

The QUALITY STORE

BARGAINS in FOOTWEAR

This week we are making a Drive Sale on Men's Shoes and Sandals. We have them in all sizes for MEN, WOMEN and CHILDREN

We have them to fit the smallest kiddie or the largest grownup. After all there is nothing quite so easy or satisfying to the tired feet as a light shoe or a dainty sandal.

FOR SPORT and OUTING

They have no equals. Drop in at our store and let us show you the splendid line we have, and at prices that are bound to sell them out quickly. It is not a question of how many shoes we sell, but how WELL we can SERVE you. Come in and look us over.

MIST MISTINGS

A baby girl was born to the wife of H. A. Cook of this city Thursday, May 20th.

Judge and Mrs. N. F. Hanes were visiting St. Helens yesterday in Portland the first of the week.

John Logan, a well known Portland attorney was in St. Helens Monday on legal matters.

Mrs. Theresa Ford of Astoria is here on a visit to her niece, Mrs. A. C. Marston and Miss Olga Hillman.

No quarrel appearing between the two girls was so reported yesterday, the quarrel being taken over last Monday night.

Ladies will remember that of brother and carrying a number of passengers, the steamer "Wahkiakum" sailed Monday night bound for the Bay city.

Mrs. Mary Myers who has been gone all for the past week, is now home, and a lot of friends are glad to see her.

Some winter snow was reported around in the upper Nehalem district the latter part of last week and reports the roads in that section is being good condition.

A. L. Myra, Columbia county truck inspector, departed Monday on an annual inspection tour which will take him over quite a section of the lower part of the county.

David M. Wilson and Edward E. Wood, vice-president and cashier, respectively, of the First National bank at Seaside, were business visitors in the county yesterday.

The Mist has a political aspect this week, which for the time being has subsided in relation to a purveyor of news. However, the starting is probably over and the future will see the Mist right on the job of grabbing off the news from them.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Williams of London, Ontario, are here on a visit to their daughter, Mrs. A. J. Ford.

J. M. Rodgers of Portland was a special guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Marston. Mr. Rodgers is in charge of the business service and is in charge of the business service and is in charge of the business service.

A lady good acquaintance attended the funeral Monday night in the city hall to hear Judge McGowan of Portland and B. H. Rosenthal of San Francisco discuss the presidential election from a liberal standpoint.

The ladies in a formal and entertaining public speaker and both gentlemen were certain that the only way the country can be saved is to nominate and elect William Howard Taft.

Captain and Mrs. Oren Shepherd had as their guests for a week-end fishing trip, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Miles and Mr. and Mrs. James Walgreen.

The captain's steamer "Takama" took the party down river to Oak Point, Washington, Saturday evening and before they came home Sunday evening, the party had taken 250 fish from the Nagayuki creek.

It is presumed that all of the trout were cooked and eaten on the boat, as none were in evidence when they reached St. Helens.

"MARY PEGAN"

From LeRoy Scott's Sensational Novel of New York Life.
When Big Business, seeking relaxation, squanders its swollen profits on Big Pleasure, New York's whole glittering underworld dances to its whim.
Strong men craving excitement, cunning men of doubtful past, beautiful women without memories or hopes swirl through the glittering palaces of night, recklessly squandering health, morals, reputations and hard earned fortunes.
To play with the devils of Big Pleasure means the opening of the Golden Doors to the woman who has brains, beauty and nerve, as Mary Pegan.

GLORIA SWANSON In a scene From
CECIL B. DeMILLE'S "MALE and FEMALE"
A Paramount Aircraft Picture

"MALE AND FEMALE"

So Fate seized them—a snobbish family of British blue-bloods. Cast them on an island where the voice of the world was lost. Tumbled them, lord and butler, lady and scullery maid, into a common mass of males and females. Laughed at their former glories, their former handicaps, pointed to an untamed jungle, ruled only by wild beasts, and said: "Now we shall see who rules." Then the butler, because he was a man, became a king; and the great lady who once disdained him, served him, loved him—fought with a slave for his kiss!
One day a ship! Rescue! Home! The old world and its old ways. Its pride, conventions, shallow distinctions. Did the true love, the true leadership, of the wilds hold then? Come and see.

A romance that searches deep into human hearts. A picture poignant, powerful, tremendous in its scope, superb in its artistry.

DUSTIN FARNUM
—IN—
"The Light of the Western Stars"

Under the kerosene lights of little half-baked cow town he made the drunken resolution to wed the first girl he met. He found her in the waiting room of the miserable little depot and then there came the old padre to make them man and wife—then under the cold steel of the western stars he found the girl for repentance and regret for his wife proved to be the highly refined and accomplished sister of his employer and he was only a rough and ready knight of the saddle—except for the background of the best stories from the life of Zane Gray. Of course there is a happy ending but the events that crowd the story before the two characters most concerned find themselves furnish thrills to satisfy the old padre to make them man and most exacting movie fan. Dustin Farnum at his best—and that's what you get out of a lot.
