

DAYLIGHT LAW KILLED

Washington, Aug. 20.—Repeal of the daylight savings act was accomplished today, the senate voting to sustain the house in passing the repeal measure over President Wilson's vote. The vote was 57 to 19.

The repeal of the law becomes effective after the clocks are turned back to normal in October. It is one of the very few measures which have twice been vetoed by a president and have become laws in spite of the veto.

Agitation for repeal of the daylight savings law first came from farmers, but recently had been buttressed by labor unions, mothers, clubs, rural school authorities and many other interests. Urban opinion also has become divided and officials of many cities and smaller towns have come out against the law. Congress has been flooded with petitions for repeal of the law in collision with a counter flood urging retention of the statute.

Loss of time in farm labor is the principal objection raised to the law. This complaint comes principally from farmers employing hired hands and, opponents of the law declare, all farmers, at some time during the summer season, are employers of labor and suffer from the law.

The complaint of loss of labor is based principally on the shortening of the working day on the farm by the advancing of the clock one hour from March to October. The farmers' complaints declare they cannot adjust farm work to the advanced time because, with the clock advanced an hour, farm work cannot be begun as early in the morning as under the normal time schedule and must close an hour earlier. This is because the dew on the ground in the early morning prevents plowing and other farm labor under the advanced time schedule.

Farm hands hired men, etc.—It is contended, will not work after 6 p. m., clock time, or at most 7 o'clock. Advancing of the clock an hour therefore, it is declared, causes a loss of an hour's working time at the end of the day.
