

The impending danger to be guarded against in the coming election is putting men into places of responsibility who are not responsible. A public trust is not a private snip. Men should by all means be selected who have shown themselves to be efficient; men who have made a success of their own private business; men who are not continually clamoring for office year after year; men who have been tried and found to be capable; men whose characters are above reproach for honesty and integrity.

THINK BEFORE YOU VOTE.

There are a great many things to be considered in the election which takes place next Monday. Upon the result depends largely the future welfare of the state. If the state should be carried by the populists it would surely bring about a revolution in business circles. It would at once overturn the courts with litigation between the debtor and creditor classes, and thereby cause endless confusion of business, and then, as now, only to a greater extent, all lines of business would be suspended to await the inevitable result of ruin to the country and double slavery to the people.

From a strictly business standpoint, it is essential that Oregon should not be controlled by populists, for in every capacity they have shown their utter incapability of legislating in the interest of the people. Whatever has been done in this state in the way of advancement and whatever growth the state has enjoyed has been under republican state administrations. These facts, no one will attempt to deny.

As we have before stated the populists platform, if it should become a law, which practically declares that a man cannot collect money loaned on property, would prevent investments of capital in this state and drive out the money already here. These facts have been demonstrated within the past two years very clearly.

On next Monday the people have it in their power to say whether this fair state shall be cleansed from the populist menace which has retarded progress in every branch of industry lately. In Columbia county the contest is between the republican party and progressiveness; on the other hand it is populism and depression. Which will you choose?

REMOVE THE OBSTRUCTION.

There is no sane man in this state who cannot see that with populist defeat business would revive and money begin to circulate. The great cry that there is not money enough in the country is a mistake. There is plenty of money in existence, but it requires confidence to make it circulate. Where are the two millions of dollars that were drawn out of the banks of Portland last summer? Has it been invested in any branch of industry? Has it gone out of the country to buy goods? Every man knows better. It is well known that the money is hiding, stored away in closets, in old stock-rooms, and in safe depositors. People who had money would not let it get out of their sight. Populist legislation would wipe it out of existence, and the people well know it. The populists are directly to blame for the scarcity of money to loan by their threats of legislation that would prevent the collection of debts. The pops don't like to hear these things, but they are nevertheless true.

The nomination of Judge Lord for governor calls to mind an amusing and possibly prophetic incident that occurred some years ago on the Bull Run and Sandy stage. He had been out on the line and was returning to Portland, when the driver, Leon Colson, being in somewhat of a hurry to reach the city before dusk, touched up his horses with the whip and put them through at a lively rate. The wheels touched the high and low spots in the road in such rapid succession as to severely test the springs and keep the occupant of the stage bouncing about its interior like a rubber ball. Finally the driver slackened his speed, and Judge Lord thrust his head out to expostulate, but just then the whip cracked again, the horses jumped into a rut, and as the judge was jerked violently back into his seat, he heard the driver shout: "My Lord, sit still, and you will get there."

"BIRDS OF A FEATHER."

Davidson, Wood and Merrill, the trio, whose names appear upon the populist certificate of nomination filed with the county clerk, are true types of populism. The people of this county well remember the populist county convention held at Rainier March 10th last, and at that convention H. T. Grewell, of Gillton, was nominated for representative in the legislature by the regular delegates representing the people of Columbia county; that the name of Grewell was associated with said nomination until April 4th, or 25 days from the date of said convention; that on April 4th, in another part of the county and not in regular convention the name of H. T. Grewell was taken off the ticket and M. Davidson substituted therefor. Here is the way Davidson's certificate of nomination reads:

"This certifies that a convention of delegates was held in the town of Rainier, Columbia County, State of Oregon, on the 10th day of March, A. D. 1894. That M. Davidson was nominated as a candidate for representative to the legislature."

