

THE OREGON MIST.

Edwin Ross has a fine assortment of French candies.
We are informed that there will be a number of persons baptised at Milton creek the coming Sunday.
Mr. E. Searey has our thanks for a pair of fine mallard ducks, presented last week.
Muckle Bros. have a fine assortment of the latest novelties in holiday goods which they are offering very reasonable.
Muckle Bros. are making some improvements to their mill in the way of building drying sheds for dressed lumber.
Messrs. Eddie Watts and James Cox, who have been attending school at Corvallis, are at home on a vacation during the holidays.
Mr. George Lamont and wife, of Eastern Oregon, are the guests of Mr. Lamont's mother, and Captain F. A. Lamont, an uncle of Mr. George Lamont.
We are anxious to balance our books by January 1, and hope those who are delinquent will find it convenient to settle their accounts before that date. There is a great deal of glory in the newspaper business, but it requires some money to carry it on.
George Thing, of Redville, was run over last week by a freight train and had his foot badly mangled, necessitating an amputation. In attempting to board the moving train he missed his footing and one leg went under the wheels, thereby causing the loss of that member.
Mr. J. H. Swager, well known to our citizens, has opened up a large stock of groceries and provision in St. Helens, in the building formerly occupied by the Webbs saloon. Mr. Swager says he will sell as low as the lowest, and invites his many friends to call and inspect his stock.
Dan Boyd, the deck hand on the steamer Northwest, who, in a fight with another deck hand, threw his adversary overboard at Kelso some time ago, causing the death of the latter, of which mention was made in these columns at the time, was convicted at Kalama last week of manslaughter, and sentenced to fifteen years in the penitentiary.
Found—Last Saturday afternoon a young man and his girl from a neighboring town came to Rainier to get married, and while searching about he found a handsome wedding ring at the store of Muckle & Co., for less money than he could buy elsewhere. After making a purchase he went on his way rejoicing.—Good boy that!

Major Joseph Smith, who resides about two miles above Kalama, was a caller at this office last Saturday. Mr. Smith has lately completed a wood frame two miles in length from his place to the Columbia, at Charles Hoffman's place, where he has a large wharf, lately constructed, for the purpose of supplying steamers with wood. Mr. Smith informs us that he arranged the frame so to have an abundance of water to float wood all the year. The frame has cost $3000, and is one of the most substantially constructed of any frame along the river. Wood at the wharf, sells readily at $2.50 per cord, and Mr. Smith, having a large body of fine timber in close proximity to the frame, has a bonanza to say the least.
There is a popular idea prevalent to the minute letter "M" to be seen at the base of Liberty on the face of the present issue of silver dollars stands for "Might," and is an evidence of the genuineness of the coin bearing it. This is a mistake, says the Philadelphia Record. The "M" stands for Morgan, George T. Morgan, who is the originator of the design. Upon the same side there is another "M" also the initial of the designer. This is to be found in the wavy locks of the fair goddess, and is so cleverly concealed in the lines of the design that it can only be seen after a long scrutiny. A prominent mint official, in speaking of this initial, said he had it shown to him scores of times, but he could never find it unassisted.

The inducements offered are far superior to those of California in 1850, without the hardships then endured. The mines of Columbia have been discovered in California or Nevada. The climate is just the same as in California, the farming lands ranging in price from 50 cents to $1 per acre, produce, any kind of fruit, grapes and grain grow in California and Oregon, in addition to coffee, cocoa and all the tropical fruits.
ANOTHER PARTY.
Is forming to visit San Diego and the City of Escondido, Lower California in December, to spend the winter, exploring the mines and examining the country with a view of locating a colony of first-class farmers and fruit raisers. For full information, send 2-cent stamp to

