SIDE-HEAD PARAGRAPHS.

INCONSISTENCY—An exchange says that an editor will go to some merchants and ask them for an ad., when they will remark that it does not pay; that no one reads his paper. Some night shortly after let the man be caught kissing his neighbor's wife, or trying to keep a lamp post perpendicular, and if the printing office is in the garret of a seventeen story building he will climb to the top to beg the editor to keep quiet—don't publish it in the paper, you know.

FIRE ON NEHALEM ROAD.—Parties coming in from Nehalem bring reports of terrific forest fires in the Upper Milton creek and Bunker Hill country. It is said to be almost impossible to get over that route even on horseback. The fire is doing great damage to timber, and will no doubt totally destroy large bodies which would have some day been brought into the market. The small ranches in that locality, of which there is not a few, will of course be losers to some extent.

TO DISCUSS SILVER.—Ex-Congressman Horr and Congressman Bryan of Nebraska, have been invited to discuss the silver question during the state fair at Salem next month. Bryan has already accepted the invitation to meet Horr, the latter, however, not yet having consented to the discussion. Governors Budd of California, McConnell of Idaho, and McGraw of Washington, have been invited to act as referees. It is intended to have the debate cover a period of five days.

EMPLOYED AT RAINIER.—At a recent meeting of the board of directors of the Rainier school district Mrs. S. S. Way, of this place, was employed to teach the primary department in the public school of that place for the winter term. Mrs. Way had just finished a successful term of school at Apiary, and the excellent manner in which she conducted the school there commended her to the consideration of the guardians of the Rainier school. That she will prove herself worthy goes without saying.

NEW STEAMBOAT ROUTE.—The Lewis River Transportation Company have placed the steamer Eaglelte on a route between La Center and this place to connect with the Lurline. The Eaglelte leaves La Center at 10 a. m., arriving here at 11:30. This is done in order that persons living several miles in the interior can leave home in the morning, come to La Center, take the little steamer for St. Helens and transfer to the Lurline, arriving in Portland at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The fare is the same as by the steamer Mascot direct.

WILL TEST THEIR SPEED.—The Telephone will hereafter leave Portland at 1 o'clock on Saturday, the same time the Potter leaves, running direct to the seaside. Those who have heretofore expressed a desire to see the two steamers test their speed on a run direct to Astoria without stopping will now have their desires gratified. There has for some time been considerable contention between friends of the two steamers as to which was the faster, indeed friends of both boats have been unable to determine which had a right to the honors, and really, if there is a difference in their speed it is very slight either way.

WIND, SMOKE, DUST AND HEAT.—The old saying that "this is the most disagreeable weather I ever saw," was a common expression on our streets last Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. And really, the weather was disagreeable; for not only did the wind blow a gale, carrying dust in blinding fogs, but the atmosphere was so densely smoky that it was quite impossible to see across the river, while the heat was intense the first three days. All these elements seemed to combine at one time to make life unpleasant. Tuesday evening about 8 o'clock, however, the temperature was a little cooler and people breathed the smoke and dust with more ease. But the smoke; holy smoke!

A PLEASANT EVENING.—Mr. Frank Dow, the leading dairyman of Sauvies island, has our thanks for a can of cream from his separator, which arrived on the Young America Tuesday evening. Adding a little sugar and vanilla, and with a further addition of ice and the use of an ice cream freezer, a preparation, said by those who tasted it to be ice cream, was manufactured and a little later in the evening the entire Knights of Pythias lodge was invited over to the residence of Mr. Richard Cox to enjoy the splendid ice cream and cake which had been prepared by the ladies, wives of the members. There were about forty present, and after they could no longer look a dish of ice cream in the face they engaged in social chat for a time before departing for their several homes. Mr. Dow has, at different times, extended his hospitality to the Knights, and each time exceeds all former attempts, and to the average lover of a mixture of ice, sugar and cream in St. Helens, his name is held in grateful remembrance.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.—The annual teachers' institute for Columbia county will be held at Clatskanie, commencing next Monday and closing Friday, the programme for which will be found in another column of this issue. Professor Wetzell, who has been engaged as instructor, has had a great deal of experience in school work as well as bearing the distinction of being one of the most successful educators of the state. The institute, we believe, will prove interesting, not only to those actively engaged in school work but to all friends of education who can find time to attend the session. Mr. Watts, the county superintendent, has labored very hard during the past year in the interest of the public schools of the county, and for the institute has selected some very important subjects for discussion. The institute will, no doubt, prove beneficial to those who attend, and the people of Clatskanie, in keeping with past events, will extend to the visitors a hearty welcome, and leave no stone unturned to make their visit there one long to be remembered.

