OOR BOYS MAKE GOOD

Every boy who thinks he "has no chance" on account of the handicap of poverty, should be encouraged by the following examples of eminent Americans—all poor boys—who became prominent in different lines: Jay Gould was a poverty-stricken farmer. George W. Childs was a bookseller's errand boy at a salary of $4 a month. John Wanamaker started in business on a salary of $1 and a quarter a week. Andrew Carnegie began life on a weekly salary of three dollars. Abraham Lincoln was a poor farmer's son. Andrew Johnson was a tailor's apprentice boy, and learned to read after he was married. James A. Garfield was a poor widow's son, and as a boy drove mules on a towpath of an Ohio canal." Opportunities present themselves every day and the boy or man who is wide awake and takes advantage of them is bound to succeed. "Bunyan found opportunity in the Bedford jail to write the greatest allegory of the world, on the unwisted paper that had been used to cork his bottles of milk. Michael Angelo once found a piece of discarded Carrara marble among waste rubbish, beside a street in Florence, which some unskilled workman had cut, hacked, spoiled and thrown away. No doubt many artists had noticed the fine quality of the marble and regretted that it should have been spoiled. But Michael Angelo saw angel in the ruin, and with his chisel and mallet he chiseled out of it one of the finest pieces of statuary in Italy, his young David. An observing barber in Newark, N. J., thought he could make an improvement in shears for cutting hair, invented clippers and became rich. A Maine man was called in from the hayfield to wash clothes for his invalid wife. He had never realized what it was to wash clothes and finding the method slow and laborious, he invented the washing machine and made a fortune." All of us may not become Bunyans or Michael Angelos, but every boy in this school can resolve to learn all he can, so that when the time for his parole comes, he is equipped for taking his part, if only in a humble way at the start, in the world's work, says Good Housekeeping.

WHY PRINCE ALBERT WINS

Smokers so much appreciate the flavor and coolness and aroma of Prince Albert pipe and cigarette tobacco that they often marvel that this one brand could be so different from all others.

The answer to this question is to be found on the reverse side of every Prince Albert package, where you will read: "Process Patented July 30th, 1907." That tells the whole story. Prince Albert is made by a patented process that cuts out the bite and parch, which makes the tobacco so mighty agreeable and satisfying to men of every taste of every civilized nation on the globe.

Smokers should realize that this patented process cost three years' continuous work and study and a fortune in money to perfect. But the result has proven to be worth all that was expended upon it, because it has set free men who believed they never could enjoy a pipe or a makin's cigarette.

Prince Albert makes it possible for every man to smoke a pipe or to roll his own cigarettes. And, no matter how tender the tongue, Prince Albert cannot bite or parch. That is cut out by the patented process, leaving for the smoker only the joys of the fragrant tobacco.

It is a fact that since Prince Albert "arrived," just about six years ago, it has made three men smoke pipes where one smoked a pipe before!

Elsewhere in this issue we publish a list of premiums to be awarded in the school department of the Columbia County Fair, to be held next September. While the exact date has not yet been fixed, this list is published before said time in order to give the boys and girls an opportunity to compete for the various premiums. Cash premiums and better ones than most fairs offer. Read the list carefully, select the premium you want and then get busy. Prof. Allen believes in taking time by the bangs and has published the school list in advance of the regular premium list.

STATE FAIR BADLY MANAGED

Declaring that the revenues of the Oregon State fair have been handled in an "unsystematic and confused manner" and that there has been a "woful lack of auditing and safeguarding the disbursement of state fair funds," John Y. Richardson, expert accountant of Portland, submitted his report on the audit of the books of W. Al Jones, ex-secretary of the fair board, to Governor Withycombe.

The report shows that, contrary to the belief that the last state fair netted a profit of more than $8000, a deficit of $1592.29 was incurred. The audit discloses that the total receipts during the year of the fair amounted to $40,679.66 and disbursements $41,271.95.

The report declares that invoices were rarely approved by any of the fair officials, that employees who collected money were not required to submit detailed reports; that unauthorized contracts were made and that warrants were signed in blank by both the president of the board and the secretary. Though the law requires the treasurer of the board and all others handling fair funds to furnish a bond, it is pointed out that this provision was not observed until A. H. Lea, the present secretary, filed a bond with the state treasurer recently.

"From our examination we are forced to the conclusion," reads the report, "that there has been a decided lack of organization and equipment in the conduct of the state fair under the state fair board."
