THE SECRET OF SUCCESS

Genuine Merit Required to Win the People's Confidence.

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgot-ten? The reason is plain—the article dld not fulfil the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particu-larly to a medicine. A medicinal pre-paration that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recom-mended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it. A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy that I know has so large

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact that it fulfils almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder diseases, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

A ROMANCE OF STRENUOUS AFFECTION REX BEACH SUCCESTED BY THE PLAY BY REX BEACH AND PAUL ARMSTRONG Illustrated By Edgar Bert Smith COPYRIGHT 1910 BY HARPER & BROTHERS

SYNOPSIS.

Cowboys of the Fiying Heart ranch are heartbroken over the loss of their much-prized phonograph by the defeat of their champion in a foot-race with the cook of the Centipede ranch. A house party is on at the Flying Heart. J. Wallingford Speed, cheer iesder at Yale, and Culver Covington, inter-collegiate champion runner, are expected. Helen Illake, Speed's sweetheart, becomes interested in the loss of the phonograph. She suggests to Jean Chapin, sister of the owner of the ranch, that she induce Covington, her lover, to win back the phonograph. Helen declares that if Covingion won't run, Speed will. The cowboys are hilarious over the prospect. Speed and his valet, Larry Glass, trainer at Yale, arrive. Helen Blake asks Speed, who has posed to her as an athlete, to race against the Centipede man.

Speed beheld an undersized man of indeterminate age, hollow-chested, thin-faced, gravely benignant. It was not alone his glasses that lent him a scholarly appearance; he had the stooped shoulders, the thoughtful intensity of gaze, the gentle, hesitating backwardness of a book-raised man. Speed acknowledged the introduction pleasantly, while the benevolent little man blinked back of his lenses. Stover addressed himself to Miss

"But I'm not in condition," objected the youth.

"Mr. Glass said you was never better than you are right now. Anyhow, you don't have to bust no records to beat this cook. He sin't so fast."

"It would sure be a kind-hearted act if you'd do it for us," said the little man in his high, boyish voice. It was a shock to discover that he spoke in a "There's a heap of sentiment connected with this affair. You see, outside of being a prize that we won at considerable risk, there goes with this phonograph a set of reecords, among which we all have our special favorites. Have you ever heard Madam-o-sella Melby sing The Holy

"Take it from me, she did, and you've missed a heap." "You bet," Stover agreed, in a ously funny, Still Bill's shoulders heaved, and stifled laughter caused his Adam's apple to race up and down his leathern throat. Swallowing his merriment at length, he recited, in a choking voice, as follows: "Silas goes up Fifth Avenoo and climbs into a bus. There is a girl settin' opposite. He says, 'The girl opened her valise, took out her purse, closed her valise, opened her purse, took out a dime, closed her purse, opened her valise, put to her purse, closed her valise, handed the dime to the conductor, got a nickle in change, opened her valise, took out her purse, closed her valise, opened her purse-'

At this point the speaker fell into ungovernable hysteria and exploded, rocking back and forth, slapping his thighs and hiccoughing with enjoyment. Willie followed him, as did Carara. Even Cloudy showed his teeth, and the two young people on the porch found themselves joining in from infection. It was patent that here lay some subtle humor sufficient to convulse the Far Western nature beyond all reason; for Stover essayed repeatedly to check his laughter before gasping, finally;

"Gosh 'imighty! I never can get past that place. He! He! Whoohoo! That's sure ridic'lous, for fair.' He wiped his eyes with the back of a sun-browned hand, and his frame was racked with barking coughs. "I know the whole blame thing by heart, but-I can't recite it to you. I bog down right there. Seems like some folks is the darndest fools!"

"You see what the phonograph means to these gentlemen," said Miss Blake. "I think it's a crying shame that they were cheated out of it, don't lie, earnestly. "Amen!" breathed the lanky foreman, his cheeks still wet from his tears of laughter, but his face drawn into lines of eagerness.

"Please! For my sake!" urged Helen, placing a gentle little hand upon her companion's arm.

Speed closed his eyes, so to speak, and leaped in the dark.

"All right, I'll do it!"
"Yow-ee!" yelled Stover. "We knew you would!" Willie was beaming be-nignantly through his glasses, while both Carara and Cloudy showed their heart-felt gratitude. "Thank you, Miss Blake. Now we'll show up that shave tail Centipede crowd for what it is."

Wait!" Speed checked the outburst. "Pil consent upon conditions. I'll run, provided you can arrange the race for an 'unknown.' "

"What does that mean?" Heler asked.

"It means that I don't want my name known in the matter. Instead of arranging for Mr. Whatever-the-Cook's Name Is to run a race with J. W. Speed, he must agree to compete against a representative of the Flying Heart ranch, name unknown." "I don't think that is fair!" cried the girl. "Think of the honor." "Yes, but I'm an amateur. I'd lose "That goes for us." said Stover. "We don't care what name you run under. We'll frame the race. Lordy! but I'll let him run."

this is a glorious event."

