THE OREGON MIST

DAVE DAVIS, Publisher.

United States and County Official Paper.

FRIDAY, MARCH 2, 1894.

Is our next representation in congress to be a disgrace or a credit to the state.

We must first depose democracy. Stagnation and hard times will quickly follow it to oblivion.

Complete returns from the late elections in Pennsylvania bring Congressman Grow's plurality up to 187,109. Grow is the republican candidate.

Twenty-eight democrats joined the republican club at Oswego. They live where they have an object lesson on the effects of the Wilson bill on iron, and are not blind to their interests.

G. A. Massie, the populist sheriff of Columbia county who some time ago absconded leaving a heavy defalcation, has been heard from. He is at Cape Town, on the extreme southern coast of Africa. He writes his wife that he expects to send her money enough to reimburse his boodsmen.—Yamhill County Reporter.

Representative Pence, the calamity congressman from Colorado, became so personal and abusive to republican members of the house, Monday, that he was repeatedly called to order, and was finally prevented from proceeding with his wild-eyed, insulting vantings by a vote of the house. Men of Pence's caliber are ideal representatives of their party, but a disgrace to the offices they attempt to fill.

Another railroad rate war is on between the Missouri river and common points with San Francisco, over the Southern Pacific road. That company on February 26 gave notice to its eastern branch lines to make a single-trip, first-class, unlimited rate of $20 or a round-trip rate of $35.50. This order is thought to be the beginning of a rate war which will involve all the transcontinental roads and put the rates down to where they were in 1886, when passengers were carried from this coast to Missouri river points and return for $5.

Although he who was "first in peace, first in war, and first in the hearts of his countrymen," has long since passed from the walks of men, yet the memory of the "Father of the Republic" remains as green and fresh as ever, and the fires of patriotism glow as brightly and fiercely on the country's alter as three quarters of a century ago. Last Thursday brought another anniversary of the birth of George Washington, and the day was fittingly observed all over the United States. Flags were flying from public buildings, schools were closed, and in fact business was generally suspended.

Congressmen Grow's 187,000 plurality in the late Pennsylvania elections is a sample of the way election returns will read after the next presidential election, and the 205 votes the populist candidate received in the same election is a sample of the way populist majorities (?) will read. Free trade and calamity demagogues can fool all the people some of the time, but they cannot fool many of the people any longer, for the people have been taught a practical lesson—a lesson that has appealed to their stomachs, where a good many people's reasoning faculties are located, and if Mr. Cleveland had served his second term first, he never would have been asked to serve another.

Right here we want to insist on a general representation of the voting precincts, in the county central committee. That is we want to see that central committee compose delegates from every precinct in the county instead of being composed of a few picked delegates who will manage the nomination to suit themselves regardless of the wishes, judgment or interests of republicans in remote parts of the county. The outlying precincts have been ignored long enough and are justly indignant at the apparent slight with which they have been treated in former campaigns, and although they perhaps have not the same favorable opportunities to "size up" the situation that some of the more favored precincts enjoy, yet they feel that they are an important factor in the body politic, and that their wishes and opinions should be recognized and respected. When the county central committee is made up it should be the business of the convention to see that every precinct in the county is represented by at least one delegate, through whom the voters can express their preferences. This can all be done and the committee still be composed of good material. By so doing the old bugbear of "ring politics" can be knocked in the head and a big lot of political capital which would be of use to the party's opponents can be easily gotten rid of. This is not submitted as a "kick', or complaint, but simply as a hint that in the interest of harmony and with the success of the party in view, it is only just and proper that everybody should be represented.

