State News

Oregon leads the world in dry farming products. One man, Tillman Reuter, of Madras, with an exhibit, the staging of which cost but $750, went to the Dry Farming Congress at Tulsa, Oklahoma, and absolutely on the quality of the grains, grasses, vegetables and fruits produced by dry farming methods in Oregon, he won the grand sweepstake prize over Canada's $50,000 exhibit over South America, Australia and every other state in the union. The Great Northern and Northern Pacific railways each contributed $250 towards the expenses of the exhibit.

At the Chicago National Dairying Show a yearling Jersey heifer, exhibited by Darrow Stump, the 12-year-old son of J. B. Stump, of Monmouth, Ore., carried off the sweepstake prize over cattle from all parts of the United States. Oregon is going into the great land show to be held in Chicago the later part of this month and it is fully expected that the exhibit, which is probably the best ever assembled by the state, will land the third prize of the series.

Experts declare that Oregon has the best climate in the world for the production of flax and they predict that flax and flax mills will be to Oregon what cotton mills have been to the south. A co-operative manufacturing firm is being promoted at Salem and it is expected to begin operations within the near future. Coarse crashes and twines for sewing wheat bags and for making nets will be the first articles turned out, but as soon as a market can be developed the finer grades will be produced, such as linen, damask, table cloths and towels. About 1500 acres of flax will be needed to supply the first year's output of the factory. The theory that flax impoverishes the soil is an exploded theory, it is declared. On the contrary, it prepares the soil for heavy succeeding crop.

That the Dalles-Cellilo Canal will be completed and ready for the passage of boats in about another year is the opinion of F. C. Schubert of the United States engineers, who has had charge of the work. With nearly all of the government appropriation available, labor plentiful and weather conditions favorable, the work is being pushed forward faster than ever before and unless the June rise of the Columbia is unusually great, it is believed that next fall will see boats passing freely from Portland to points on the Upper Columbia and Snake rivers.

One acre of celery, grown a short distance west of the city of Hood River, is being gathered and marketed, mostly in Portland, and the truck grower expects to receive not less than $2000 from the crop. In addition to celery he is raising tomatoes and peppers, both of which are extremely profitable.

Editor St. Helens Mist—

My Dear Sir—I have missed several copies of the Mist, but owing to a late issue which fell upon me one evening of late I saw an extended reference of a friend whom I have missed for several years. I was glad indeed to learn that "Norm" was doing well and that the people of St. Helens had come to know him so well, as is indicated in the reference to him as a man whom all are trying to induce to become your next mayor, for if Norm will consent to run, unless he has changed very much, he will be elected. He was quite a humorist in this country and many times his friends insisted upon his entertaining them at public recitals where he was especially at home in song and humorous recitation, though he disliked vaudeville. He has yet some quaint production of "Honest John Clark," an original composition, but here's to Mayor Larabee. His many friends here will be glad to know of the esteem in which he is held there, and he has many here, for he was never in a serious difficulty but once that the writer is aware of, and that was when he persuaded one of our best loved girls to unite her fortune with his, but it was the making of Norm for he realized that he had to make good to justify the choice she made.

Truthfully yours,
C. E. Densmore.
