WORK OF A MOB.

The Victim a Former Resident of Columbia County.

Lewiston, Idaho, Jan. 3 -At midnight a their own hands, called upon Deputy Sheriff Wright, who has rooms at the courthouse, and at the point of revolvers demanded him to deliver to them the key to the cell of Albert Roberts, who murhanged by the neck. The coroner and his jury held an inquest today and found a verelict in accordance with the above facts The crime for which Roberts suffered was The killing of J. A. Sutherland, at Leland. Idaho, December 15. The row, which culminated in murder, occurred in Jones' black-mith shop at Leland, about four miles from Kendrick, over the amount of wages coming to Roberts, who had formerly been employed by Sutherland. During the altercation Roberts called Sutherland a liar and was jumped upon by him. Roberts had a gan in the loside breast pocket of his coat, which he discharged three times, all three shots taking effect in Sutherland's chest. Sutherland lived about 10 minutes. Roberts was incorporated in the murderer's cell of the county jail, having been reman ded without ball at the preliminary trial Six men, each having two revolvers, covered the deputy sheriff and forced him to open the jail and also the cell in which Roberts was confined. As be was lying on his bed, they jumped on him and shut off his breath before he had a chance to speak. He was seized and dragged into the anteroom of the jail, where his hands and feet were bound, then rushed rapidly through the courthouse and up the street. When the officers again reached the street no one was to be seen. Search was made up and down the street and along the railroad grade, but without result.

Then closer search was made, and in the old mill building the body of Roberts was found swinging from a beam, still warm but lifeless. The body was cut down and carried to the courthouse. The Joseph Kellogg Sunk

Monday morning as the steamer Joseph Kellogg was wending her way through the dense fog on the trip to Portland, she ran onto a mag just below Caples, Wash., snagging a large hole in the hull, and only or Capt. J. D. Miller's presence of mind the would have sank in several feet of water. As soon as the captain was apprised of the condition of his steamer he at one headed for the Washington shore under a full head of steam and lauded the steamer hard on shore before she had time to sink. This was about seven o'clock in the morning. Soon after the Iralda came along which was hailed by the Kellogg and the passengers from the unfortunate steamer transferred to the little boat, which proceeded on to Portland with them, Kellogg company were at once apprised of the facts and the Toledo was placed on the route. It is not known what the exact damage will be to the Kellogg, but it is supposed it will not be very great.

Death of T. H. Taylor.

The cittsens of this city were startled on Wednesday morning by the street teport that T. H. Taylor, an old resident of this place, was dead. Judge Blanchard being in town, was called, and ordered an inquest held, which was done by Justice Blakesley. Deceased lived alone in part of the Banquet saloon building, and about 8 o'clock in the morning the bartender heard a noise in his spartments as of some one in great distress. He at once gave the alarm and other par ties arrived just in time to see the old gentleman expire. Death was caused from appoplexy, which deceased had been afflicted with for many years. On his person was found a gold watch and several dollars in coin, which were taken care of by the coroner. Taylor had lived in St. Helen about forty years and had accumulated him to the other world about twelve years ago. He leaves two daughters, Mrs. God-frey, of Gillton, and Mrs. Cowles, of this place, to share his estate. The funeral took place yesterday at 1 o'clock, from the

Collided With a Ship.

The steamer Telephone, after leaving Portland Monday morning in a dense fog, ran into a ship near the Albina coal bunkers, breaking her forward flagstaff. She backed out from the ship, and in doing so crashed stern first in the steamer Ocean Wave, which was lying at the "boneyard" just below Weidler's sawmill, totally demolishing her own wheel and tearing a large hole in the side of the Ocean Wave. No one was injured in the collision. The disabled steamer's passengers were landed safely on shore and returned to the city.
