

THE FOG HORN

Issued now and then for the edification of those we know.

L. Tarbell, president of the Columbia County Fair Association, tells us that the pen is still mightier than the sword. We recall the fact that he is the champion pig raiser in the county.

E. Lynch says world peace is possible if you have a family of six children.

Sten, who is a great advocate of peace, says there is one great thing now in the way—war.

Someone asked Double E. Quick if he was pro-German or pro-ally. His reply was that he was neutral in prohibition.

A sculptor in Washington who is making a bust of President Wilson is evidently in partnership with the triple alliance—Hughes, and Taft. St. Helens' three cents please note.

Milroy of Scappoose, says he heard of some men who were tried for everything they couldn't do.

Dorris wishes us to say he is now keeping a dairy—so much happened since the first of the year that he has used up all of the year.

O'Connor says that he read an astronomer who has discovered that stars have doubles. He says this is a very handy affair as it stays out all night and blazes like the other.

D. Larrabee in his spare time writes the Proverbs. He is going to write some of his own. Here's his latest: It's all right to have a plan of your own, but I know people who are so original that they are all alone.

Mr. — says his mother-in-law is visiting him anyhow. Whose mother-in-law has just arrived?

Manager Ed Ballagh of the White Sox has issued the following bulletin to his ball players, just to instill a little more pep in them:

"Though mighty deeds you may have done,

Keep hustling just the same,

Remember that last year's home run

Don't count in this year's game."

"Dick for Dads" is one of the most patriotic men in St. Helens. On the Fourth he made a beautiful display of flags in his show window and then to intensify his patriotism, he wore a pair of striped socks.

Strom, the picture show man wanted to go to the beach but couldn't make arrangements, so he consoled himself with the following touching poem:

"The wish often comes to me

To enjoy the breeze of the deep blue sea,

But I'm as busy as busy can be,

So I'll cool myself with "B. V. D."

Fred Morgus says when a car is properly tuned up, the speed cop is liable to make you free the music.

A well known doctor in town gave us this one: "A woman should not talk too long about her 'operation.' She should remember there might be others present who wish to discuss their 'operations.'"

Some people like the Fog Horn; some don't; so it won't appear again until next week.

Clyde Sutherland says he knows some men who are nearsighted, and then some others who can't see you unless they want something.