SEASIDE EXCURSION.—The members of the order of Knights of Pythias of St. Helens, Kalama and Rainier have combined to give a grand excursion to the coast on Friday, August 16th. The palatial steamer Harvest Queen has been chartered for the trip, and there will be room for everybody. Inasmuch as the fare for the round trip has been agreed upon at the astonishingly low figure of $1.50 it will enable hundreds of tired and smoke-smothered persons to visit the ocean beach and spend a day of pleasure. The steamer will leave St. Helens promptly at 6 o'clock a. m. of that day, touching at Caples, Martins, Kalama, Goble, Rainier, Bushes' and Cathlamet, arriving at Young's bay wharf at 12:30 m. There a special train will be in waiting to convey the crowd to Gearhart Park and other points on the beach, where you can remain until 7 o'clock p. m., having six hours on the beach in which to dig clams, catch crabs and enjoy the surf bathing. There will be light refreshments served on board the boat by a special committee, excellent orchestral music will be along and other amusements and comforts which will add to the pleasure of those who go. Coupon tickets will be sold which will be good for your fare from the wharf at St. Helens, including the trip by rail and return, back to St. Helens, all for $1.50. This is a chance to see the Pacific you can't well afford to miss, and if you fail to go you will always regret it. Be sure to secure your ticket before going on board the boat. Tickets on sale at Ross' drug store or by any member of the order at either St. Helens, Kalama or Rainier.

RAGING FOREST FIRE.—A forest fire was started back of the Stump place on Scappoose last Friday or Saturday. The heavy winds prevailing during Sunday and Monday, in fact for several days the first of the week, fanned the flames until they leaped from one tree top to another, and cinders and fire brands were carried for miles. The fire on Sunday night drifted to the long railroad trestle north of Rocky Point, and great damage was only prevented by the prompt work of the section hands. During Sunday night residents in the vicinity of the fire kept guards out all night to protect their property and to give the alarm in case of a threatened conflagration. Monday afternoon the fire was reported to be abating, since which time we have received no report.

It would be a hard matter to revive the creamery question in any district with butter about 12½ cents a pound, which would put milk below any possible living price, probably at about 35 cents a hundred, or about 2½ cents a gallon. This without doubt would discourage any milk producing district. But still, there is plenty of profit in milk if we only pay proper attention to its manufacture. With cheese at 10 cents a pound common milk is really worth $1 a hundred, or 8 cents a gallon at the cheese factory. Cheese has always commanded a good price with a ready sale, which is very different from butter, which must be disposed of immediately, while cheese can be stored for an indefinite length of time. Creameries and cheese factories are really the only way to utilize the milk product of any community to any real advantage.

A. F. McDonald is in receipt of information from First Assistant Physician W. T. Williamson, of the Oregon Insane asylum, in which he says: "I am instructed by Dr. Rowland to inform you that Mrs. Emma Merrill continued in a state of acute mania until early yesterday morning, (July 23), when she suddenly collapsed with symptoms of heart failure. By prompt and persistent attention she rallied somewhat, and kept along through the day, receiving constant watch and care. Nurses sat with her until 12:45 A. M., when she quietly passed away." Her remains were shipped to Etna, Wash., and buried at that cemetery on the 26th of last month, followed to her last resting place by a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends. The young folks of that neighborhood showed excellent talent and culture in singing. Judge Calahan, of Kalama, spoke of her character in the most pleasing language your correspondent ever had the pleasure of listening to. She had been an acquaintance of his from her childhood, and he knew well of whom he was speaking. Deceased was born in Marion county, this state, December 18th, 1866.

A MURDERER CAUGHT.

George Upton Arrested in Astoria Last Saturday.

George Upton was arrested by Chief of Police Laughery in Astoria last Saturday afternoon for the murder of William De Journette, which occurred near Clatskanie about eight years ago. Upton had his trunk checked and was ready to leave for Portland on the evening boat, when he was arrested in a saloon. Since the murder Upton has twice been arrested, but each time escaped. The first time he succeeded in convincing the officer that it was his twin brother that was wanted instead of himself. The second time he took advantage of the officer in an unguarded moment and knocked him senseless and made good his escape. He was seen in Astoria two years ago, but when the officers searched for him he could not be found. It is thought that since that time he has been in California. The crime upon which the grand jury based its indictment was committed about as follows:

