

OREGON MIST.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY.

SIDE-HEAD PARAGRAPHS.

NEW INSURANCE COMPANY.—A new fire insurance company has been organized at Oregon City, the Farmers Co-operative Fire Insurance Association, and will insure farm property and isolated dwellings in towns. The cost of the insurance is three-tenths of the usual rate down and a premium rate for the other seven-tenths, which will be subject to assessment if needed.

TOO MANY TRAMPS.—It is embarrassing to admit, says the Baker City Democrat, but it is nevertheless the fact, that the people of this community never before felt such insecurity and lack of safety for their personal welfare as at the present time. It is the general sentiment freely expressed that the only protection against the marauding class that infest this community is for every citizen to arm himself and be prepared to take the law in his own hands.

MET AFTER MANY YEARS.—Mr. Joseph Marlin, an Eastern Oregon railroad contractor, and a second cousin of Mr. E. E. Quick, was in town a few days this week. Mr. Quick had not seen this cousin for sixteen years, yet he at once recognized him. Mr. Marlin expects to look over the route of the proposed Astoria railroad with a view to contracting for a part of its construction, having had long years of experience in that line.

A ROUGH VOYAGE.—The steamer Oregon came very near being wrecked on her last trip up from San Francisco. Despite her great power she was not able to face the storm which gradually drove her shoreward, until finally, when within a short distance of the rocks the wind suddenly shifted and the good ship steamed into safety after battling with the waves for about two days and nights, resulting in considerable damage to the vessel.

BEYOND ENDURANCE.—If things continue this way very long, all who carry a dollar with them after night will have to carry a gun, or a body guard, says the Hillsboro Argus. "Hold-ups" are too frequent, altogether. There was a time when necktie parties usually followed the capture of nocturnal plunderers, and if robberies continue much longer as they have for the past several months, there will be someone in need of a priest. People get tired of being held up all the time.

BEAUTY IN NATURE.—Mr. Joseph Courtney, geologist of San Francisco, has been in the city during the entire week. The gentleman has secured the country heretofore in search of Indian and other relics of various characters. Monday he gathered a collection of native mosses which were sent to San Francisco to adorn a Christmas tree. Mr. Courtney is a gentleman of rare personal attainments, pleasant in conversation and a great admirer of nature's diversities.

PETTY THIEVES.—Something ought and will have to be done to rid the community of a most undesirable class of individuals. For the past week or two burglaries and attempted hold-ups have been quite numerous, and petty thieving is likewise indulged in. People are missing chickens and small articles of all kinds. In fact everything lying around loose must be watched pretty closely. Whether this is being done by "local talent" or tourists, we don't know, but it should, at any rate, be ferreted out.—Eugene Guard.

LAND DECISION.—A declaration of residence at a specified place, for the purpose of voting there, precludes a subsequent claim of residence, at the same time, at another place, in order to secure title to a tract of land under the homestead law. Acts of settlement, induced by knowledge of an impending contest, cannot be accepted as in bona fide compliance with the requirements of the homestead law. An affidavit of contest should set forth a definite charge, which, if proven, will warrant cancellation of the entry in question.

THE ONLY SURVIVOR.—F. H. Hatch returned last evening from Oregon City, says the Salem Statesman of last Friday, where he had attended the fiftieth anniversary of the organization of a Congregational church in this state. Mr. Hatch is the only surviving member of the first organization, and although for twenty years past a staunch Methodist, he still takes an interest in the body with which he had affiliated for forty years previously. There were four generations of the Hatch family at the Oregon City meeting, and they had a pleasant reunion.

WILD CATTLE.—A correspondent of the Roseburg Review tells an interesting story about a herd of wild cattle now roaming the mountains between Rogue river and the south fork of the Umpqua. Such a herd has existed, he says, for twenty years past, and now numbers in the neighborhood of 500 cattle. They are wild as deer, and difficult of approach. The practical harm they work is that gentle cattle belonging to farmers are enticed away and join this wild herd. It is proposed now to round them up and kill them, if some equitable agreement can be reached as to the ownership of the recent additions and the disposition of those remaining.

