FEDERAL FUNDS AID IN FIRE FIGHTING

Allotments of $400,000 of federal funds to states cooperating with the government in protecting forest lands from fire have just been completed by the forest service, United States department of agriculture, according to District Forester Geo. H. Cecil of Portland.

This sum, together with not less than an equal amount to be supplied by the states cooperating, is expended jointly by the cooperating federal and state foresters in protecting from fire forest lands at the headwaters of navigable streams. The allotment is made on the basis of timbered area and cost of adequate protection. The federal expenditure in any state is restricted to not over $24,000.

This amount of money is insufficient to insure adequate forest fire protection, according to Mr. Cecil, but it has in connection with state funds, enabled substantial progress to be made in that direction. Due to the serious fire season this year in both Oregon and Washington, this cooperative fund has been drawn on heavily, foresters say.

Allotments to the various states are as follows:

Oregon	$24,000
Washington	24,000

Farm Pointers.

Highest yields and best quality of wheat are produced on early spring-plowed summer fallow in the dry farm wheat belt of Oregon. Careful experiments at Moro for nine years have proved that the average yield of winter wheat after early spring plowing were 6.3 bushels per acre more than after late spring plowing, and 2.3 bushels an acre more than after medium early spring plowing.

Pullets that are a few months later starting to lay than the average of the flock should be culled out. It has been found that pullets that lay well in the fall are usually good annual layers, while the late starters are likely to prove quitters. In culling hens, the layers are selected from among the late moulters and the quick moulters.

In making silage corn should be cut when the kernel is fairly hard but before the stalk and leaves get dry. Barley and peas at about the same stage as for hay. Sunflowers when the yellow petals are dried and beginning to fall. If cut at these stages it is not usually necessary to add water, as the natural juices will keep the silage moist.

The copper carbonate dust treatment of seed wheat for smut control cannot be expected to give the best results when the open box, floor, or canvas method of mixing is employed. The powder is mixed with the grain at the rate of 2 ounces to each bushel, but 100 per cent control calls for the use of a special mixing device. Farmers are not counseled against this treatment provided they mix it properly.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Grape Juice with Ham.
You can give a roasting ham a delicious flavor by basting it with a few tablespoons of grape juice.

Mexican Salad.
One cup of pecans or walnuts, chopped, one cup chopped cabbage, 1 cup chopped celery, a little onion. Serve on lettuce leaves with French dressing.

Tomato Soup.
Cook 1-4 cups canned tomatoes for 10 minutes with a thin slice of onion, 2 cloves, 1-2 cup boiling water and a suggestion of bayleaf. Rub through sieve, add 1-4 teaspoon soda, 1-2 tablespoon butter, a dash of paprika, 1-2 teaspoon salt and 4 table-spoons cream. Serve hot.

Portuguese Toast.
Portuguese toast is made from the following recipe:
Finger-shaped pieces of toast, 1 tablespoon boiled rice, 3 tablespoons tomato sauce, 1 cold cooked sausage, salt and red pepper to taste.
Skin sausage and cut it into slices an eighth of an inch thick. Put tomato sauce into small pan with rice and season to taste.

Mashed Potatoes.
Take the leftover mashed potatoes and soften with a cupful of hot cream or rich milk in which a lump of butter, pepper and salt and two tablespoonfuls of chopped pine nuts have been stirred. Place in a buttered baking dish or on, cover the top thinly with apple sauce, then sprinkle with buttered crumbs. Bake for about 15 or 20 minutes until the dish is thoroughly heated and the crumbs brown.

Baked Custard.
Four cups scalded milk, 5 eggs, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, a little grated nutmeg. Beat eggs slightly, add sugar, salt and nutmeg, add hot milk gradually. Pour into baking dish or individual custard cups. Set in pans of hot water on folds of paper and bake in a slow oven until custard is firm. Test with knife blade. Remove from pan containing hot water and set in cold water to cool quickly.

Home-Made Vanilla Syrup.
Take one cup of sugar and put it in a saucepan with three-quarters of a cup of water. Cook gently until the syrup forms a soft ball when a little is tried in cold water, then remove from the fire and add a tablespoon of mixed spice dissolved in a little of the syrup. A small spice bag boiled in the syrup is best. Remove it when the syrup is taken from the fire. This syrup is good hot or cold, and children love it.

Cream of Carrot Soup.
Make a thin white sauce, using one tablespoon fat, one tablespoon flour and two cups of milk. Melt the fat, add the flour, stir until smooth. Add a third of the milk and then cook until the mixture thickens, stirring constantly, then add the rest of the milk gradually.
Add two cups of carrots which have been cooked until soft and mashed fine. The water in which the carrots have been cooked may be substituted for a part of the milk.

No Substitute Offered.
Say what you will about druggists offering something "just as good" because it pays a better profit, the fact remains that ninety nine out of a hundred druggists recommend Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy, when the best medicine for diarrhoea is asked for, and do so because they know from what their customers say of it, that it can be depended upon.