This certificate is signed by M. Davidson as chairman and W. A. Wood as secretary of said convention, and subscribed and sworn to before Frank Merrill, a notary public, under his seal, at Clatskanie, Oregon, April 21, 1894. Now, then; don't the people of Columbia county know that Davidson was not nominated at the Rainier convention or any other regular convention, and was not placed on the ticket until 25 days after said convention had adjourned, and then in another part of the county. And do they not know that H. T. Grewell was the regularly nominated candidate and the only one, at that convention. Further, did not Davidson and Wood know when they swore that Davidson was nominated at the Rainier convention they were swearing falsely and committing perjury. And did not Frank Merrill, notary public, know they were swearing falsely.

This is not the first time W. A. Wood has violated the statutes of this state. He was in the same business two years ago and R. S. Hatton defended him in it. The law is very plain upon this point and we claim that Davidson is not upon the ticket in accordance with the Australian ballot law. To this trio add the name of R. S. Hatton and make it a quartette, or to make it a quintette we suggest in addition the names of Copeland, Kyser, Massie and Schoonover.

POPULIST INCONSISTENCY.

The pops propose to issue irredeemable paper money based on the wealth of the country. This, they claim, will relieve the debt burdens of the people. People of common sense cannot help but see that such a move would add an additional or double burden upon the bone and sinew of this country. Is it possible to raise a wagon out of the mud by doubling its load? The populists are very loud in their howl about high taxes, and yet they advocate this double burden of taxation. Why? Because they do not have the welfare of the country at heart, and because the party is led by a lot of ex-office holders who could no longer manage to be elected by the old parties, and now hope to ride into office by deceiving that class of voters who do not read and study these questions for themselves. The populist orators abuse the last legislature, backed up by Pennoyer, for making extravagant appropriations, and in the next breath they tell you that when the government creates a large amount of money they will get it into circulation by making large appropriations. It is presumed these appropriations will be like they were in the cases of Upton and McEwan—for populists to take pleasure trips at the state's expense. Or perhaps like Pennoyer is doing today—talking politics on a ten-dollar-a-day salary from the state. Such is populism.

The Oregon City Enterprise, after referring to Massie and Kyser, has this to say regarding populist officials: "Does anyone suppose that with a full set of populist officers that the stealings in Columbia county would ever have come to light? No wonder the populist candidates talk so glibly about crooked work and stealing. They evidently know how it is done, and their only anxiety is to get a whack at the crib." Thus the state at large points the finger of scorn at Columbia county for having elected to office such men two years ago.

LAST week's Sentinel says that Davidson, the poppie candidate for representative, is out making speeches, and it advises people to go and hear him and then judge whether he is capable to represent you in the next legislature. Stay at home, Mr. Davidson, if you expect many votes, for the moment you show yourself the Sentinel's proposal gets a negative vote. If, as the populist claim, the government can create money and loan it to farmers at two per cent, why can they not loan it without any per cent? If the government can create money, there is no limit to the amount it can create. Consequently it is not necessary to levy a tax on the money because it can keep right on creating the interest the same as it created the principal.

WEDNESDAY was the day when the nation, at large, paid tribute to the honored dead. Throughout the State of Oregon, we are pleased to say, the day was observed with appropriate ceremonies, bespeaking the esteem with which the people of the state hold those who fought to preserve our country.

WILL S. M. Rice meet Mr. Cleeton at any of the places mentioned by the latter gentleman and then say what he said in last week's Sentinel? Such a statement could only emanate from such an ignorant cur as Rice. Read Mr. Cleeton's letter under the head of "The Lie Nailed" in this issue.

There is plenty of gold still left in the country for all necessary purposes. The only trouble is that under a threatened populist administration it drifts into the banks instead of into the people's pockets.

REWARD FOR INDUSTRY.

There is one plea which the populists do most thoroughly enjoy to set up, and it is the statement that one man has no right to possess more of this world's blessings than does another, and they propose a remedy which practically declares that if one man has more than another he shall divide. For instance, if a farmer has 80 acres of land he must give 40 acres of it to the man who has none, and other property the same way. This is the teaching of populism.