THE RAILROAD.—Everything points to a determined push in the construction of the Astoria railroad, from the fact alone that Mr. Hammond, it is stated, while in the East, will make arrangements to ship several cargoes of iron and material necessary for construction, at an early date, via Cape Horn, so as to reach this coast by June. On his return Mr. Hammond will let contracts for bridge timbers and ties, so that there will be no delay in going ahead with the grading. The contracts will be given mostly to the lower river mills. Mr. Campbell, on his return to his home in Detroit, will make arrangements to move his family to Astoria.

A JOLLY GOOD TIME.—Grand Patron J. H. Bridgeford, of Bay City, Oregon, paid an official visit to Missan Chapter No. 30, Order of the Eastern Star, St. Helens, last Saturday night. After the regular session of the lodge a number of friends, who had been previously invited, arrived at Masonic hall and joined the members of the order in an elaborate luncheon, which had been prepared by the ladies, and engaged in social chat until toward 12 o'clock. General merriment prevailed, and the members of the order lost no opportunity to impress upon the visitors the fact that they were very welcome. The Chapter at this place has been instituted but a short time, yet it enjoys a healthy membership composed of our very best people. Among the interesting features to the visitors was the elegant set of officers' jewelry, a present to the lodge from Past Grand Master Jacob Myers, of Portland, and the splendid library, to which members of the order have access, containing many choice selections from the most able authors. The affair, entire, was the most enjoyable in the city for many a day, and those who attended may be proud of having had an opportunity to be present.

IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION.—A movement is on foot in St. Helens to build a sidewalk from here to Houlton on a direct line. The plan is to lay two plank parallel with each other, leaving them far enough apart to admit a third one if desired in future, following as nearly as possible the course of "Nigger" creek, which would furnish an easy grade. This is done with the object in view of later on building the wagon road along the same route, which would shorten the distance to Houlton about one-half mile, and over a more smooth roadbed. The scheme also suggests another feature which has been discussed more or less of late. It is the desire of a great many and would, perhaps, result in a benefit to all, to consolidate the Houlton and St. Helens school districts again and erect a new school house about midway between the two places for the accommodation of both. The school building to be so arranged as to require the separation of the different grades, which, by employing nothing but first class teachers would be productive of good results. We hope the people will take the matter in hand with the determination to push it to completion.

A BIRTH ON THE DIXON.—On Friday last among the passengers aboard the steamer Sarah Dixon was a woman, who, after procuring a ticket for Rainier, complained of feeling ill, and asked the steward to furnish her a room. The request was complied with, and a little later she called the steward again and wanted to borrow some trifle. This accommodation was also extended, and a few minutes later the feeble cries of an infant were heard in the room. The event caused no little excitement on the steamer, and there being no physician aboard, Steward Murray and Purser Nordby vied with each other in their attentions to the brand-new passenger. The little stranger is a girl, and whether she will be named Sarah Dixon or be named after the attentive officers still remains an open question.

Assessors' Convention.—The annual convention of the assessors of Oregon was held in Salem this week, and before adjourning the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That it be the sense of this meeting that the assessor's office should be put on a salary, and that the assessor's salary should be put on an equality with the other county officials in accordance with the amount of work done, and that census work be paid extra; it is further

Resolved, That each assessor in the state be furnished with a copy of this resolution and the proceedings of this convention, and that each assessor should send to the chairman of the legislative committee an estimate of the amount of salary he should receive for assessing and for census work.

And we recommend that each assessor confer with his county court as to the advisability of a salary system.

It is also recommended by this convention that the making of the tax roll and all duplicates should be made by assessors.

Further, that assessors be given a seal in connection with their offices.

Taxes Due the State.—Judge Norliup, of Portland, recently sent the following letter to the state treasurer in order to learn the amount of back taxes owed the state by Multnomah county:

"Will you oblige me by sending an official statement of the account between Multnomah county by your office, the amounts by years, and in several funds for each year.

"There is one question upon which I would like to have your views, and if possible, the views of the state's attorney; that is, whether or not the law as amended, the state is not compelled to share pro rata in any delinquency arising from the failure to pay, suppose the delinquency in the collection of the taxes for the year 1893 for Multnomah county was $100,000. Would or would not the state have to bear its proportionate loss of the state tax of the said delinquency?"

