ST. HELENS, OREGON, JAN. 24.

THE DEMOCRATIC IDEA.

"It is not more revenue that this government needs. It is a cutting down of expenses. If the tariff tinkers in congress would turn their energies to reducing the cost of running the government, instead of so zealously endeavoring to increase the burdens of taxation, they would more nearly serve the interests of their constituents. In dull times managers of private enterprises cut down expenses by reducing the number of their employees instead of drawing upon their capital stock to pay expenses. Why should not such business principles be applied to the management of public affairs?"—Times-Mountaineer.

The above may be the democratic doctrine, but it hardly meets the requirement of the times. Would it not be better to raise national revenue and at the same time curtail the current running expenses of the administrative machinery as much as possible? Our contemporary seems to have forgotten that it was the democratic "tariff tinkers" of the Wilson, Gorman and Brice school that brought the present calamity upon the country, and reduced it from a state of prosperity to want and poverty.

But, says the Times-Mountaineer, "In dull times managers of private enterprises cut down expenses by reducing the number of their employees." Exactly so, but no employer ever reduces his force so long as he has work for them to do at a profit. But how is a country to prosper without employment for its people? In the case above referred to the employees are the ones who suffer, because their employer, by the act of the democratic "tariff tinkers," has not the market for his goods that he formerly enjoyed under a protective tariff, and consequently his force of workmen must, of necessity, not only be reduced numerically, but for those who remain are obliged to work for less wages than before, or, perhaps the factory forced to suspend business altogether; and to cap the climax the foreign manufacturer, whose goods being placed in competition, duty free, with those of the home manufacturer, deprives the government of the revenue which otherwise would accrue from that source, and at the same time discriminates against our mechanics and tradesmen and gives the employment to people of another country.

Hence foreign goods made with cheap labor enter this country free of duty, by reason of which our factories are forced to suspend business; by reason of which our workmen are thrown out of employment, and by the whole of which the government does not receive sufficient revenue for current running expenses, no matter how economically administered.

JACKSON AND CLEVELAND.

The democratic convention which nominated Grover Cleveland for president reasserted its adherence to the doctrine of Andrew Jackson, a thing always profitable from that kind of a convention. But let us see how the doctrine of the two great democratic leaders harmonize. Jackson was a protectionist, in fact it was during his administration that a tariff bill was passed increasing the duty from 33 1/2 to 40 per cent., and what was the result? In a short time the government had an immense surplus; indeed so fast did the surplus increase that the statesmanship of the nation was put to the test of devising ways and means for decreasing it, and at one time thousands of dollars of this surplus was distributed pro rata among the states. Business was good in every channel and the country prospered as it never had before, which demonstrated anew that the idea of protecting American industries and laying duties on imports was a substantial and safe policy for this republic.

What do we find to be the policy of the democratic president of today? During Mr. Cleveland's former term the country was again agitated over the question as to how to dispose of the immense surplus which had and was accumulating under republican tariff laws which had been in effect some years. The president recommended free trade, or tariff reform, but the senate being republican declined to pass the Mills bill, and consequently prosperity continued.

The next national election again placed a republican, Harrison, in the White House, and also gave to that party both branches of congress. So loud were the demands at this time for a revision of the tariff laws that the McKinley law was enacted, reducing the rate of duty on many articles of necessary consumption and increasing the rate, generally, on luxuries, and prosperity still reigned supreme.

But this increased taxation of luxuries did not suit the wealthier classes and in the national campaign of 1892 the McKinley law was misinterpreted from almost every rostrum and Mr. Cleveland was again elected president on a tariff-for-revenue only platform. The democrats also secured control of both branches of congress. President Cleveland recommended a tariff for revenue only law with free raw material. The Wilson bill, therefore, was framed, and passed by the house but when it reached the senate the "free raw material" clause was stricken out. For this action the president refused to sign the bill but permitted it to become a law without his signature.

CLEVELAND FOUND IT NECESSARY TO NEGOTIATE THE SALE OF BONDS TO DEFRAY THE RUNNING EXPENSES OF THE GOVERNMENT AND TO MAINTAIN THE GOLD RESERVE, DEPRESSION AND BUSINESS FAILURES RAN RAMPANT IN ALL PARTS OF THE UNITED STATES, AND INSTEAD OF DEVISING WAYS TO DISPOSE OF A SURPLUS THE HUMILIATING SCENE OF WRESTLING WITH A DEFICIT WAS WITNESSED BY ALL. BOND ISSUES HAVE TAKEN PLACE AT INTERVALS EVER SINCE, WRESTLING WITH THE DEFICIT STILL GOES ON; YET THE ADMINISTRATION REFUSES TO CHANGE ITS POLICY.

