St. Helens, October 6, 1893

An item in the county clerk's report suggests the need of retrenchment in the matter of supporting the county poor. The item referred to is one of $909 82 for supplies furnished indigent persons during the past six months, and which in round numbers would aggregate $2,000 per annum. As there is no prospect that the annual expense to the county for this particular item will ever be any less than it is at present, it has been suggested that there might be wisdom as well as an annual saving to the county in selecting a poor farm where these persons could be brought together and made in a measure, self-supporting. It is simply a question of a short time when the county will be obliged to take care of its poor in this manner, and the $2,000 which it will pay for this item in the next twelve months will go far towards establishing such an institution on a sound financial basis. As at present conducted, all moneys expended in this way is a clear loss to the county, whereas, if it were invested in a permanent home for the poor, they could be made largely self-sustaining, and in the meantime the county realize a valuable return for its outlay in the shape of a well improved piece of realty, besides having a regular and comfortable abode for the needy and an inexpensive place at which to care for them. There are other potent arguments in favor of a county poor farm. Very many persons who are to some extent deserving of assistance do not hesitate to run a grocery bill at the expense of the county, but who have a wholesale distaste for a public charity institution and rather than go to a poor farm, whatever self respect they may have would prompt them to make an effort to support themselves, which they are much less apt to do if they can ask assistance at the hands of the county and be accommodated at the nearest merchandise house. Without further enlarging upon this subject we are free to maintain that in the end the county will avoid no little annoyance and fruitless expense by establishing an institution at which to care for those whom it may find necessary to assist.

We are pleased to note the timely activity displayed by some of the more enterprising citizens of this county in the matter of fruit raising and packing instead of depending upon another state to furnish us with these necessaries and sending large sums out of the country annually in payment for them. With the exception of certain tropical fruits, this section of Oregon can produce fruit equal in quantity and quality to any other state, and the idea of us permitting another state to furnish our market with green and dried fruits to the total exclusion of our own products. is monumental misjudgment. It has been demonstrated to a gratifying degree that the fruits of this section when properly prepared, have no superior in any market and none command a higher price or find a more active demand. Apples have long been a marked success here and the prune industry is assuming gigantic proportions. Statistics are not at hand, but the amount of money annually sent out of the state for green and preserved fruits, partcularly the latter, is an item for sober consideration, and if the amounts could be tabulated in round numbers, would set the most indifferent to thinking. With proper attention fruit raising can be made one of our greatest sources of revenue and we should come to a full and practical realization of this fact at once.

No doubt many of us are in urgent need of prayers, but for our part, we cannot afford to pay quite so heavy a sum for one or two silent, little petitions to the throne of grace.

Columbia county's tax payers are liberal, in the extreme, but we think it time to object when it comes to paying a man for attendance at church.

Can Columbia county afford to pay ten cents per mile milage and three dollars per day wages? It seems that such bills are all right.

The way of the transgressor "am rugged" but it's all right, you know, for the county pays for it.

Was anybody aware that the 10th day of September, 1893, fell on an unjudicial day?

In the treasurer's report we fail to find any statement of the receipt of money collected for poll tax.

Does Columbia county pay its officials for pleasure trips?

DEER ISLAND.

Mrs. W. M. Gaddis has obtained a four-month's school on Sauvies Island.

This present catching weather is very disagreeable to farmers who have hay to make or grain to thresh.

It is reportrd that county warrants are worth seventy-five cents on the dollar. Query, wonder if that is not the kind of money the peoples' party wants?

Some Kansas man said "It is a pity that we can't have Columbia county commissioners, for they would put a bounty on grasshoppers and clean them out of the country."

A young girl arrived in town Wednesday night of last week. She will make James Gaiten's house her home. Jim says somebody must furnish pupils for the school. We congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Gaitens.

C. Cordes has bought himself a fine rocking chair. Well, since we have become the possessor of a rocking chair we have enjoyed very little comfort of it, and maybe Mr. Cordes will tell the same story by and by.

We note with pleasure that the commissioners are determined to improve our highway across Merrill lake, which is very much needed. While other parts of the county are undergoing extensive repairs, we "Wait, meekly wait and murmur not."