About 6 o'clock on the evening of Friday, August 12, 1887, George Upton entered the dwelling of William C. Statler, on the Clatskanie, and announced that he intended to kill the entire household and then kill himself. Then he began shooting. Two shots were aimed with good effect at De Journette, the last one striking him near the temple and producing death almost instantly. He then turned on Statler, firing in quick succession, two shots taking effect, one in the shoulder and the other tearing off a piece of the lower jaw. This emptied the revolver, and Upton, who had brought a supply of ammunition, then refilled his weapon with the intention of killing Mrs. De Journette, but when he pulled the trigger, the hammer did not work, the spring evidently having been broken with the last shot. He beat the woman over the head with the revolver, threw her on the floor and kicked her until she was covered with bruises from head to foot. Upton then put his revolver and what ammunition he had into the pocket of the dead De Journette, and under threats of certain death forced Statler and the woman to promise they would swear that Statler had killed De Journette. He then walked to McGraw's landing, procured a small boat and rowed to Oak Point to get Dr. Newell to dress the wounds of his victims. The doctor, however, was across the river at the Hodgkins place at the time and Upton was obliged to again cross the river. He found Dr. Newell and returned with him to the scene of the trouble and assisted in dressing the body of De Journette. By this time it was about midnight, and Upton then left the house and made his escape in a small boat to Quinn's landing where he boarded the Telephone the next afternoon for parts unknown.

There is considerable history connected with this case. When Statler and his wife first came to this county they lived at or near Cedar Landing, and De Journette lived with them, he and Statler working together. After a while differences arose between Statler and his wife and the latter procured a divorce and married De Journette, the three still living in the same house. They afterwards moved down on the Beaver, where later they were joined by Upton, and the four lived together. It is said that Upton and the woman would take an occasional trip together and be gone several days at a time, but when he insisted on her living with him permanently she refused. This so angered Upton that he determined to murder the whole gang, and made the above attempt to carry out his plans.

Sheriff Doan received word from Chief of Police Loughery Monday that his man was held there awaiting his instructions and he left the same evening for Astoria. Tuesday night Sheriff Doan passed up the river for Portland where Upton was placed in the Multnomah county jail for safe keeping until the next term of the circuit court in this county.

Constable Haines has left the fishing grounds as the terms of his contract depended too much on the fish that did not come.

Enough shingles have been sawed at the new mill to cover the roof, and everything is about ready for active operations in makshingles for market.

Some fires built for the purpose of clearing land about here, have been giving neighbors some trouble, but no great damage has resulted yet.

E. W. Conyers and son Will and family, with Grant Jones and family and Miss Fannie Quigley, are taking an outing in the Nehalem valley this week.

Mr. Stewart is making considerable alteration in the interior of his building recently vacated by the Hughes family. He expects to give it a general overhauling preparatory to occupying it.

When Tom Carter gets through with Edgerton's store building he expects to have bay windows in front of it and bay windows in rear of it. Some of them are already in position and look very well, beside adding to the light inside.

Cedar lumber from the Nehalem valley has been keeping nearly every team in the valley employed. At least it looks that way when the cloud of dust off in that direction shows that the procession is coming into town with its loads of lumber.

Arrangements are being made to hold an entertaining and profitable teachers' institute here next week. The local committee has not been idle—as our paper intimates—but is trying to contribute to the comfort and entertainment of all who will attend.

We had another visitor last week who could talk so smoothly and get into our houses so gracefully to inquire about our sewing machines. He sold the only machine that was worth having, and was willing, as an act of kindness, to take our inferior makes and exchange them for his, asking only a little matter of 50 or 60 dollars as a difference. He was rather surprised to find we had heard that kind of talk before, and that the exchange business was no go. He remained with us nearly all week, adding a little to his stock of experience, at least.

Last Friday morning some fish boats previously engaged took a jolly party of about 60 persons out to Wallace's island on a picnic excursion, where the party watched the seineing, took dinner from their baskets in the shade of the trees, and amused themselves until Captain Dell Shaver came along with the steamer, and landing took the crowd on board and brought them back to Clatskanie with the compliments of the Shaver Transportation Company. His kindness was appreciated, and the only regret was that the steamer could not have had more business on the river so as to have delayed it an hour longer and given that much more time on the island. The Chief last week suggested that the excursion party ought to have secured a steam launch and gone out to the island in a proper manner. Yes; anytime the Chief furnishes the launch the party is willing to go again.

Round trip tickets for the Clatsop beach excursion next Friday only $1.50. You will never go there so cheap again.

Dr. Cliff was hurriedly summoned to Ridgefield last Tuesday evening to relieve the little 5-year-old daughter of Judge Gilbert, who had swallowed a whistle. It is thought the child will be out of danger in a day or two.

Judge Thomas A. McBride held an adjourned term of court here last Saturday, at which time he heard a number of motions argued and rendered decisions in several important cases. The judge, accompanied by his family, will start in a few days for Mount St. Helens where he usually spends his summer vacation.

"We had an epidemic of dysentery in this vicinity last summer," says Samuel S. Pollock, of Briceland, Cal. "I was taken with it and suffered severely until some one called my attention to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera Diarrhœa Remedy. I procured a bottle and felt better after the first dose. Before one-half of the bottle had been used I was well. I recommended it to my friends and their experience was the same. We all unite in saying it is the best." Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