THE ALTO PARANA.
Some Wonderful Scenery in a Region Seldom Visited by Travelers.
We leave Corrientes at 6 p. m., and at a distance of eighteen miles reach the Tres Bocas, the confluence of the Parana and Alto Parana rivers. In broad daylight it is curious to observe the two streams at the point where a long sandy spit marks their junction. The waters of the Parana are of a dirty green color, while those of the Alto Parana are yellowish brown, and for several miles the two mighty streams flow parallel and unjoined, the meeting of the two being marked by a long line of foam, forming, as it were, a white cord stretching down the middle of the river, and separating the green waters from the brown waters.
The Parana makes a sharp turn eastward, and under the name of Alto Parana may be followed on the map up to about the nineteenth parallel of latitude, where it is formed by the confluence of the two rivers Parana and Rio Grande. A few leagues lower down the course of the stream is interrupted by the cataract of Urubupunga. From this point it runs south southwest as far as the twenty-fourth parallel, where it is again interrupted by the cataract of Guayra.
The region traversed thus far belongs to Brazil, and was occupied by Jesuit "reductions" in the sixteenth century. Doubtless in the more or less distant future, when ways of communication have been created, all this fertile territory will once more be occupied. At the cataract of Guayra the frontier of Paraguay begins, and the river runs from north to south, bounding the republic, and then from east to west, until it joins the Paraguay. The few travelers who have seen the cataract of Guayra describe the falls as being as fine as those of Niagara, but unfortunately they are still in the midst of softness to which access is difficult.
The Salto de Victoria, some twenty miles from the confluence of the Y-Guayra and the Parana, is also said to be very magnificent, and somewhat easier of access, but as yet few travelers have seen it. The navigation of the Alto Parana is difficult, but practical up to a certain point. The Platense company runs a passenger steamer three times a month from Corrientes to Posadas and the intermediate ports—Lomas, Santa Isabel, Ituzingo, Posadas, on the Corrientes side, is 225 miles from the confluence of the Parana and Paraguay rivers. From Posadas a smaller steamer of the same company runs twice a month up to Tacuru Pucu, a few miles above the confluence of the Y-Guayra, and about 400 miles from Corrientes.
Beyond this point no screw or paddle steamer has been able to conquer the rapids, currents and eddies. The whole of the banks of the Alto Parana, from Villa Encarnacion up to the Salto de Guayra, are covered with forests of yerba mate, or Paraguayan tea, and the chief traffic is the transport of this article.—Theodore Child in Harper's.

Gas from Petroleum.
A new process for the manufacture of gas from petroleum has been put into practice at Kittanning, Pa., by which it is claimed that gas can be manufactured at one-half the cost of the old, and is much better for illuminating purposes. The method is a very simple one, consisting of a feeder and a system of retorts. These retorts are kept at a certain heat, and the oil forced through them into a receiving tank filled with water. When the heated oil strikes the water it turns into gas, and is conveyed from there to the supply tank, ready for use. It is said that 4,000 feet of gas can be manufactured from one barrel of Lima oil.—New York Telegram.
Describing Wales.
The average British wale has no much respect for his future king. The day at Epsom I was on the track, and a crowd was watching H. R. H., who was standing in the Jockey club stand. One tough, better informed as to H. R. H.'s personality than his fellow, was poling "Tom Tun" out.
"That's 'im there with the white slobber round his coker," said one.
"No, no, that ain't 'im," said the other; "that's 'im a rubbin' of 'is bloomin' snout."
A nice way to describe a prince blowing his nose.—London Letter.
Remarkable Rescue.
Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's new discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from the first dose. She continued its use and after taking ten bottles, found herself sound and well, now does her own housework and is as well as ever she was. Free trial bottles at this Great Discovery at Eds in Ross' Drug store.

Robert Day, who murdered Thomas C. Bonbe at Woodland, of which mention was made in this paper about two months ago, was tried at Kalama last week and convicted of murder in the first degree. On Thursday night of the same week Day attempted to commit suicide. While eating his supper the sheriff turned and went out of the cell for a few minutes and left Day by himself. On the return of the sheriff he discovered blood flowing from Day's arm. On examination it was found that with the table knife which he had been eating with he had cut his arm to the bone just above the elbow in an endeavor to sever an artery, which he evidently thought would cause him to bleed to death. In this, however, he failed, as he missed the artery. The town physician was once summoned and dressed the wound and the doomed man, at last accounts, was improving.