Mr. Metcalf replied with the following statement:

"In the matter referred to of the state bearing its proportion of the delinquent taxes, which may not have been collected by the several counties, I permit me to refer you to the decision of the supreme court, wherein it was held that the state is not liable for its proportion of delinquent or uncollected taxes. The attorney-general is absent, but I am cognizant of his holding the same opinion."

Multnomah county owes the state a total of $125,529.30.

Open to Settlement.

ENRICH, Or., Dec. 10.—This morning at 9 o'clock four townships located near Dexter, which have been surveyed and notices posted according to law, were thrown open to settlement. Very soon after, Mrs. Martha Bogart made the first filing. She and her husband had been living on a land filed on for about five years, and a little while ago Mr. Bogart died. She has now made the filing to preserve her home.

CLATSKANIE.

J. M. Payne spent the greater part of last week in the metropolis.

Mrs. W. C. Wolf returned to her home in McMinville last week.

Ed Lane and Silas Shrouds were passengers up the river Friday evening to visit the great city of the north-west.

The road supervisor has been having some of the worst places on the Nehalem road repaired temporarily. The road was becoming almost impassable.

A. F. Myers, Henry Kratz, and Dr. Hall returned Thursday morning from a brief visit to the city, where each one had been buying some addition to his stock of merchandise.

Our teamsters manage to get our and haul an occasional load of wood these days, but the man who failed to get a supply of wood in before the recent rains is not getting a very large load for his money. The roads are in such extremely bad condition.

Fred Aldridge, a boy of 14, living on the Edgerton place, near the new mill, was unfortunate enough last Saturday to have his leg broken below the knee by being struck by a limb. The doctor's services were required and the boy left as comfortable as could be expected under the circumstances.

It seems a little strange that one hears no talk of Merrill's hall being unsafe since it is used so regularly for social dances. When preaching services were held there it was frequently remarked that the hall was not safe, and made a most convenient excuse for staying away. Come to think of it, would an orderly preaching service or a lively dance test the strength of a building the most? Perhaps the hall has grown stronger with age, like a butter, for instance.

The God-Templars lodge has been adding considerably to its membership lately, and last Thursday evening, while enjoying a little social diversion, during intermission, the sedate lodge deputy, C. W. Jones, with a bandage over his eyes, playing blind man's-buff, to remind him of the days of his youth, accidentally came in contact with a lamp which had knocked off a table and broken, and upon receiving the hand from his eyes, found himself surrounded by flames. Quite a conflagration prevailed for a few minutes, but the coolness of a few persons prevailed and the flames were extinguished without very serious damage. One young man got his hand out, but he heard of no other casualties to any one except a slight singeing of the venerable deputy.

Hard Facts Plainly Stated.

Speaking of the time to stop advertising, a contemporary says that it should be discontinued when the population ceases to multiply, and the generations that crowd on after you and have never heard of you stop coming on; when you have convinced every one whose life will mingle with yours, that you have better goods at lower prices than he or she can get anywhere else; when you perceive it to be the rule that men who never advertise are outstripping those in the same line of business who do; when men stop making fortunes right in your sight solely through the discreet use of this mighty agent; when you forget the words of the shrewd and most successful business men concerning the main cause of their prosperity; when every man becomes a creature of habit so thoroughly that he will buy this year where he bought last year; when younger and fresher houses in your line cease starting up and using the newspapers in telling the people how much better they can do for them than you can; when you would rather have your own way, and fall than take the advice, and win; when nobody else thinks it pays to advertise.

Outlook for Free Coinage.

The silver men assert that a free coinage bill will be urged in the present session of congress, and believe that the issue will pass. It should be the case, opponents of free silver, would, of course, look to the senate to defeat it. That body, with its rules admitting of unlimited debate, would seem to be in a position to accomplish this result. The fact is, however, pointed out that the senate has twice during the fifty-first congress and once during the fifty-second congress put itself on record in favor of a free coinage bill, although it was impossible to bring the measure to a vote in the house at those times. Of the present senate fifty three senators were members when the first vote was taken on the 17th of June, 1890, on a free coinage proposition, pure and simple. All either voted or were paired except Senators Carey, Shoup, and Wilson of Iowa. The vote was forty two for free coinage to twenty five against it. The republicans who voted for the proposition were Cameron, Jones, of Nevada, Manderson, Mitchell, of Oregon, Power, Squire, Stewart, Teller, and Wolcott. Pettigrew was paired in favor of free coinage. The democrats who voted against free coinage were Gray and McPherson.