Doesn't human nature defend the right of every man to accumulate property by his own efforts as the essence of individual liberty? The constitution recognizes it by investing all citizens with freedom of personal exertion for the promotion of their own welfare and prosperity, according to the measure of individual ability. The hope of profit and reward is the basis of all progress, and any theory which antagonizes that idea is false and pernicious. We have prospered beyond precedent, as a people, by reason of the sort of liberty which gives to every man the right to apply his energies in any direction, with the assurance of protection in the possession and enjoyment of all that he may acquire. The inequalities that we see do not signify, as the populists try to teach us, that the philosophy of our political system and industrial structure is illogical and unjustly discriminating. They are unavoidable under any system, and simply mean that men differ in degree of capacity, and that they cannot be artificially made and kept equal in that respect. We fail to see any thing wrong in one man having more than another if he gets it by his own energy. The right to accumulate wealth does not condemn any class or any person to poverty. It merely offers the inducement that is the principal secret of success; and some men profit by it more than others because of different circumstances.

OFF THE TRACK.

The Sentinel man got several feet out of the "middle of the road" last week when he stated that it was a fact that T. J. Cleeton received his nomination by pledging himself to create the office of recorder for this county. This was simply another of those simple, pure joys which Van does so thoroughly enjoy telling. Now Van, you lied, and you know it. The persons interested in this affair can and will prove conclusively that the statements to that effect are blank, unvarnished lies. The very fact that Mr. Rice allowed his name to go before the convention is evidence that there is no truth in the statement that Rice had been sidetracked; further, Jas. Muckle, whom it was said, had Cleeton pledge himself, publishes a statement defying any man to come before him and make the statement and he will prove the whole thing to be false. Moreover, T. J. Cleeton challenges S. M. Rice to bring the man before him who told him of this transaction, as it appeared in the Sentinel. Read Mr. Cleeton's challenge in this issue. And, not until the Monday last preceding the convention was Cleeton aware of the fact that his friends were going to propose his name to the convention. And, further yet, Van, if you had the first inkling of sense you would know that it is out of the general order of business for a representative to create a law of that nature and create the office, and create the date for that created official to take charge of that created office. You may think so because your father—Davidson—told you that he could do something of that kind. Van, your argument is as shallow as your brain, and bears out very plainly that when you can't see a tree you will grab at a straw. Your editorial (?) is thin brain food, indeed.

No one should be in doubt as to the ticket you should vote next Monday. A great republican victory will demonstrate to eastern capital that the crank populists do not own the state, by any means, and money will once more come here. The tidings of a republican victory will have the result to overthrow theorists and fanatics, and will be a blow to the rasping populist doctrine. It is in the hands of the people, however, and the ballot box is the supreme authority. The government should own the railroads and banks, say the populists, not the socialists. Yes, and the factories, and the stores, and the barber shops, and the farms, and the steamboats, and the peanut stands, and the hotels, and other industries. Knock the ambition of man, elect Pennoyer president, give him more servants, and let him declare himself king. Our populist friends claim that the government stamp on a piece of paper makes it money. Well, suppose our populist friend is passing a corral where mules are being branded, and the man using the iron stamps it on Mr. populist, does that make him a mule? One is just as sensible as the other.

The State of Oregon is now paying Governor Pennoyer a salary of $10 a day while he is making populist speeches. Why don't you pops howl extravagance at Pennoyer? Because you haven't the fairness to own the truth. The people of this county have had a taste of populism, and have arrived at the conclusion that a mild dose is sufficient. Massie, Schoonover, and Kyser have killed populism in Columbia county.

ABOUT the only legacy which the populists of Columbia county will have when they are driven into retirement on the 4th of June, is the fond recollection of once electing a sheriff who has their spoils.

The pops denounce the "jute-mill bill" as a steal of $190,000. Governor Pennoyer recommended its passage and signed it and all the democrats in the legislature, save three, voted for it. Wait! Wait and watch! Wait, watch and listen for the election returns. Listen loud.

WHEN the Sentinel man reads the election returns he will write in a different key.

WEEK R. S. Hatton was in St. Helens last Friday he offered him space, free of charge, to publish any reply he might have to make in reference to the charge of bribery, but he remained silent. In the Clatskanie Chief we find in the shape of a petition signed by some citizens of Clatskanie, saying that they believe he did it in the interest of "humanity," etc. In this it seems that they do not deny the charge, but claim the right to take the law into his own hands and sit as judge and jury both in compromising crime. If the people would elect him sheriff his task would be easier.

