DELPHINE JACKSON COMPLETES FIRST YEAR OF ART AT MARYLHURST

Home for the summer after completing a year of schoolwork at Marylhurst College near Portland is Delphine Jackson. "Home" for Delphine is the Klamath Agency residence of Boyd Jackson, Delphine's grandfather and prominent tribal member.)

Delphine began her course at Marylhurst—she is taking Commercial Art—last fall after having completed twelve years of grade and high school at Sacred Heart Academy in Klamath Falls. She graduated at Sacred Heart in May, 1956 with a 2 plus grade average which earned her the salutatorianship for her class.

Delphine states that she selected a Commercial Art major in college because she has always been interested in the field, which interest was cultivated at Sacred Heart by art lessons which began in the sixth grade. She has no regrets about having selected the course, stating: "It's wonderful. I really like the course and I think I was pretty lucky getting into it."

Included in the subjects which she took during the past year, and for which she received above average grades, were English, Drawing (consisting of basic work in color, lines, shapes, etc.), Design, Epistemology and Logic, Physical Education, and Religion. Next year, Delphine expects to get more art courses, including painting, lettering and interior design. The latter is her main interest and the field in which she hopes to place herself following graduation three years hence. She points out, however, that while

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE HOLDS MEETING WITH MGT. SPECIALISTS; AMENDMENTS TO P. L. 587, APPRAISAL DISCUSSED

On June 13, 1957 the Klamath Executive Committee held a joint meeting with the Management Specialists at the office of the Specialists in Klamath Falls. At the meeting, Executive Committee delegates to Washington D. C. Jesse L. Kirk and Boyd J. Jackson discussed progress of the pending amendments to Public Law 587. (See story this page).

The Executive Committee also

EXECUTIVE COM. DELEGATES ATTEND HEARINGS

Klamath Tribal Executive Committee Delegates Boyd J. Jackson and Jesse L. Kirk were in Washington, D. C. the last part of May and the first week in June attending congressional hearings regarding amendments to P. L. 587, the Klamath Termination Act.

The Executive Committee delegates expect that the House will heard a report from the Management Specialists regarding the progress of the appraisal of tribal property. Earl Wilcox, forester for the Management Specialists, reported that the checking done by himself and members of the Bureau of Indian Affairs Forestry staff revealed that the field work done by the appraisers was quite accurate. However, numerous mathematical errors have entered the appraisal after the basic work was done in the field. This has made it necessary for the Secretary of the Interior and the Management Specialists to return the appraisal to the appraisers to be revised and corrected.

The Specialists were unable to tell the Executive Committee when they might expect to receive the results of the appraisal. Mr. Wilcox felt that it would be at least a month before the corrected appraisal would be in the hands of the Secretary of the Interior for final approval.

Per capita payment requested

Another item of business taken care of by the Executive Committee at the June 13th meeting was that of the summer per capita payment. A resolution was

The House of Representatives passed S. 469, the bill providing for certain amendments to P. L. 587 including an extension of the final termination date, on Friday, June 21. The bill which was passed by the House differs in some respects from that which was passed previously by the Senate, and both bills will therefore have to go through a conference committee made up of members of both the House and Senate. This committee will iron out the differences between the two bills and the exact terms of the amended law will then be known. It appears definite at this time, however, that P. L. 587 will be extended another two or three years.

pass the bill when it comes up for a vote the latter part of June.
