THE OREGON MIST.

SUBSCRIPTION, $1.50 PER YEAR.

ST. HELENS, NOVEMBER 6, 1891.

THE LOCAL PAPER.

It is a singular but unquestionable fact, that even the most sagacious and public spirited of the business men in most communities do not seem adequately to appreciate the value of the local newspaper as an agency of advertising the business interests, and augmenting the importance of the town in which it is published. There are to be found in every town a very considerable portion of business men who are ready to give their time and labor to chambers of commerce and boards of trade, or any other movement for the attraction of outside enterprise and capital, and whom it is not difficult to induce to subscribe money for the establishment of promising enterprises, but nevertheless contribute little or nothing to a means of greater importance and efficiency in the building up of their town—the proper support of the local newspaper.

There is no question but that the newspaper of a town may be made the most effective agency possible in its development and prosperity. The efforts and influence of either individuals or organizations are at best but spasmodic and transient; but the newspaper works on steadily and incessantly. The individual agitator of a local commercial body reaches only a comparitively limited field of opportunity; only those to whom the particular effort may be directed; but the newspaper reaches out in every direction, and carries its influence to hosts of unknown and unsuspected watchers of opportunities.

Among shrewd, intelligent men of affairs, the character of a community is measured more by the standard of its newspaper than perhaps, by any single indication. With a little observation and experience a remarkably just estimate of the characteristics of a town may be reached by an inspection of its newspaper. If the community is a live, pushing, liberal one, the columns of its local paper will be found filled with the advertisements of its merchants and business men. If these announcements are noticeably absent, the investigator will, naturally, set the town down as containing a slow, unambitious, unprogressive community. And without such support in a liberal measure no newspaper can do justice either to the town or the ambition of its publisher. It is safe to assert that a newspaper is rarely found inadequately representing the consequence and enterprise of its community. The case is exceptional indeed in which a community deserves a better newspaper than it possesses, or in which the local newspaper does not flatteringly represent the actual character of the community. But to do this—to thus indulge a laudable spirit of local pride—the newspaper that is progressive and ambitious is compeled to make pecuniary contributions to the public good, far exceeding in value what might reasonably be expected of it by scores of business men who seem to think that they have done all that is incumbent upon them as public spirited members of the community, if they give the paper the support of a mere subscription.

It is a popular fallacy that newspapers are what their editors and publishers make them. They are not. They are the product and creation of the communities in which they are published, and a soul can no more abide in a dead body than a live paper continue to be published in any town without proper and adequate support, commensurate with the benefit it bestows.

THE latest advices from Chili are to the effect that the junta is preparing for any emergency, and that while the negotiations with the United States is pending Chili is making all possible haste in strengthening her navy and forts. Something is sure to pop down in that southern clime before long from present indications.

The following from an exchange will be endorsed and approved by sensible people along every road in the country: "When the people can be made to understand that it actually costs more in time and money to travel over a poor road, than it does to travel over a good one, they will be less inclined to begrudge the expense of good roads, and, what is more still, will be willing and anxious to put the business of road-making into the hands of intelligent men who understand the business. Poor roads are the expensive things that curse a country district."

Oh, the cow, the beautiful beast, chewing her cud and enjoying the feast, defying the law for her corn and wheat; roaming at large through every street; hunting, bowling, noising around, till the open front gate is sure to be found—with its hinges broke and ruined quite, by lovers who hang there Sunday night; it won't stay shut, it won't hang level; so in goes the cow and raises the devil.—Ex.

M'KINLEY IS ELECTED.

The Legislatures are Still in Doubt in Massachusetts and New York.

The Democrats Elect Governors in New York, Iowa and Massachusetts.

IN OHIO.

McKinley's majority for governor is conceded to be about 19,000 over his democratic opponent, Campbell. The legislature is republican by a handsome majority.

IN NEW YORK.

Flower's plurality over Fassett is over 45,000. The whole democratic ticket is elected. In New York city Flower's plurality is 58,857, showing a democratic falling off of more than 19,000 from the vote for Hill in 1888. The senate is a tie. In the house there will be: Republicans, sixty-nine; democrats, fifty-nine.

IN IOWA.

In Iowa, Boies, democrat, is elected over Wheeler, republican, for governor, by about 9000. The legislature is in doubt with the probability of it being democratic. It is also claimed that the rest of the democratic state ticket is elected.

IN MASSACHUSETTS.

Governor Russell, democrat, is re-elected by about 7000. With the exception of governor the republicans have elected the entire state ticket, and have control of both branches of the legislature by small majorities.

