bought a lot at the corner of Fifth and Washington streets, and will build at once.

Mrs. L. A. Nash, of Lincoln county, spent some time today with Mrs. Sarah Cauthorn while enroute to Hood River to attend a meeting of the State W. C. T. U.

The Y. W. C. A. reception to O. A. C. students and new ladies of the faculty, at Shepard hall yesterday afternoon, was well attended and heartily enjoyed. No program was rendered, but there were informal pleasures topped off with delicious punch.

There will be a meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the Congregational church tomorrow, Wednesday afternoon, at two o'clock, at the home of Mrs. E. R. Hollister, corner Sixth and Van Buren street. All the ladies of the church are cordially invited to be present at this meeting.

A good citizen ran into a yellow jackets' nest near the Maple Shade yesterday, got mixed up with the business end of these little birds and is now threatening to sue the city. At 6 o'clock tonight Chief Wells and Judge Denman are going to get rid of that yellow jackets' nest. It might be worth while to remember the time.

Last evening the Altar Society held their monthly meeting in the Catholic rectory under the presidency of Mrs. J. N. McFadden. After the usual business had been disposed of it was unanimously decided to hold a bazaar about the middle of November for the benefit of the church building fund. Next Thursday evening at 7:30 an extraordinary meeting will appoint the various committees and arrange the other details of the bazaar. All members are expected to attend.

The first big game of football will be played on O. A. C.'s new field next Saturday at 3:30. This will be a game with the Alumni of O. A. C. Among the old stars promising to be on the field are Bill Dunlap, Rube Williams, Rough Neck Kelly, Peg Cady, Jim Dobbin, Rod Nash, Shorty Gagnon, Bert Bower, "Slats" Brodie, "Pap" Harding, Bert Pilkington, "Skeeter" Swan. There is strong prediction that the Alumni will wallop the first team, but Metzky may have taught the big bunch a few tricks that will make the has-beens sit up and take notice.

three years Corvallis' postal receipts have been going up by leaps and bounds, indicating anew the splendid growth of this city.

Albany's Postoffice

It is interesting to note that Albany with its 7,000 inhabitants and twenty-nine trains daily has postal receipts practically similar in amount to our own. Albany's postoffice receipts for the quarter ending September 30 show a gain of $517.30 over the corresponding quarter a year ago. The receipts of that office during July, August and September, 1908, were $3,307.64, and for the past three months $3824.94.

ORIGINAL BEAUTY PARLORS HERE

Corvallis In a Chicago Paper

Bexell, from Chicago University, is dean of commerce; and Dr. Juliet Greer of Vassar and Chicago University is dean of domestic science.

The legislature of Oregon is generous to the institution, and last year appropriated $360,000 for the regular work of the college; $25,000 for special work at three branch stations; $20,000 for new land; $130,000 for new buildings, and $60,000 for new equipment.

An armory and drill hall, three hundred by one hundred and twenty feet, and fortyfive feet high, made of concrete and steel, with a truss roof, is now being erected, and plans have been adopted for several other new buildings which will make one of the most complete and perfect educational plants in the country. Contracts have already been let for the central agricultural building, 150 by 175 feet in size and four stories high, which will be the center of a group of four uniform structures devoted to the agricultural science. Contracts have also been let for a central heating and power plant, and for a group of propagating houses; and other buildings will be erected as rapidly as appropriations are made.

The institution is one of the numerous "land grant colleges" founded under the authority of the Morrill act of Congress in 1862 and the Hatch act of 1897. As there were no state colleges in Oregon in 1868, the legislature gave the interest upon the educational fund to Corvallis College, a private institution in Benton County, which was then under the control of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. None of the land was sold for a number of years, and the legislature made small annual appropriations for the support of the school. In 1885 the church voluntarily relinquished its claim and the state assumed control. The legislature of that year provided for a permanent location at Corvallis on condition that the citizens "should, within four years, erect on the farm, containing thirty-five acres, in the immediate vicinity of said city, known as the Agricultural College Farm, brick buildings for the accommodation of said State Agricultural College at a cost of not less than $20,000." During the summer of 1887 the corner stone of the building erected by the citizens of Benton County was laid by the governor of Oregon amid imposing ceremonies.

This structure, now known as the Administration Building, was the nucleus around which other buildings soon began to cluster as necessity and growing interest demanded. For a year or two there was ample room, but as the institution grew more land was needed and provided, and, instead of thirty-five acres originally comprising campus and grounds, it now owns 224 acres, and instead of one structure there are now eighteen.

City Council Does Things

two resignations from the Water committee—Mayor Watters and O. J. Blackledge. It was asked that F. L. Miller and V. P. Moses be named to fill the vacancies, and the council acquiesced.

F. J. Porter, city engineer, tendered his resignation that he might attend school. This was accepted on the condition that he continue at his post until his successor is named. The Street committee was instructed to find an engineer.

Judge Denman was instructed to send written notice to the owners of all buildings recently condemned, and for the cleaning up of all property named. He was also instructed to urge the Southern Pacific to remove the debris left from the fire that destroyed the old depot some time ago.

The Water Commission reported $896 on hand and an indebtedness of $1300 resulting from an error of an engineer. The receipts for the quarter were about $11,000 and expenditure about the same.
