HOW WRIGLEY'S SON NETTED MILLIONS

If you know a way to make a dozen million out of the life of your patentmark, you would be interested, wouldn't you.

William Wrigley, Jr., the multi-millionaire Chicago chewing gum man, turned the trick. He did it with persuasive advertising. He started in Chicago about 20 years ago with a capital of $32 and a bigger asset, namely, the belief that people would buy a good article if you let them know you had it for sale. He says, "There is no use having goods for sale unless you let people know about it," and that "the newspaper is the quick way to let people know."

The MAGIC GRIP

Every newspaper has a grip.

Some use one like the one in the illustration above. But—

All newspapers have a "grip" on their readers.

The "grip" of all successful newspapers—and it is the NECESSARY attribute that makes them the value of ADVERTISING.

The reader of a newspaper in whom advertising believes it and reads the ads, and action of the community.

Try it next ad.

Advertise the things you have to sell.

And subscribe to the newspaper that is part of your community life—a part of you.

DORT

Fourseason Cars

Quality Goes Clear Through

Utility

Although Dort builds open touring and roadster models, it is difficult to agree with those who prefer the Fourseason types. While admittedly superior for autumn and winter, Fourseason cars have many advantages over the open car in spring and summer. They are cooler, more exclusive and at least as cool.

Appointments

The upholstery, carpet and curtains used in Dort Fourseason cars are of the best and durable quality. There is adequate provision for ventilating ventilation. Artificial illumination is provided, operated by switch and controlled by push button. There is plenty of storage room. Liberal storage space is found under the seats and in pockets on doors.

An Easy Riding Balance

The Dort "hangs right." Its balance is at the correct place to obviate disagreeable "kick-up" from either the front or rear springs. Although it is acknowledged that cantilever springs are the correct form of suspension for cars of comparatively short wheelbase, there is an individuality in Dort's method of traversing rough roads.

Place your order now and be ready for spring motoring. Immediate delivery and at right prices.