It is now clearly evident that a republican candidate for governor, in order to be successful, must be a farmer or a representative of the farming classes, and it is useless to longer try to evade or disguise the fact. The office is not to be for sale this year, and no banker representative of banks or capital need aspire to the office. Nor will people be content with or permit their prejudices to be mollified by substituting a banker with a lawyer. The producing element must be conciliated. However much the functions of this office may demand the services of a successful financier or an accomplished lawyer and legislator, the masses will not be satisfied with such a candidate, for they have been demagogued with until they have come to regard a banker or lawyer as a common enemy, unworthy of trust or confidence, whose motives, aims, and aspirations are purely mercenary, and whose only object in taking office at the hands of the people is to despoil the public treasure and enact or assist in enacting such laws as will crush and burden the people. Such, briefly summed up, are the existing sentiments of the average farmer regarding these matters, and, though abortive, they are fixed and must be recognized. The republicans of this state have a practical illustration of these truths in the person of D. P. Thompson, who lost the late election for us not because he was not qualified to fill the office of governor, but simply because he was the president of some twenty banks, and the people were advised to look upon him as a man whose interests were in no way identified with ther own, but rather as a man whose motives were personal and selfish. The people who entertain such ideas, hold the balance of the power in this state and know it. They want to feel that they are represented by officials whose interests are identified with their own and whose official acts will, therefore, be directed in their behalf. With these facts in view the republican party cannot blunder in the selection of a candidate for governor. We have plenty of available material outside of the lawyer's or banker's office, and if we give the people the kind of a man they ask for, and his acts should not please, the blame must, manifestly, be with themselves, and cannot then be laid at the door of the hated banker or lawyer.

S. G. SCHOONOVER'S EFFIGY.

It Was Hanged and Burned From the Bridge at Vernonia.

Vernonia, Feb. 26.—Saturday was the liveliest day known in this place for a long time. Great excitement was caused by the burning in effigy of Commissioner Schoonover. During the night before, some person or persons hung from the cross-beams of the bridge at this place, the artistic dummy which greeted us. A large sign hung from each foot; on one was this inscription:

"Commissioner Schoonover! Petitions were presented, signed by nearly all the voters in two road districts, asking that certain men be appointed supervisors. These petitions were ignored and other men appointed. The man who cries, 'Let the people rule;' practice what you preach."

The other one read thus:

"This man to be burned Saturday, February 24, who stole the remonstrance and petitions. Hurrah for Massie and the reform party."

Early in the day quite a crowd gathered at the bridge and gave three cheers for the ones who hung the dummy. Shortly after, Mr. Schoonover passed that way, but he did not recognize his likeness. He did decidedly wrong in recommending the appointment of men other than the petitions asked for, as they were signed by nearly all, without regard to politics. Not that they are less competent than those recommended, but he did not comply with the will of the people who sent him there, as well as the teachings of the party he represents. It is claimed he kept these petitions from coming before the court. A like case is the one where a remonstrance was circulated against the change in the Rock creek road. Another remonstrance is being circulated, and this time a man will be sent to present the matter to the court, rather than trust Mr. Schoonover to do it. Saturday evening, while the band played "Jeff Davis," the effigy was lighted. It burned and fell in sections till only the head of the "Dummy Schoonover" remained. From fright or shame this jumped into the creek and was drowned.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington Feb. 23.—Republican senators are now beginning to regard the defeat of the Cleveland tariff bill as possible, if not very probable. The objecting democratic senators, notwithstanding Mr Cleveland's attempt this week to silence them, who will oppose the bill, unless given what they demand, have grown numerous enough to have succeeded in hanging up the bill in the sub-committee. No democratic senator will now predict when the bill will be reported to the finance committee. The reason is plain. They do not dare to get the bill before the senate in the condition in which Mr. Cleveland and the cuckoo senators wish it to be passed; so it is being held back while fresh attempts are being made to harmonize the conflicting interests represented by objecting democratic senators.

Already propositions have been made to the republicans to vote with the objecting democrats to have the bill recommitted, should it be reported to the senate in anything like the condition in which it passed the house, but republican senators are not making any promises at this stage of the game. They only need five votes, even granting that all the populists support the bill, to defeat it outright, and if there is any chance to defeat the bill they do not propose to throw it away for the temporary triumph of having the bill recommitted. The feeling between the free trade democratic senators and those who want protection for the industries of their own states daily grows more bitter, and Mr. Cleveland by putting his oar in stands a good chance to lose several of the staunchest supporters he has had in the senate.

The republicans are jubilant over the unprecedented majority Pennsylvania gave Hon. Galusha A. Grow and the democrats are damning Mr. Cleveland because he compelled them to put up a candidate and expose the weakness of the party on the tariff question, which was the sole issue of the campaign. Speaking of the result, ex-speaker Reed said: "When we get at these fellows next November, there won't be separate burials; they will be buried in trenches." Representative Burroughs, of Michigan, says: "The result is simply indicative of the wrath to come. It is the forerunner of an overwhelming victory this fall throughout the country, to be followed by the complete triumph of the republican party in 1896."

