ST. HELENS, OREGON, JUNE 26.

CLEVELAND proposes to visit Europe next year, and certainly the bankers over there who have profited by his bond-selling policy should give him a cordial reception.

"It has been a fat year for England," says the London correspondent. It has been a lean year for Uncle Sam, but then England had great luck in the political mist of 1892.

It is a curious fact that the best nominating speeches in national conventions have not usually been made for the successful candidates, the only exception being the one that Garfield made for himself when presenting the name of Sherman in 1880.

A CHANGE of date in the time of holding county and state elections is desirable because it would reduce expenses. If Oregon's elections were held in November, on the day of the presidential election, the cost of one election every four years would be saved. There were 84,151 votes cast at the last general election. Two elections in a year means throwing that number of men out of employment for one day, besides it costs the taxpayers about $12,000 to conduct each general election.

Very few people, though greatly deploring the results of the strike, have ever stopped to look at the figures in connection with the stoppage of the wheels of trade—the actual proposition of dollars and cents as it appears on paper. It has been carefully estimated, on a basis of the value of the salmon pack for the last three years, that the merchants of Astoria have lost a cash circulation, per day, since the strike began, of $9,720, and this is a moderate estimate, since this amazingly large figure means considerably over $2 for every man, woman and child of our population.—Herald.

The St. Louis convention is over and William McKinley of Ohio and Garrett A. Hobart of New Jersey, are the republican nominees for president and vice president respectively, for these United States, each having been nominated on the first ballot. The platform declares for protection and the gold standard, thus placing the two leading issues in explicit terms before the people. Perhaps never before in the history of this country have the candidates for president and vice president been nominated on the first ballot. The result of the balloting shows, first, that the republican party is in favor of protection to American industries, and second, that upon that issue the party depends for success in November. No man more fully represents the republican idea of protection than McKinley, and should he be elected the fondest hopes of the protectionists ought to be realized, for in him is protection personified. A depressed, though hopeful, thousands of manufacturers and laboring men of the country await the verdict which will be handed down in November with much anxiety.

If the United States waits until England consents to an international agreement upon the financial question it will wait beyond the lifetime of the present generation. It is not reasonable to suppose that England, a creditor nation, which produces practically none of the necessities of life except clothing, and therefore must buy from other countries the articles of whose stock in trade is money, and money only, will ever consent freely to the reduction of her principal source of revenue. It would be just as reasonable to expect a merchant to decrease his stock one-half, thereby decreasing his profits that his next-door competitor may do a larger business, as to expect England to enter into any agreement whereby the other nations of the world would not be obliged to pay her a premium upon her stock in trade, gold, which is her principal source of revenue. There seems but one way to reach an international agreement, and that is for the other nations of the world to agree and England would have to submit. This cannot be done at a single stroke perhaps, but it can be accomplished by a gradual legislative process in shaping our laws. History has long ago taught us that England must be driven, for she cannot be coaxed.

The most exciting scene of the St. Louis convention was when about forty silver delegates, headed by Senators Teller of Colorado, Cannon of Utah, and Dubois of Idaho, walked out of the convention after having declared their severance from the republican party. Those who left the convention held a caucus and pledged themselves to the support of Teller for president on a platform declaring for the free and unlimited coinage of silver. Since that time several members of the populist national committee, including the chairman, have published a letter and sent it broadcast over the country in which they advise the populist party to endorse Teller. The democratic party in several states, notably among them being Texas, has instructed their delegates to the Chicago convention which meets on July 26th, to support Teller. It is not likely, however, that the democratic party in its national convention will endorse Teller, who is a radical protectionist, and the general belief is that an old line democrat will be placed on the ticket upon a free silver platform. In the event of the Colorado senator becoming a candidate for the presidency the outcome of the election in November would be an uncertain quantity by reason of all parties being so divided upon important issues. Teller's heretofore prominence in the councils of the republican party makes him a dangerous possibility, and the result would tax to the utmost all the arts of political science to estimate the relative strength of the respective candidates. Protection ought to win this year, but the many side issues make the result uncertain.

