ST. HELENS, OREGON, OCT. 4.

THE regiment in which Governor McKinley served throughout the war, first as a private and then as a sergeant—the 23d Ohio—had General Rosecrans for its first colonel, Stanley Matthews, afterward justice of the supreme court, for lieutenant-colonel, and Rutherford B. Hayes, afterward president, for major. Few, if any regiments in the service were officered by so many notable men.

WHENEVER you find a man finding fault with a local paper, open it up, and ten to one he hasn't an advertisement; five to one he never gave it a job of work; three to one he does not take the paper; two to one that if he is a subscriber he is delinquent; even odds he never does anything that will assist the publisher to run a good paper, and forty to one that if the paper is a good one and full of life, he is the most eager to see the paper when it comes out.

THE appointment by Governor Lord last Tuesday of Stephen A. Lowell of Pendleton as judge of the state circuit court to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Judge Fee, will no doubt meet with general approval. Mr. Lowell is considered one of the brightest young lawyers in the state. He has resided in Oregon only about four years and received the solid vote of the opposition to Mr. Dolph several times during the last session of the legislature for United States senator.

THE apple crop in Columbia county this year, according to the assessor's report, is estimated at 8,285 bushels, while in Washington county, with less than three times the population of Columbia the apple crop reaches 66,488 bushels. The total for eleven counties of the state—Columbia, Crook, Curry, Josephine, Lake, Linn, Malheur, Polk, Sherman, Wasco and Washington—is 451,176 bushels. Columbia county produced this year of prunes, plums and pears, 1,438 bushels, which is only a little below the average taking the state over.

THE gold miners in South Africa and Australia are working on superficial deposits, and there is as yet no evidence that the quartz veins are equal in number, size or richness to those of California. The veins in South Africa are small and irregular, difficult to reach and expensive to work, and Australia has no such great quartz lodes as are found in California. London is putting $20,000,000 a month into its gold mining speculation, though the field for it is not as good as exists in plain sight on our Pacific coast. Of course the bubble in London will burst some day, but at present it is the biggest and most iridescent specimen ever known in gold mining.

NOTHING shows more clearly the promptness and vigor of business enterprises in this country than the fact that at the beginning of this year the whole of Europe had but 434 miles of electric railroad, while in the United States 10,363 miles were in operation. We are also far in advance in applying electricity to steam railroads. The electrical equipment on the Nantasket beach branch of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad is reported to be a complete success. Since the substitution of the current for steam on the branch a few weeks ago the trains have been run more frequently and cheaply, and the number of passengers carried has increased 300 per cent. A vice president of the road says that the experiments with electric motive power in freight traffic have also been "eminently satisfactory and mean a great deal in the application of the current to all branches of rail transportation." The time seems to have arrived when America is allowed an undisputed leadership in railway evolution.

IF you have anything to do boys, do it at once. Don't sit down in a rocking chair and lose three-quarters of an hour in dreading the job. Be sure that it will seem ten times harder than it did at first. Keep this motto: "Be on time in small things as well as the great things." Habit is everything. The boy who is behind time at breakfast and school will be sure to get left in the important things in life. If you have a chronic habit of dreading and putting off things, make up your mind that you will have some backbone. Don't be a limp, jellyfish sort of a person. Depend upon it, that life is very much as you make it. The first thing to decide is what are you going to make it. The next thing is to take off your coat and go to work. Make yourself necessary somewhere. There are thousands of boys and young men in the world that wouldn't be missed if they were to drop out of it tomorrow. Don't be one of this sort. Be a power in your own little world, and then, depend upon it, the big world will hear from you.

THE United States is cursed with an overproduction of politicians and ranting calamity prognosticators, and an underproduction of sensible, energetic men that go further to keep down the first-named element than anything we can think of, says the Milton Eagle. The above assertion is no mere fancy. You have all heard of the man who was placed on the operating table in the medical labratory and his arm bared and pricked with a pin in the locality of an artery, while the stern-faced surgeons anxiously watched and commented on the gradually weakening patient, who was with horor, listening to water drops from one vessel to another with monotonous regularity, and which the poor, deluded mortal imagined was his own life blood, of which, in reality, he had not lost a drop. The story relates that the man died a victim to an hallucination—he thought he would die from loss of blood, and in fact did die with all the symptoms of one with a severed artery. The people of the United States are very much like the man on the operating table. They pay a set of ranting, broken-down ward politicians to diagnose their government ills. A great many of these are such as have proven utter failures in every walk of life, and have not sufficient good, sound intelligence to govern the affairs of a brood of young chickens, let alone the affairs of a mighty nation like the United States.

THE spirit of progress in any community is very often thwarted by a certain class of people who, not belonging to the more thrifty class, but rather prefer to see things pass along in the "good old way," are jealous of the more progressive element, and can always be depended upon to throw every obstacle in the way of improvements, whether private or public. Generally speaking, "this is a condition and not a theory." It is a condition, too, that has wrecked many a community, which would have otherwise been prosperous. But worst of all this spirit is heriditary, and instead of passing out with the generation with which it originated, it is handed down from generation to generation, and not only so, but it seems contagious by association and contact. The evil influences of one man corrupt the good morals of another. So it matters not what degree of progressiveness a man is possessed of at first, by business association with the non-progressive element, like the cholera or smallpox, the germs of the disease, for such it is, are imbibed by one from another until it becomes an epidemic. So it is with progressive people. After long and persistent effort to set on foot different laudable enterprises, but seeing each one thwarted by a few men of the "good old way" kind, they eventually give up in dispair. They are sour with their surroundings; their efforts have not met with deserving encouragement, and failure has met them on every hand, and ere long the germs of the disease known as moss-backism reigns supreme. A remedy for this condition of affairs ought to bring a good price in all Oregon towns.
