Mrs. L. D. Weeks, of St. Helens, Oregon, is spending the week in Raymond, visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. Sprague. Mrs. Weeks reports the birth of a bouncing baby boy to her youngest son and wife. Grand ma Weeks is very proud of her first grandchild. This makes Mr. and Mrs. Sprague great grand parents. Mrs. Sprague's mother, Mrs. R. P. Kellogg of Charles City, Iowa, is still living at the advanced age of 89 years, and she is the great grandmother of the new Oregon boy. —Raymond.

In the Mist 20 Years Ago

September 25, 1891.

Several new houses are being built at Houlton. St. Helens might pattern after her next door neighbor in this respect.

The houses of S. A. Miles and F. A. Moore have lately been treated to a fresh coat of paint, adding greatly to the appearance of the two. Mr. Will Powell of Pettsburg started on Saturday last for the state normal school at Monmouth where he expects to graduate this year. Mr. Powell has attended school at Monmouth for the past two years.

A. H. Blakesley has been engaged of late in scraping out a ditch in his swale just back of town so that he will be able to plow and plant a great deal earlier in the spring in the future. This tract is a very productive one when it is properly drained so that it can be seeded early in the spring.

Quite an excitement was caused in St. Helens on last Friday morning by the report that a sea serpent had been seen in the river the night before and again that morning. The parties who saw it declare that it was no sea lion, and its head and neck were shaped like that of a rattlesnake, that it rushed up and down through the water at a rapid rate. One gentleman, who is not easily excited, declares that it was a strange animal in these parts and thinks it can be none other than a genuine sea serpent.

Under the new survey just completed for the Astoria-Goble railroad it is found that the road can be built for $1,050,000. This estimate was found by taking the survey mile by mile and an estimate of each mile made separate, showing the amount of cutting, filling, trestle or bridge work required, and the probable cost of the same. Dr. Kinney in this connection said: "Contracts could, in nearly every instance, be let for lower figures than estimated." For this reason he believes that the entire cost would be considerably under $1,000,000.
