Black Opals.

Black opals seem almost misnomers, for while some of the stones are actually black and all of them have a dark body or underground they are really wonderful, flashing, changing masses of color. All the colors of the solar spectrum vibrate through them, some in small pinpoint markings, others in harlequin, peacock and formal designs. Some of them show broad flashes of red, blue, green or purple, which change rapidly from one to another on the slightest change of angle or light. Others exhibit cloud effects and sunsets such as Turner painted and only Ruskin could describe.

Precaution.

That was a wise washerwoman who, on being asked why she had married such an ugly man, said: "I prefer a homely husband that stops at home and wrings my clothes rather than a handsome one who stays away and wrings my heart."—New York Tribune.