In Pennsylvania the entire republican state ticket is elected by from 40,000 to 55,000 majority.

GRAND JURY REPORT.

At the earnest solicitation of a great number of our readers we submit the report of the last grand jury for their perusal:

In the Circuit court of Oregon, for Columbia county

To Hon. Frank J. Taylor, judge of said Court:

The undersigned, your grand jury, respectfully report as follows:

We have examined into all charges of crime brought before us and have returned indictments in all cases where, in our judgment the evidence is sufficient to support a conviction.

Owing to the fact that a full examination of the books and records of the county would consume several days of our time, we have concluded to omit any inspection that would necessarily be merely a matter of form, leaving the duty of a thorough examination to the county court.

In the case of the State of Oregon vs. Larsen, Drew and Wilson, in justice's court, we find that there was charged by the sheriff and allowed by the county court, over 900 miles of mileage at 10 cents per mile in searching for defendants. While it may possibly have been necessary to have made a search that would have covered every section of land in the county, your grand jury are strongly of the opinion that the "searching" business has been somewhat overdone; and we recommend that hereafter the county commissioners allow no exhorbitant bills of this character; and that in all cases they require an itemized statement, showing where the travel was performed and what persons performed it, with a view to keeping such charges within reasonable limits. Justice to the taxpayers requires that in a small county like this the most rigid economy should be observed, and that no money should be paid out until it is shown, beyond question, that the charge is just, reasonable and lawful.

We recommend that the county court cause a new and stronger outer door to be placed on the jail, and that new locks be procured, both for the outer door and the cells, and that these alterations be made immediately.

We commend the action of the county court in causing a plat of the county to be made for assessment purposes. The plats have more than paid for themselves already and the money invested in them was wisely expended.

Having now completed our labors we ask to be discharged.

Dated this 17th day of October, 1891.

G. C. Barger, foreman; Thos. H. Woodruff, clerk; Andrew King, Jas. M. Blackford, James Barr, O. E. Bacon, L. Archibald.

"THE Tilden will is void," says a dispatch this morning. Samuel J. Tilden, one of the greatest of American lawyers couldn't leave his property the way he wanted to. His brother lawyers have broken his will and defeated the wishes of the eminent testator. But Mrs. Hopkins-Searle's will holds. This illustrates the difference between a man's will and a woman's will.

Curing Diseases by Electricity.

Stubborn Diseases Yield to Skillful Treatment by Dr. Darrin.

(Oregonian, Monday, November 2.)

It is a positive fact that the art of curing diseases by electricity is revolutionizing the practice of medicine, as is shown by the following testimonial which speaks for itself:

Remarkable Cure of Deafness.

To whom it may concern: For years I have been troubled with chronic catarrh. So troublesome had it become that I could scarcely breathe through my nose; had entirely lost sense and smell, and I became almost totally deaf, accompanied with ringing noises in my ears. After a course of electric and surgical treatment by Dr. Darrin I am perfectly cured of my deafness and buzzing noises. Refer to me at Kalama, Wash. JAMES FLANNAGAN.

Dr. Darrin continues to treat all classes, the rich and poor alike, free of charge, at his office, 20½ Washington street, Portland, Oregon. The Normandy, Seattle, Wash., from 10 to 11 A. M. to 8 P. M. at half his former prices. He gives free and confidetial examinations to all at the office or by letter. He treats all curable chronic, acute and private diseases with electricty and medicines when required.

"I. C. Q." TO "QUERY."

Once there was a little boy,
And he had a little chair,
And on it he threw his blanket,
Then forgot 'twas hanging there;
Then, at twilight, ran in terror,
And declared it was a bear.

And, whatever proof was offered,
He would only scream, "a bear!"
Well, we hope, when he is older,
He will grow a little bolder,
And his own sub-treasury pictures
Cease that little boy to scare.

The Ideal Baking Powder is Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder.

For more than fifty years Cream of Tartar and Bicarbonate of Soda have been used for leavening purposes with sufficient flour added to preserve the strength of the powder unimpaired, and this with the addition of whites of eggs comprises this pure and wholesome leavening agent, that has been the standard for 40 years. In its use pure, wholesome and delicious food is always assured.

Makes cake and biscuit that retain their moisture, and while they are flaky and extremely light they are fine grained, not coarse and full of holes as made with ammonia baking powders, latter dries up quickly. Alum powders leave a bitter taste in the bread or cake.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder once used, always used.
