ST. HELEKS, SEPTEMBER 2, 1892.

A BAD TIME FOR CALAMITY HOWLERS. It is really too bad. It must really be exasperating to the professional "calamity-howler" of the day, to see printed for the support of Indian his or her calling swept entirely away schools, a beomerang of the firsby general prosperity. All the evidence water. In the first place, every all-dence shows this is a bad, sad, cambration it contains is a palpable false paign for them. Their occupation is bood, and easily shown to be such by gone, and there is nothing for them to the official figures. During the eigh do but to maintain a respectful fiscal years, 1886 to 1893 inclusive business is on a provokingly solid sectarian, all of the superintendents foundation, and the outlook in every steachers, matrons and physicians for direction is bright and encouraging others schools are embraced in the Crops are good, money is plenty and classified service and can be appointed can be had very cheap, in abundance, only on the certification of the civion good security, and collections are service commission. on good security, and collections are service commission.

He says that Canada has tirely unprotected, and with which always been a bad neighbor and has tariff had nothing in the Lord's world never lost an opportunity to make to do. The following is a list of ten that its government has f persistently of the wealthiest men in the United disnegarded our rights from the sea States, together with the business or fisheries of Alaska to the fisheries of industry in which they have acquired the eastern coast, and that he thinks their wealth: William Waldorf Astor, the president might with propriety have gone much further in his proclareal estate; Jay Gould, railroads, telegraphs and speculations; John D. Rockfeller, oil; Cornelius Vanderbilt, railroads; William K. Vanderbilt, railroads; Henry M. Flagler, oil; John J. Blair, railroads and banking; Russell Sage, railroads and real estate; Collis P. Hantington, railroads; William Rockfeller, oil. The largest "trust" in the world is the Standard Oil Company, of the United States, which has grown up by virtue of free trade in that article. Without one exception these fortunes have been amassed by men engaged in occupation not in any way protected-pursuits that have no more connection with the tariff than with the spots on the sun, or the colors on the rainbow. The rapid multiplication of wealth i the natural result of the development of our country's resources, in which development, railroads and telegraphs have played a very prominent part; and the effect of which has been to greatly increase the values of all property and especially real estate.

Those who had the foresight and the pluck to acquire much property when it was worthless and then get the benefit of development, make fortunes, large or small, according to their holdings; and its nothing but cheap, tra-hy demagogism attributes it to anything else.