The measure never came to a vote in the house and consequently died in the hands of the house coinage committee.

Savage and Klein Sentenced.

THE DALLES, Or., Dec. 10.—Otis Savage was today sentenced to four years in the penitentiary, while his confederate, Frank Klein, who turned state's evidence, received eighteen months. This completes the story of the Pacific Express robbery.

At the opening of court this morning Judge Bradshaw overruled the motion for a new trial, and Otis Savage stood up. When asked if he had anything to say he replied:

"I don't know what I can say. It is a well-laid plan to cinch me. I'll stand and take my medicine though."

Klein had nothing to say. Judge Bradshaw made some remarks relative to the lives these young men had lived, and spoke words of warning to those who would imitate their example. Klein seems entirely repentant, but Savage shows no feeling. The attorneys for the defense moved for a stay of judgment till the case could be heard in the supreme court.

The Portland papers are not publishing comments from the state press regarding the "universal" exposition. They come too near telling the truth.

Yesterday was Astoria day at the Portland exposition. Gobble day has not yet been "fixed," but gobble day at the "universal" is a universal fixture.

Miss J. V. Groves left Monday for Skamokawa to spend the week with her sister, Mrs. Price, and also to take part in an entertainment to be given during the week.

A train was held up on the Texas & Pacific railroad at Fort Worth, Texas, last Friday by three highwaymen and robbed of over $100,000. It was done in regular Jesse James style, the whole affair not occupying more than fifteen minutes.

A Georgia aditor puts it in this style: "The wind bloweth, the water floweth, the farmer soweth, the subscriber oweth and the Lord knoweth we are in need of our dues. So come runnin', this thing of dunnin' gives us the blue."

J. A. Wright, state representative from Union county, this state, will not support Senator Dolph for re-election. He says Eastern Oregon is unqualifiedly a majority for silver legislation, and that a vote for Dolph would be a betrayal of his constituency.

Edwin Merrill, of Deer Island, was a caller at this office Monday. While the cashier was writing out a receipt for his subscription for one year in advance, Mr. Merrill incidentally remarked that he couldn't get along very well without THE MIST.

The friends of Frederick J. Grant, editor of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, who sailed on the ship Ivanhoe for San Francisco about two months ago and has not since been heard from, have given up all hope for his safety, and his will has been admitted to probate.

H. O. Howard started his logging camp on Milton creek a few days ago with a small force of men. Camps are resuming work in different parts of the county.

Mr. Dolman seems to conduct business just the opposite to most merchants. He is very careful to carry a full stock of goods in dull times—others have full stock in good times.

Painting and repairing is being vigorously prosecuted in and around the Oriental hotel, and the building, inside, when the painters have finished with it, will present a most inviting appearance.

Gillton people loose no time in entertaining each other. A surprise party is on the tapis nearly every week, and with the semi-monthly meetings of the two political clubs, besides the literary society meeting every Thursday evening, with other entertainments, the people are kept busy.

Lower Columbia river lumber manufacturers will be afforded an opportunity to keep their mills in active operation when construction work on the Astoria railroad is started in to 1 year, and the prospects are flattering for the whole lower part of the country in the way of healthy operations in all channels of business.

State Teachers' Association.

SCAPPOOSE, Or., Dec. 12, 1894.

The annual meeting of the State Teachers' Association of Oregon will be held in Portland, December 26, 27 and 28, 1894.

The attention of the teachers of Columbia county is respectfully called to the importance of attending this meeting, and it is hoped that a large number will avail themselves of this favorable opportunity to meet with the leading educators of the state.

It is a well known fact that a successful teacher must move in harmony with the progressive theories and methods of modern teaching, and the state and county institutes are the proper places to acquire such information.

Visiting teachers may secure favorable hotel accommodation by addressing Prof. J. Burham, chairman of the entertainment committee, Portland, Oregon.

Very respectfully, J. G. WATTS, County School Superintendent.