Mr. Cleveland undoubtedly lost prestige in congress by the rejection of Peckham, although in the supreme court getting a much better man, in the person of Senator White, of Louisiana, than either Peckham or Hornblower. Hill stock has gone up about 100 per cent with democrats in congress.

The republican members of the senate committee in foreign affairs have signed the report on the Hawaiian investigation written by Senator Morgan, but the other democrats declined to do so, and will submit a minority report.

The senate in ordering an investigation of the circumstances connected with the change of contractors for the publication of the Patent Office Gazette have frightened more people than those connected with this particular contract, and if the committee can succeed in getting at the bottom of this business a startling case of favoritism if nothing worse, will certainly be exposed. It is charged that Mr. Josiah Quincey, who was made assistant secretary of state for the sole purpose of dismissing republican consuls and appointing democrats in their places and who succeeded in demoralizing the consular service to an extent that was not deemed possible before he was compelled to resign because of a disagreement with Secretary Gresham, is charged with having manipulated this contract and with having a money interest therein.

The administration, through Attorney-General Olney, struck the silver men in the house, who have been trying for more than two weeks to get a quorum to pass Mr. Bland's bill for the coinage of the seigniorage in the treasury and the issuing of silver certificates against it as fast as coined, a blow below the belt by making public an opinion, said to have been given by the attorney-general at the request of Secretary Carlisle. The opinion says that silver certificates are not lawful. While the opinion of the attorney-general will not be accepted as law by anybody it will cast a doubt upon the silver certificates that will be calculated to injure silver, and that is what the silver men are charging that the opinion was intended to do. The senate has adopted a resolution calling for an official statement of facts concerning the opinion from the attorney-general.

DEER ISLAND.

Peter Maller, of this place, was the first to pay his taxes in this county this year.

For the past week the weather has been "a snorter" but now it is coming out lovely.

Muckle Bros. have let a contract of about twenty acres of slashing to C. H. Simpson and sons.

Miss Tillie Obeng, who is down from Portland on a visit, intends returning home in a few days.

W. M. Gaddis and wife, of Reuben, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Widger, last Sunday.

Our blacksmith, Thomas Saindan, has added another machine to his shop in the shape of an incubator.

Last Saturday evening several of the neighbors gathered at the home of Charles English and gave a most pleasant basket social.

Pat Hughes is having a large field of second growth brush slashed. It will add materially to the value of his already valuable property.

Messrs Charles and Alvin Merrill have secured a fine body of cottonwood timber from A. F. McDonald, which they will manufacture into stavebolts.

Notwithstanding the remarkable mildness of this winter, hay is now in good demand with very little to offer. Those who are buying are importing from the Cowlitz country.

C. L. Olsen sold the remainder of his logging team to the butcher. There has never before been a time when good young work cattle were sold to the butcher, in this neighborhood.

The school clerk of this district has been interviewing all the young ladies, as well as the youths, and found out their ages before they were aware, but they need not be alarmed that he will give it away.

Chas A. Merrill, who has been making a tour of the Sound cities, returned last week and reports business equally worse there than here. Landlords are offering their houses free rent to reliable parties so they can keep up their insurance. The cities are quite depopulated, quite different from your city (St. Helens.) While we were in the latter place a few days since, we learned that there was not a house "to let."

TO AID THE SETTLER.

Dolph's Bill Favorably Reported, But It Will Not Pass the Senate.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Senator Dolph has secured a report from the senate committee on public lands, upon his bill to repay to settlers within the forfeited land grants, who paid $2.50 per acre for their lands, a return of $1.25 per acre of all money so paid. Settlers were compelled to pay this money because the lands were within the railroad land grants, and congress, in its wisdom of many years ago, thought that lands where settlers could only take every other section were more valuable than where they could take all the lands, and when they proved up on their claims they paid $2.50 per acre for them. This matter has been before congress for some time, and in nearly every session Senator Dolph has secured a favorable report upon his bill. The bill passed once by a strict party vote. The present bill would not have been reported from the committee on public lands had not one of the populist members of the committee voted with Senator Dolph and the other republicans, and given them a bare majority. It may be that the populists will vote for Senator Dolph's bill in the senate, but that will not give him a majority; and as it is pretty certain that every democrat will vote against the bill, it will be defeated. The bill is approved by the democratic secretary of the exterior and the commissioner of the general land office. It was also approved by their republican predecessors. Commissioner Lamoreux estimates that the repayment of this money would necessitate an appropriation of about $1,500,000.