Our populist friends have a great deal to say about "we taxpayers." Who, in the name of common sense, do they refer to? The populists pay a comparatively small amount of taxes. The names of Davidson and Detrick are not to be found upon the assessment roll at all. All the taxes that have been paid by the populist candidates up to noon yesterday is the $16.83 paid by George Fowler. On the republican ticket five candidates have all paid their tax except one; while on the populist ticket only one has paid. Yet they talk about "we taxpayers." The county is today paying 8 per cent. interest on every dollar of taxes unpaid by county warrants being outstanding and unpaid for want of funds. Why don't "we taxpayers" relieve the county of this burden by paying their taxes.

MR. COPELAND says in his article in last week's Sentinel: "I am not seeking a position, nor do I propose to empty my pockets setting up cheap whisky to get office, that I may fill them before I get out." Jo, you are on the wrong ticket; for there has not been a populist official in this county yet but has endeavored to fill his pocket, and that very fast, too. Your very utterance is an implication that you are in it for what you can get out of the office.

THE populists want the government to loan money to farmers at two per cent interest. Why this discrimination? Why not also loan to the poor fellows who cannot afford to have farms—to all—and at one per cent? How can the government loan when it has to borrow?

KNOX made more republican votes than he did populist—two to one. It is really a loss to the republican party that he went away so soon as he did.

Cleeton branded S. M. Rice as a liar and proved it by Rice's own witnesses, in the presence of the two principals and their friends, yesterday evening. The question at issue was the accusation by Rice in last week's Sentinel that Cleeton had agreed to be the office of recorder created by nomination at the convention held in Portland and away satisfied that somebody had lied.

ONE OF THE DELEGATES.

EDITOR SENTINEL.—I desire to say a few words in regard to the very indefinite piece of gossip which Mrs. Grundy (S. M. Rice) favored us with in the last issue of the "Sentinel." He says "they went to Rice, etc. Now that we want to know who they went to and afterward to Cleeton? Why don't he give us the whole of the story? Or had that part of the story not been made up yet? I presume S. M. could tell us that and so could his friends, and so could the delegates generally tell the truth. It is "they" that tell the gossip who make up the story. I presume S. M. could tell us that and so could his friends, and so could the delegates generally tell the truth. It is "they" that tell the gossip who make up the story. I presume S. M. could tell us that and so could his friends, and so could the delegates generally tell the truth. It is "they" that tell the gossip who make up the story.

Men whom the lust of office does not kill; Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy; Men who possess opinions and will not lie; Men who have honor; men who will not lie.

The nomination of T. J. Cleeton was the result of a large majority of the delegates, and of the people of the county, believing that him; that and so to tell him, etc. The republican banner to victory, and who, when he shall have served his term in the legislature, we shall be proud to say, "I voted for him."

I feel safe to say no man was nominated as the result of trickery or chicanery, but each man was nominated with a full understanding of the seriousness of the situation and of the absolute necessity of placing in nomination men who were known to be careful, thoughtful, capable, and honest. And this is casting no reflection on any other candidate before the convention. The defeated candidates were generally of as good timber as the county possesses. Once more I say, there was no bargain, and any sensible man in this county knows that such a bargain would have defeated any candidate. Vernonia, Oregon. C. H. NEWTS.

PERIS. R. H. Bailey arrived home last week. The grass, wheat, and rye is growing very fast. The rye is heading out. We welcome the sunshine, after having such a cold and backward spring.

MAINVILLE. Mainville is trying to secure a postoffice. The special alliance meeting called Friday night for the purpose of electing a secretary and janitor, almost ended in a row, so the report goes. They will fight among themselves if necessary, but they hardly have enough grit to face a republican in joint discussion. The speech rendered by T. J. Cleeton at Mainville last week on the money question was to the point in every respect. Mr. Cleeton gave the populists a chance to correct any statement he might make, but there were no contradictions made while he was here, however the populists found plenty to say after he had gone.
