

DILLARD'S EXPERIENCE.

could bask in eternal sunshine, and see the world turning under us, as an immense grindstone; unless, perchance, we had started at midnight, when we would remain in eternal darkness, except for alternate periods of fourteen days (336 hours) of moon-light.

But the green earth has its dotted farms and cultivated fields. And what a variety of shapes! One would almost think they were laid out on the model of "Noah's Ark" cookies. Yet there is an indescribable quietness and grandeur in the view. It is as if one were suddenly able to take so broadminded a view of life as to ignore all trifles that vex and perplex us. As a moving-picture can remove the tediousness of plays, so can such a glance dispel all imaginary ills of life. I say imaginary purposely, because many of our ills are the result of thoughts engendered by unhealthy atmosphere, while the upper atmosphere is exhilarating almost to intoxication. Were I a young man the lure of the clouds would fascinate me.

I did not, at any time, experience any degree of fear. Way above the precipitous bluffs between Cathlamet and Stella, we ran into some very pronounced air-waves; but I did not lose sight of the wonderful view, even to see that the pilot was awake to his duty. On land the wind strikes you; in a plane you strike the wind. I took a French binocular with me; but no glass could enhance the natural view. I was not even strapped in; I stood up and waved, when passing over my own town. Were I wealthy, I should desire no finer diversion than scooting the air, far above mother earth.

After making about 135 miles (ocean trip added nearly 20) in much less than that number of minutes, we circled around in Portland and settled down in the Willamette like a swan; and I am yet puzzled in determining whether or not we should begin sacrificing our arms for wings.

Richard Harding Davis' Famous Story

'SOLDIERS OF FORTUNE'

Imagine Loving a Girl You Never Met

He had never even corresponded with her—or as much as telephoned her. Yet he was madly, blindly in love. Only Richard Harding Davis could describe such a situation. You'll find it in "SOLDIERS OF FORTUNE." Starring Norman Kerry and Anna Q. Nilsson.

Also a screaming, laughable Harold Lloyd Comedy—

"The Girl Dodger"

Whenever Cuthbert saw a girl—he dived into the linen-closet. Now you know the truth—Cuthbert was bashful. Yes, it's the sad, sad truth—Cuthbert was afraid of the girlies. What are you going to do with that sort of a kid? How are you going to make his nature over?

"Pinkie" LaRue knew. There was a kick in her chorus girl method—that's what makes "The Girl Dodger" a great picture.

You'll be sorry if you miss it.

"AND HE COULD SHOOT THE DATE OUT OF A DIME"

They overpowered the new watchman, battered in the huge door and thought the coast was clear. But when they tried to touch the money they found someone waiting for them—someone who could shoot the date out of a dime in mid-air.

The police came but "Big Bill" didn't need them—finished the job before they got there. Come to see that fight.

Then the "big works" came in and asked Bill what he wanted. What do you suppose he DID want? Come to see. It's great.