The fat man

"We can't thank you enough," Willie piped. "You're a true sport, Mr. Speed, and we aim to see that you don't get the worst of it in no way. This here race is goin' to be on the square-you hear me talkin'. No double-cross this time." Unconsciously the speaker's hand strayed to the gun at his belt, while his smile was grim.

Stover. Wally rapidly calculated the date of Culver's arrival, and said:

"A week from Saturday." Covington would soon be en route, and was due to arrive a few days thereafter.

"One week from Saturday goes," announced Stover, "and we thank you again." Turning to Carara, he direct-"Rope your buckskin, and hike for the Centipede. Tell 'em to unlimber their coin. I'll draw a month's wages in advance for every son-of-agun on the Flying Heart, and we'll arrange details tonight."

"Si," agreed Carara. "I go. "And don't waste no time neither," directed Willie. "You tear like a jackrabbit ahead of a hot wind."

Carara tossed his cigarette aside and the sound of his spurs was lost around the corner of the house. "This makes a boy of me," the last speaker continued. "I can hear the plaintiff notes of Madam-o-sella Melby once again."

CHAPTER V.

ARRY GLASS discovered his protege on the rear porch engrossed with Miss Blake, signaled him from afar; but the young man ignored the signal, and the trainer strolled up to the steps. "Hello, Larry! What's on your mind?" inquired Speed.

"I'd like to see you." Glass, clad in his sportlest garments, seemed utterly lacking in the proper appreciation of a valet's position. He treated his employer with a tolerant good-nature.

Miss Blake excused herself and went into the house, whereupon her

"Oh, that's all right," wheezed the trainer. "As long as you didn't spill her out, she'll be back."

"Well, what is it?" "I had a stomach-laugh slipped to me just now." He began to shake. "So you broke up my tete-a-tete to tell me a funny story?" "Listen here. These cowboys have got you touted for a foot-runner." This time Glass laughed aloud, hoarsely. They have framed a race with a ginny down the block."

"All right, I'll run." Mr. Glass's face abruptly fell into solemn lines. "Quit your kiddin', wally; you couldn't run a hundred Stomach Bitters yards in twenty minutes. These guys are on the level. They've sent General Garcia over to cook it."

"Yes. The race comes off in ten days." Glass allowed his mouth to drop open and his little eyes to peer forth in startled amazement. "Then it's true? I guess this climate is too much for you," he said. "When did you feel this comin' on?"

Speed laughed. "I know what I'm doing." With an effort at restraint, the trainer inquired:

"What's the idea?" "I'll tell you how it came up, Larry.

-I'm very fond of Miss Blake. That's why I broke the record getting out here as soon as I was invited. Well, she believes, from something I saidone of those odd moments, you know that I'm a great athlete, and she told those cowboys that I'd gladly put on my spiked shoes and carry their colors to victory. You've heard about the phonograph?"

Glass smiled wearily. "I can't hear nothing else. The gang is daffy on grand opera."

"When I was accused of being an athlete I couldn't deny it, could I?" "I see. You was stringin' the gal, and she called you, eh?"

"I wouldn't express it in quite those terms. I may have exaggerated my abilities slightly." Glass laughed. "She is such a great admirer of athletics, it was quite natural. Any man would have done the same. She got me committed in front of the cowboys, and I had to accept-or be a guitter."

Glass nodded appreciatively. "All the same," said he, "you've got more nerve than a burglar. How you goin' to side-step?"

"I made the match for an 'unknown." Speed winked. "Covington

The fat man sighed with relief. "Now I'm hep. I was afraid you'd try to go through with it. You had me wingin' for a while, but I plugged your game with the cowboys. Pawnee Bill and his Congress of Rough Riders think you're a cyclone." "

"It's the first chance I ever had to wear that silk running-suit. Who knows, maybe I can run!"

"Nix, now! Don't kid yourself too far. This thing is funny enough as it stands."

"Oh, I dare say it looks like a joke to you, but it doesn't to me, Larry. If I don't marry that girl, I-I'll go off ing to overlook any advantage whatever. Fresno sings love songs, and he's got a mint of money. Well, I'm going to work this athletic pose to death. I'm going into training, I'm going to talk, eat, sleep, live athletics for a week, and when I'm unexpectedly crippled on the eve of the race, it is going to break my heart. Understand! I am going to be so desperately disappointed that I'll have to choose between suicide and marriage. The way I feel now, I think I'll choose mar-

"Miss Blake, did I ever tell you about the time I sang Dearle to the mayor's daughter in Walla Walla?" Miss Blake appeared on the gallery with her musical admirer at her elbow. "Yes," said she, sweetly. "You told me all about the mayor's daughter a week ago." Then spying Speed and his companion, she exclaimed: "Mr. Fresno has a fine voice, hasn't he? sings with the Standard Glee Club." "Indeed."

"Sure!" The Native Son of the
