YOU CAN'T

You can't accumulate money without self-denial. Are you looking forward to the day when you will have all you now want and deluding yourself with the idea that you will then begin to accumulate money? That day will never dawn for you. Each day will bring a new want and if you continue to indulge in them your life will end in want. Indulgence to-day means for you future want, while self denial to-day means future indulgence. Start a self denial Account to-day. Watch over it now and in the years to come, it will watch over you.

—Said a wise old Arab "He that sleeps without supper gets up without debt."
