CANADIAN VETERANS ON SHORT VISIT HERE

Returned Soldiers Saw Much Hard Fighting Overseas

Sidney Searles, aged 25 and D. C. Searles, aged 22, Canadian veterane, were here this week on a visit to their cousin. Mrs. Louise Black. Both of the boys enlisted in Calgary, Alof the boys entitled in Chigary, Al-berts, early in 1916 and were sent overseas in April, 1916 with the 175th Canadian battalion. Arriving in England, the battalion was broken up and they were assigned to the sist battalion, which was then being again recruited after having lost most of its officers and men.

most of its officers and men. Both of the boys saw active serv-ice, in fact, after hearing some of their stories, very active service. They were at the battle of Vimy Ridge and in the first wave to go over the top. It was a stubborn fight but the artillery had wrought such havoc with the Germans, that the bandians took the ridge and held tr avod with the Germans, that the anadians took the ridge and held it, ithough at a great cost. Both were he in the great struggle at Ypres and the battle of St. Eloi. Sidney reeived wounds in this battle and at pres, was gassed. His brother fared setter and lost only a part of a finghoulders. This was the closest call the had during the whole fight. The older boy cannot recall much of the fighting. He said that it beemed that he had lost his memory. He attributes this to shell shock and he long service in the trenches. His tair has turned gray and a broken ight foot still bothers him. The The ight foot still bothers him. The ounger soldier was sent home a few months before the armistice was igned. He had a bad attack of rench fever and was recuperating hen peace came

Do Not Think of Death

The soldiers who had gone over top so many times, were asked it was the feeling just before hat naking a charge and at the time. Idney said that after the first few mes soldiers lost all sense of fear ad went out and over with just the ame feeling as one starts to work. ost all consciousness of danger and rent about the business of killing ermans. The younger brother, who a well educated fellow and a plendid talker, said "It's no trouble r bother to go over the top. A fel-pw knows he's going over at a cer-ch time and he wants the time to ome so he can start. Of course, a nan might get a little nervous before he start, but after he is started, he brgets everything except to kill mans and try to keep them from ling you." He said that the worst lling you. eling that comes to a soldier is to e lying in a "funk hole" or in the rench waiting for the Germans to harge them and knowing that they re coming. "A man can't help but tet a little nervous then" he said, but he loses it when he sees the quare heads coming over and begins get busy with his machine gun or

Americans Were Big Help Both of the soldiers give all credit Both of the soldiers give all credit to the American troops. They say that the Americans arrived just in time and were good fighters. To a certain extent, they were like the Canadians because they fought "In-dian style" and every man looked out for himself. In this respect, the English soldiers were somewhan handicapped for as the elder Searles expressed it "they were always right under the command of their officer-and seemed to have no initiative."

and seemed to have no initiative." "The Canadian," he said, "when in battle, fought their own peculiar style of fighting and the Germans feared them more than either the English or Australians."

Americans in Canadian Army

In their battalion were severa, Americans who joined the Canadian army just for the love of fighting, and both of the Searles say that the American cow-punchers from the west were "some fighters." It is stated that almost 25,000 Americans loined the Canadian army soil of joined the Canadian army, and all vere good fighters. That the German troops had been

That the German troops had been mislead by their officers as to Ameri-ca's sympathy and help for the allies was established by captured Ger-mans. Young Searles stated that he had talked with prisoners after hav-ing assisted in capturing them, and they (the prisoners) thought Ameriwas coming to help the Germans. When they found out that the doughboys were on the ground and ready to help the Germans, the morale of the kalser's army was badly shaken up

Stories are True

The stories printed as to the atrocities of the German soldiers, both as to the military and civi, population, are true and each of the soldiers told of incidents they had seen which would bear out the truth. Germans from the different parts of Germany were quite dif-ferent, according to the younger Searles. Some of the "square heads" were "quite decent" he said. He had known of many instances when stretcher bearers had not been molested when bringing the wound-ed men in from No Man's Land. In other instances, he had seen the stretcher bearers shot down when succoring the wounded, and in other instances, he had seen soldiers wearing the white band or the Red Cross band around their arms, shot down when helping the wounded. Glad War is Over

Both of the soldiers are thankful that the war is over and they can return to the stock ranch in Alberta. The younger man is glad he had the The younger man in glad more of it. experience, but wants no more of it. "all and the elder brother says it "all seems like a dream to him." A third brother, who went at the same time, is in a convalescent hospital in Vancouver. He has been wounded severe-ly several times and will probably be an invalid the remainder of his life. All of the soldiers expect to go to their farm and re-begin life. Canada Provides for Soldiers

The Canadian government, when discharging a soldier, allows six months "post pay" and the pay of a private is about $35 per month. The soldiers say this amount will keep them going until they have again be-come settled in their before-the-wan ocupations. Both of the boys are happy that they played a part h. conquering the world's menace and the hardships endured and the dan-gers faced are now almost forgotten in the plans they have for the future. The soldiers had a pleasant visit in St. Helens and left for their northern home Thursday morning.

CRAZY MAN INSISTS ON BEING JAILED

About 6:30 Wednesday evening, a young man came to the court house and inquired for the sheriff, saying he had committed a crime and wanted to give himself up. The sheriff not being there, Harrison took him to the jail, searched him and locekd him up. He said he was hungry, so a lunch was procured for him. After eating he sat quiet-ly for some little time when he sudly for some little time when he sud-denly got up from his seat and started for one of the inmates of the jail, and a desperate struggle commenced. It took the combined efforts four men to get him into one of the cells. The struggle lasted for fully cells. The struggle lasted for fully 15 minutes and every little while all hands would stop for a rest, and like the fellow who ran from the ghost, as soon as they sot their breath, they would go at it again. At one time it seemed that he would get away altogether.

get away allogether. After it was all over and the boys had got through laughing at the way he came for Ed. Miller, Owen Carley said "Fine, bring us a wild man every day; we need the exercise, only next time put the gloves on him so we can do it right." The young man gives his name as