To liken the democratic party of today with the party of Jackson is like comparing the climate of Dakota with that of Florida.

Is glancing over the pages of that model trade journal, the New England Grocer, of Boston, the efforts put forth by the proprietors of the different brands of food products are conspicuously displayed on every page, says the Astoria Budget. Why are not the popular brands of Columbia river salmon set forth? Are the cannermen making all the money they want, or are they content to allow the Alaska and other outside fish to supplant their trade? Unless they (the Columbia river cannermen) wake up, they will find that their more energetic competitors have elbowed themselves into the supposed impregnable position so long held by them. A business in this age which does not need the use of printer's ink, judiciously applied, to extend and keep its merits before its customers is a nine day's wonder.

In the closing month of 1812 a British force of about 1200 men, with 200 Indians in addition, marched upon the town of Buffalo, N. Y., and captured it after fifty of its American defenders were killed. The settlement was then burned, with the exception of one residence and a blacksmith shop. Buffalo is now a city with over 300,000 inhabitants, while the towns on the Canadian side of the river have grown but little. The village that was wiped out 82 years ago could furnish a large army if an emergency would require it.

An exact definition of international law has been in request since Lord Salisbury declared that it does not include the Monroe doctrine. In a letter to the London "Saturday Review," Prof. Goldwin Smith, the Canadian writer, supplies one of these words: "International law is a law without a legislature, without a policeman, without a judge. Its highest court of appeal is the cannon." As long as the United States backs it up the Monroe doctrine will be as good international law as any.

CHINA is unfortunate. It can neither fight nor make the European powers jealous of each other. The result is that England, France and Russia are carving it up without the slightest ceremony. If China kills a single Christian, indemnity is promptly exacted. The sultan, on the other hand, murders Christians by the thousand, and yet feels perfectly secure as the pampered pet of Europe.

It seems that the Multnomah delegation are about the only members of the late lamented legislature who are anxious for an extra session of that body. Multnomah county must have accumulated another batch of "jobs" that the manipulators are desirous of having become laws. However, it seems hardly probable that an extra session will be called at this time.

ENGLAND has added ships so rapidly to her navy that the supply of sailors has run short. When the Magnificent and Majestic were put into commission recently, crews were taken from other ships, which will now be manned with inexperienced seamen.

THE political complications in Canada are not likely to strengthen the ties between that country and Great Britain, but are most likely to somewhat strengthen the sentiment in favor of annexation to the United States.

EVERY city should have a health ordinance. It would prove of great benefit in case of contagious diseases, and not an expensive ordinance to maintain. Why not prepare for emergencies in this particular.

As a matter of occupation on the side, England will reach this year for the continent around the south pole. If there is such a place as Antarctica the British flag will go up over it, and don't forget it.

CAMPOS offered $34 apiece for all horses in Cuba, with the view, it is said of mounting his infantry. The effectiveness of an infantryman on horseback is at least greater than that of a sailor.

CANADA'S trade with the United States last year was greater than with Great Britain. Canadian imports from the latter fell off $7,500,000 and from the United States increased $1,500,000.

VERNONIA VARIETIES.
VERNONIA, Jan. 16.—The young people had a dance at Webster's hall after the populist club meeting Saturday night. Music was furnished by Messrs. Adams and Nickerson and Misses Sesserman and Allen.

Some one is liable to get into trouble if the cases of dog poisoning continue. The last case was a fine hound owned by Reube Sesserman. There is some excuse for a farmer who has sheep, to shoot strange dogs if they come snooping around, and there is a legal way to put a stop to dogs which are let loose to run deer, but there is no excuse for the sneaking sounder who throws poisoned meat to a dog that is tied up in his master's yard. In many cases valuable cattle dogs, which are not allowed off the farm, have been poisoned by these parties who are either insane or unfit to run at large.

