A social Monday evening on the Grewell lawn was attended by many who had an enjoyable evening. A tidy sum was realized for the purpose of purchasing community song books.

The bacchanalante services were held at the Congregational church Sunday evening. Dr. A. J. Sullen of Portland preached the sermon. Commencement exercises will be held at Watts & Price hall Friday evening, May 27th.

A very pleasant party was given on Friday evening at the Grewell residence by Miss Tipton and Miss Scales as a farewell for our genial neighbors the Niblocks. A most enjoyable time was had by those so fortunate as to attend.

St. South Scappoose school has closed a very successful year. Mrs. Charlie Van Cleave was the teacher and much credit should be given her for the good showing the school made. At least two of her pupils will enter Scappoose high in the fall. The high water of the Columbia river and Willamette slough has covered the lowlands and driven the dairymen and their cattle from their places. Some damage has already resulted to the lowland crops and with the river still rising the situation is becoming alarming.

Decoration Day exercises will be held at 2 o'clock p. m. at the school auditorium. Addresses will be made by several veterans, also music and patriotic exercises. J. W. Boyd, an ex-service man is on the program for an address. After the conclusion of the program, the cemeteries will be visited and the graves of our fallen soldiers decorated.

GOBLE

Mrs. Steve Cantwell spent last Sunday in Portland.

D. Link has returned from a two weeks' trip to Bend, Oregon. The many friends of Harold Hunter were very sorry to hear of his serious illness.

Texas Watt had his hand badly mashed last week while at school. Some of the boys slammed the heavy door to, catching the hand between the door and the casing. No bones were broken, but it was a very painful bruise.

Little Billie Anderson, 14 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Anderson died at St. Vincent hospital of spinal meningitis, Tuesday at 10 a. m., the 23rd. He was only ill about ten days. The funeral will be held at Knapps undertaking parlors, Wednesday at 2 p. m., in Vancouver, Washington, and the remains will be laid to rest in the family cemetery at the Vancouver cemetery.

WARREN

Ernest Rylander is building a new barn on his place. It is almost completed.

P. J. Loomis is building an addition to his store building which is located on the highway.

Work has been resumed on the parsonage of the Lutheran church, additional supplies having been received and it is hoped that the building will soon be completed.

On Sunday night there will be a farewell service at the church. Rev. P. C. Nystrom, after twelve years of faithful service, has resigned. He is succeeded by Rev. Shipp who has been located in Spokane.

The high water, while having done no great damage, has caused considerable inconvenience. Some of the farmers whose land lays along Scappoose bay have cut green hay, so as to save it before the high water reaches it.

In the items from this place published in the last issue of the Mist was an account of the graduating exercises at the Warren school. The name of Miss Alice Young was omitted from the list of graduates through an error by the Mist's correspondent. Miss Young was one of the graduates and had a high standing in the class.

John Grand-dad Ted

The boys, too, shouldered a gun. John was across while Ted wore the khaki here—a reserve with every ounce of energy pulling at the leash. Both are happy in "elms" again. Other Johns and Teds cannot hope to appear better dressed than they in these new spring and summer models—John's a double-breasted gray worsted—Ted's a single-breasted—short waist two-button sack.