FINANCE AND TARIFF. The following is taken from the republican platform as adopted at St. Louis last week touching upon the questions of finance and protection. Lack of space prevents the publication of the platform entire. "We renew and emphasize our allegiance to the policy of protection as the bulwark of American industrial independence and the foundation of American development and prosperity. This true American policy taxes foreign products, encourages home industry and puts the burden of revenue on foreign goods; it secures the American market for the American producer; it upholds the American standard of wages for the American workman; it puts the factory by the side of the farm and makes the American farmer less dependent on foreign demand and price; it diffuses general thrift and founds the strength of all on the strength of each. In its reasonable application it is just, fair and impartially equal to foreign control and domestic monopoly, to sectional discrimination and individual favoritism. "We denounce the present democratic tariff as sectional, injurious to the public credit and destructive to business enterprise. We demand such an equitable tariff, on such foreign imports as come into competition with American products, as will not only furnish adequate revenue for the necessary expenses of the government, but protect American labor from degradation to the wage level of other lands. "We are not pledged to any particular schedule. The question of rates is a practical question, to be governed by the conditions of the time and of production; the ruling and uncompromising principle is the protection and development of American labor and industry. The country demands a right settlement and then it wants rest. "We believe the repeal of the reciprocity arrangements negotiated by the last republican administration was a national disgrace, and we demand their renewal and extension on such terms as will equalize our trade with other nations, remove the restrictions which now obstruct the sale of American products in the ports of other countries, and secure enlarged markets for the products of our farms, forests and factories. "Protection and reciprocity are the twin measures of the republican policy, and go hand in hand. Democratic rule has recklessly struck down both, and both must be re-established. Protection, for what we denounce, free administration for the necessities of life which we do not produce; reciprocal agreements of mutual interests which gain open markets in return for open markets to others. Protection builds up domestic industry and trade and secures our own market for ourselves; reciprocity builds up foreign trade and finds an outlet for our surplus. "We condemn the present administration for not keeping faith with the sugar producers of this country. The republican party favors such protection as will lead to the production of an American soil, of all the sugar which the American people use, and for which they pay other countries more than $100,000,000 annually. "To all of our products—to those of the mine and field, as well as those of the sheep and factory—to hemp, to wool, the product of the great industry of sheep husbandry, as well as to the finished woolsens of the mill, we promise the most ample protection. "We favor restoring the early American policy of discriminating duties for the upbuilding of our merchant marine, and the protection of our shipping interests in the face of the great industry of American ships, the product of American labor, employed in American shipyards, sailing under the American flag, and manned, officered, and owned by American citizens, to regain the carrying of our foreign commerce.

FINANCE. "The republican party is unreservedly for sound money. It caused the enactment of the law providing for the resumption of specie payments in 1875, since then every dollar has been as good as gold; we are unalterably opposed to every measure calculated to debase our currency. We are, therefore, opposed to the free and unlimited coinage of silver except by international agreement with the leading commercial nations of the world, which we pledge ourselves to promote, and until such agreement can be obtained, the existing gold standard must be preserved. "All our silver and paper currency must be maintained on a parity with gold, and we favor all measures designed to maintain inviolably the obligations of the United States, and all our money whether coin or paper, at the present standard, the standard of the most enlightened nations of the earth."

It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. Edwin Ross.

Electric Bitters. Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted lung, and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, indigestion, constipation, dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50 cents and $1 per bottle at Dr. Edwin Ross' drug store.

Her Ten Commandments. These are the new commandments ten, which wives now make for married men. 1-Remember that I am thy wife. When thou must cherish all thy life. 2-Thou shalt not stay out late at night. When lodges, friends, or clubs invite. 3-Thou shalt not smoke indoors or out. Or chew tobacco round about. 4-Thou shalt with praise receive my kiss. No poetry made by me despise. 5-My mother thou shalt strive to please, And let her live with us in ease. 6-Remember 'tis thy duty clear. To dress me well throughout the year. 7-Thou shalt in manner mild and meek. Give me thy wages every week. 8-Thou shalt not be a drinking man, But live on the prohibition plan. 9-Thou shalt not flirt, but must allow, Thy wife such freedom anyhow. 10-Thou shalt get up when baby cries, And try the child to soothe.

Marvelous Results. From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Diamond Lake, Mich., we are permitted to make the following extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist church at River Junction, she was brought down with pneumonia succeeding to grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little intermission and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in its results." Trial bottles free at Dr. Edwin Ross' drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

Mr. D. P. Davis, a prominent lawyer and merchant of Goshen, Va., has this to say on the subject of rheumatism: "I take pleasure in recommending Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, as I know from personal experience that it will do all that is claimed for it. A year ago this spring my brother was laid up in bed with inflammatory rheumatism, and suffered intensely. The first application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm eased the pain, and the use of one bottle completely cured him. For sale by Dr. Edwin Ross.