A literary society was organized Tuesday night which promises to be a grand success. A meeting of the society will be held every Friday evening at Zillig's hall. At the last meeting a very interesting programme was rendered. Especially entertaining was the talk by Prof. Dow, on "How to make the literary society a success," and the select reading by L. W. VanDyke. A feature was an extemporaneous speech by T. J. Brink, subject given him by the chair after he took the floor. This will be passed around.

TWO NATIONS ARE FIGURING

Deal Pending Between England and Spain.

Purchase of Cuba Object of Negotiations—Military Forces are Placed in Readiness.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Jan. 19.—Sensational stories are afloat here tonight. Governor Mitchell, at the request of the war department in Washington, has ordered Adjutant-General Houston to see that the Florida military be placed in readiness to take the field at a moment's notice. The governor, it is reported, will call the militia together tomorrow. In the meantime, the adjutant-general is quietly issuing orders. Similar requests, it is reported, have been sent to the governors of other Southern states. The story has become generally known and is causing excitement throughout the South.

Governor Mitchell and Adjutant-General Houston were asked in regard to it, but they refused to talk. General Houston has been in his office all day, and has sent telegrams to all battalion commanders in the state. Major Turner, of Jacksonville, commanding the First Florida battalion, has received several messages from General Houston. The battalion commanders at Tampa and Pensacola have also received messages from General Houston during the day.

It is stated, as coming from the executive office, that the Washington authorities have reason to believe that a deal is pending between Spain and England for the sale of Cuba to the latter; that the United States is preparing to resist the transfer of the island, and that the flying squadron is coming to American waters to be ready for the war with the United States, which will inevitably follow an attempted cession of Cuba.

Dispatches from various cities in Florida report that the troops are gathering and that the war fever is higher now than the day after President Cleveland's Venezuela message.

Strength of Oregon's Militia.

SALM, Or. Jan. 20.—Telegrams reached the governor's office today from Eastern newspapers asking the strength of the Oregon National Guard, and how soon the militia forces could be mobilized in case England shall purchase Cuba. Governor Lord said tonight:

"If it is a fact that England has purchased Cuba, it must be regarded as a menace to our safety, and furnishes much stronger reasons for the enforcement of the Monroe doctrine than the Venezuela case."

The governor is not averse to war. The adjutant-general being absent, the governor telegraphed to General Beebe, who answered:

"About 1000 men, including two batteries, can be rendezvoused in Portland within 48 hours."

POINTED AND PERTINENT.

It would not hurt the republican party to have a Tom Reed in the senate for a while.

Perhaps the senate will manage to get that Monroe doctrine through before it gets deadlocked.

The failure of the queen of Korea to stay dead may result in seriously complicating Eastern affairs.

France is not doing any hurrahing over the reconciliation between the Kaiser and his grandmother.

Old man Gladstone displayed his good sense by refusing to talk when he lacks the power to back his opinions.

Why doesn't Mr. Cleveland invite Joe Pulitzer and Charlie Dana to eat a reconciliation dinner at the White house.

Sarah Bernhart can give most of her younger sisters lessons in the art of acting as well as in the getting of free advertising.

Washington has lately spent a great deal of time upon skates. Perhaps that may account for some of the congressional news.

Maybe there is no understanding between Mr. Cleveland and the Morgan bond syndicate, and maybe there is. It's a ten to one shot that the syndicate gets lots of those bonds anyway.

Now that our sympathy for the poor Armenians is, in some cases, being accompanied by cash contributions, there is reason to hope that some practical good will be done in spite of the sultan.

It is evident that some republican senators are counting too much upon the clench the party has upon this year's national election. The people want the republican party returned to power because it has always been known as the party of action, not of obstruction.

It now appears that Mr. Cleveland has become jealous of the Olney boom for the democratic nomination, and has instructed his friends to let the senate pass the declaring that the late Secretary Gresham, and not Mr. Olney, originated the Venezuela policy.

If a man insulted another and then as soon as the other fellow showed fight, should say: "Oh! I insulted you during a moment of irritation, which has now passed," what would usually be the result? That is the answer in which the German Emperor explains his insult to England.

Sensations would better do something towards increasing the revenue of the government, or else do less talking about increasing the navy. The navy can't be increased without money. Let the senate pass the House tariff bill, which would add $40,000,000 a year to our revenue, then it might be in order to spend some more money on our navy.
