

"I'M FROM MISSOURI;" HOW IT ORIGINATED

Colonel Vandiver Tells Story of How It All Happened.

"I'm from Missouri." Where did this magic expression originate? At last it has been traced to its lair.

As well as I am able to recall, it was soon after I became a member of congress, and the naval committee, of which I was a member, was inspecting the Government navy yard at Philadelphia.

Getting Even With the Governor I realized that I must crawl under the table and hide, or else defy the conventionalities and bull the market.

"His talk about your hospitality is all bunk; he wants another feed. He tells you that the tailors, finding he was here without a dress-suit, made one for him in 15 minutes.

"The explanation is that he stole mine and that's the reason why you see him with one on and me without any. This story from Iowa doesn't go at all with me; I'm from Missouri, you've got to show me."

ADVERTISING THE GREAT NORTHWEST

On that sultry Sunday, June 11, when New York City was struck by the terrible storm which caused the loss of so many lives of people who were seeking recreation in the amusement parks, there appeared in the rotogravure section of the New York Tribune a double page spread showing in marvelous artistry the most alluring scenes of Washington, Oregon and British Columbia.

Illustrated with fourteen different views carefully selected to show the variety of attractions offered by "America's Summer Playground," mountains, rivers, bathing beaches, golf, motoring, fishing—inland and coast scenes, all were brought out strikingly and the lure of the pictures emphasized by a brief description of this "land of enchantment, business opportunity, family happiness and contentment—the most glorious of the glorious West."

Other dominant advertising has been appearing this spring in fifty newspapers in important cities of the United States.

In addition to the double page advertisement, the same section of the New York Tribune also carried nearly a quarter of a page of illustrations of Pacific Northwest scenes as a news feature.

HOME AND HARD TIMES.

How many miles did you travel last year on railroads? The average was 355 miles for each American. That was 90 miles less than year before.

You explain it by high passenger rates? There were other causes. The causes really are the manifestations of the tendency of people to cling closer to home during hard times.

Hard times are bringing families and homes together again.

Every family should keep this preparation at hand during the hot of the summer months. It is almost sure to be needed, and when that time comes, it worth many times its cost. Buy it now.

VERNONIA WINS OVER WAUNA TEAM

A belated report comes from Vernonia to the effect that the ball team of that thriving little city put one over on the Wauna team last Sunday to the tune of a 10 to 9 score. It looked like, says the report, a walkaway for Vernonia for they piled up a lead of five runs in the second inning, but Wauna wasn't a team that was quitting and they kept piling up tallies until the first of the eighth when the score stood 8 to 5 in favor of Wauna.
