The City and Vicinity

Miss Leota Close, of Eugene, arrived last evening for a visit with friends in this city.

Mrs. Rosa Lenger Hall left this morning for Portland where she will take the steamer next Friday for San Francisco, to remain for an indefinite time.

Mrs. N. R. Moore left yesterday for Oakland, Calif., to remain a month or more. Her father, Jacob West, who has been visiting here a couple of months, accompanied her and will remain indefinitely.

Mr. Henry Kleinberg, of Ellensburg, Wash., who married an Albany girl, has 18,000 tons of hay on hand, a corner of it in his country. The result is a higher price for hay, it has now gone up to $22, and it is said that if this is kept the price will go still higher. Being kept off the market, according to the dispatch, has required the shipping of hay in from California.—Albany Democrat.

Died of diphtheria, Thomas A. Geyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Geyer, on 19th and Tyler street, Monday morning, Dec. 13, aged 10 years. The funeral was held this afternoon at 2:30, burial in Odd Fellows cemetery. Rev. Hubbell officiated in the service at the grave. The boy was ill less than a week. The parents have the sincere, heartfelt sympathy of more than their close friends.

During the Willamette's recent rage it was reported that Tony Hanson, a citizen of the Monroe vicinity had come to Corvallis and during a week following had not been seen or heard from. It was thought he was drowned. An item in the Harrisburg Bulletin says: There is a feeling in this vicinity that Tony Hanson is not drowned. It is known that he did not make any of the intended purchases in Corvallis before leaving that place. It is intimated that he was somewhat in debt and it may be that he has taken advantage of the natural supposition of drowning to make for greener fields. However, so long as he has not been seen it must be remembered that all theories are mere guess work. At any rate our people hope to learn that he is still safe and sound.

Graham & Wells'

Dr. Lowe, Monday; Dec. 20.

John Goos was given a license today by the city authorities to operate an express and baggage business within the corporate limits.

There will be a regular communication of Corvallis Lodge No. 14, A. F. and A. M. Wednesday evening, December 15. The annual election of officers will take place and there will be work in the E. A. degree. A full attendance is desired.

Dr. Bell says the Presbyterian chicken dinner at the Danneman house, corner Third and Madison, next Wednesday is going to be worth 65 cents—and of course ministers never tell whoppers or knowingly exaggerate. The ladies are going to offer that 65 cent dinner for 35 cents. For that one day it would seem to be worth while to cut out the home lunch and get a real feed at this Presbyterian affair. It's up to you.

Robert E. Moore, C. & E. engineer, and Mrs. Dora E. Patty were married yesterday evening at 8 o'clock by Rev. S. M. Wood at his home. Both parties have been residents of Corvallis a number of years, are well and favorably known and have the best wishes of many good friends. Mr. Moore has recently built a new house, and it was furnished ready for occupancy by his bride. Robert Moore has been with the C. & E. a number of years, his recent run being between Corvallis and Albany. He is one of the popular boys of the road and his mates all wish him great prosperity and happiness.

A press notice says: "Willard Mack's play of ranch life, 'In Wyoming, as the name would indicate, is a story of the people living in that picturesque section of the national domain. The characters are typical of the sturdy civilization of a new country. Dalby, a splendid old ranchman who dominates the Big Horn Valley; his kind-hearted, but peppery wife; Bob Richards, a fine specimen of the big hearted cow-puncher; Hank Jones, a neighbor who is always sampling wet goods; Willie Settle, the fresh, young drummer, and cowboys, as seen on the frontier, are the principal types that move and live in a play said to be one of the best contributions to the American stage. 'In Wyoming' was one of the best given here last season. This year's company is fully up to the standard. They will appear in Corvallis December 21st."

HOW ABOUT IT?

GAZETTE-TIMES:

The mind of your "dam fool" correspondent seems to have suddenly turned from philosophizing over the tergiversations of the Oregonian to stock breeding. We suggest that you turn over his Saturday's letter in the G.-T. to Prof. Kent, of the dairying department of O. A. C., to ascertain if he knows if that calf produced a strain of bovines that gave the milk of human kindness. It certainly never came the Oregonian's way or it would not have called E. M. such hard names.
ANOTHER DAM PHOOL.

Vote on Greater Corvallis

present tomorrow facts and figures covering all phases of this matter. The present discussion will be ended here with the information desired by the inquirer "representing twenty men" who want to know what advantage it is to the city to annex the Agricultural College grounds. It may be incidentally mentioned here that said inquirer and the twenty expressed the certainty that "such an action would place a burden on us from which we can never hope to recover."

Inquiry from the proper sources (an inquiry that might have been made by any one of the twenty before they arrived at any such a terrible conclusion) revealed the fact that there will be no expense of any sort, no disadvantage in anyway, in said annexation, and there will be the advantage there is in the city exercising police powers over the college grounds. In the past more than a few have escaped arrest by merely stepping over on college ground, which is out of the city limits. Corvallis would not have aught to do with the expense of college sewerage, lights, water or anything else. The property would be the state's and the state would have to look after it as of yore. There is also the probability that there might be a more satisfactory feeling all 'round when it comes to making contemplated improvements about the college. An official utterance on this question will be printed tomorrow.