H. J. Williams arrived last week from east of the mountains, with a small band of horses, after being absent a year. Nobody expected to see Mr. Williams return to "Webfoot," but in the expressive language of Sport McAllister, "The cat came back."

If the country merchant expects to make a success he must patronize his patrons, that is, they must buy everything the farmer produces, which are too numerous to mention. There is no farmer but has several cows from which he makes more or less butter, but what is he going to do with it if the merchant will not buy it? This is the great problem that stands between the merchant and the farmer. If the merchant buys all the country butter he will have the best looking and best selling article ever offered in any market, but if he buys from one he must buy from all or lose their trade. The only way the merchant can do is to buy the milk and have the butter made himself, if he wants a uniform grade of butter. We think this can be done very well by starting a creamery, and we know of no place more suitable for one than in this town. We think that milk can be gathered in from at least five hundred cows. We are of the opinion that this may make quite a difference in our farmers cash account and we are of the opinion that our merchant would feel the benefit of it very materially. Certainly, there is not this number of cows at present available in this neighborhood, but let someone start a creamery here that will do the square business with farmers and we are satisfied that within three years we will have even more than five hundred cows. Let our local merchants be enterprising and put in a separator, even a hand-power, and buy milk from those who can and will bring it. Give a fair and a reasonable price for milk according to its quality, and we predict that he will make all the butter in the country, and he will also have an article which will command a first class price.

Robt. Frey has got home from Brinn Bros., where has been building a residence for them.

A school organ fund has been formed among the scholars in our public schools to complete payment for a new organ that is expected in a few days.

Frank Van left last week for the old homestead in the Nehalem valley where he expects to reside and care for his aged mother in her declining years.

Misses Fannie Bryant and Nellie Popham are in Portland this week. They wish to see the exposition, and as Mother Grundy puts it "Confer a leel" about their future prospects."

By the way, it may not be be too late to mention that a former teacher at Marshland, Miss Maude Henderson, who is now Mrs. W. L. Graham, is the happy mother of a boy that even at this tender age brings joy to the parent's household.

We were pleased to see a scow load of lumber taken out by steamer this week from the Bryant mill. It is indeed satisfactory to know that something is moving. Mr. Bryant manufactures good lumber and it ought to find ready sale.

Mr. Warren assisted by "Geo. Hill," is now attending to the wants of customers who desire beef steak, veal cutlets or liver. Sometimes they are very tender—the steak and cutlets, we mean—sometimes—buy some and see for yourself.

Dynamite may sometimes be used to an advantage, and dynamiters who blow out stumps and rocks from the Marshland road are doing good service. Work is being done both by Marshland and Clatskanie road districts, and it is expected that a good trail at least will be completed before the weather gets too bad to make work profitable.

As wet weather comes on we welcome any improvement for the convenience of pedestrians, and so were gratified to notice that J. M. Blackford had laid a plank walk in front of his lots on Walnut street. The walk will prove a great convenience to many scholars to and from the school building, and displays a very commendable spirit on the part of Mr. Blackford that it would be well for other property owners to imitate. When Mr. Blood connects with the walk below, that will be the dryest as well as well most popular route to the school house Plank are so cheap now other property owners ought to continue the good work.

Prof. M. V. Rork entertained our people for two hours Monday afternoon and three additional hours in the evening telling us of the evil times through which we are passing and of the grief that is yet before us. The Prof. is an adept at making diagrams and puts lines and figures on the blackboard with remarkable celerity, making the same diagram for what he calls a bank or a "Hayseed," whose cause he pretended to be championing. He advocates free trade and free coinage, and has nothing but condemnation for anybody that thinks differently. He tells us the amount of silver in a dollar is immaterial; that it is the stamp of the government only that gives it value. He took us nine miles out the ocean towards England and sold the dollar was still good, but failed to state that when we get across our dollar would be weighed and valued only by its weight. In fact while he said a good many things in five hours, the things he left unsaid might have enlightened his hearers much more satisfactorily in the direction of practical reforms as well as loyalty to the flag.

The weather, the past few days, has been very unsettled and rainy, making it bad on unharvested crops.

G. W. Richardson returned home a few days ago, from Mayzers, where he has been working the past summer.

Miss Ida Morgan has been unable to attend school for the past two weeks, on account of sickness, though at last report, she was improving rapidly.
