Too Much Knife!

The use of the surgeon's knife is be-

The use of the surgeon's knife is becoming so general, resulting fatally in such a large number of cases, as to occasion general alarm. The press almost daily announces the death of some unfortunate whose system could not withstand the shock of an operation, and whose life was cruelly sacrificed to the keen blade of the surgeon.

Of course, in some instances an operation is necessary, and is the only means of saving life, but such cases are exceedingly rare. So many deaths occur nuder these conditions, however, that the public is beginning to realize that the doctors are too hasty in resorting to the knife, and if such a state of affairs continues, there will before long be a general uprising against such measures. It is but reasonable to believe that the majority of operations are unnecessary, but when the fatal mistake is discovered too late, only the doctors ever know of their error, and though a precious life is given up, the public is assured that death would have resulted in spite of the operation, and who is ever the wiser?

The folly of resorting to the knife in cases of cancer, is demonstrated every

The folly of resorting to the knife in cases of cancer, is demonstrated every time it is undertaken. The disease is in the blood and the cancer or sore is but the outward manifestation of a terrible condition of the entire circulation. To cut out this sore, therefore, does not in any way effect the disease, and it can easily be seen that the only correct treatment is to get at the seat of the disease, and purify the blood; the sore will then heaf up naturally. S.S.S. is the most powerful blood remedy made, and is the only cure for cancer. and is the only cure for cancer.

MR. WILLIAM WALPOLE

To submit to an operation, is to volun-

To submit to an operation, is to voluntarily endanger one's life, without the slightest hope of being benefitted.

Mr. William Walpole, is a wealthy planter residing at Walshtown, South Dakota, and is well known all over the state. Under date of January 20th, 1856, he writes; "About three years ago, there came under my left eye a little blotch about the size of a small pea. It grew rapidly, and for the past year, shooting pains ran in every direction. I became alarmed and consulted a good doctor, who pronounced it cancer, and said that it must be cut out. This I would not consent to, having little faith in the indiscriminate use of the knife, though I was alarmed at my condition. Reading of the many cures made by S.S.S., I determined to give that medicine a trial, and after I had taken it a few days, the cancer became irritated and began to discharge. This after awhile ceased, leaving a small scab, which finally dropped off, and only a healthy looking little scar remained to mark the place where the destroyer had held full sway. Words are inadequate to express my gratitude to the great blood purifier, S.S.S., and I write this hoting that it may be the means.

scar remained to mark the place where the destroyer had held full sway. Words are inadequate to express my gratitude to the great blood purifier, S. S. S., and I write this hoping that it may be the means of leading other sufferers to a cure."

Cancer is not incurable, but the only means of curing it is to rid the blood of the disease. S.S. S. never fails to do this, but it is the only remedy to be relied upon. It is guaranteed purely vegetable, and cures Cancer, Scrofula, Eczema, Catarrh, Rheumatism and any other disease of the blood. Other blood diseases often develop into such alarming conditions that the doctors think an operation necessary. Scrofula, for instance, often diseases the glands of the neck to such an extent that an operation is looked upon as absolutely the only relief. This is also a grave error, as the disease is in the blood and a real blowly relief. This is also a grave error, as the disease. Beware of the knife!

In the evening the trustees, the town crier and the inmates of the almshouses dined together.

A Frightened Cadet.

Last winter, in a time of sudden thaws and wide extremes of temperature, the authorities at West Point issued a daily order defining the limits on the river within which the cadets were allowed to skate. So says the Illustrated American, which goes on to relate an adventure of a second-class man, who found himself one afternoon far outside the limits.

He first became aware of his trans gression when he saw an officer on skates bearing down upon him. Anx-lous to conceal his identity, and to save himself punishment and demerits, be turned and skated for the shore.

A glance over his shoulder showed the officer striking out after him in real earnest. Never did cadet skate faster. but the officer drew steadily nearer. Happily, as the cadet thought, an outstretching point of land was just ahead. Straight up on the rocky shore dashed the cadet, behind the little lighthouse and ran up through the woods, with his skates still on his feet. Breathless, he reached cadet limits, and a quick glance around told him that he had eluded his pursuer. Then he took off his skates and hasthe roll-call that would most likely be ordered for the purpose of detecting the guilty skater. No such roll-call was ordered, however, and at parade that night an order was read extending the skating limits, and during the even ing the pursuing officer called at the cadet's door to say: "You are a very good skater, Mr. A. If I could have overtaken you, I would have told you that the limits were extended, and that you might skate even farther than you did. But then, I dare say you found the exercise you had quite sufficient."

How "The Bells" Was Written. John Sartain, well known as the first great American engraver, and, more over, as a man of letters, the half-owner and managing editor, in the forties, of Sartain's Magazine, the friend of all the great literary men of his time, still lives quietly in Philadelphia. Mr. Sartain was a firm friend of Poe. In his wild moods, frequently, it was Mr. Sartain only who could control the outburst. Mr. Sartain used to buy Poe's hasty lines and thus furnish the poet with a dinner-sometimes sadly needed. It was in this way that he bought

"The Bells." One day Poe, very ragged, rushed into the office of the magazine, with a bit of verse that he wished to sell. Out of compassion for his apparent suffering, the editor bought the poem. After the writer had rushed out, he read it, without much admira tion; and filed it away. This is the

From the Examiner, San Francisco, Cal. I have a little granddaughter, at least she calls me 'grandma,' though I am not really her grandmother. One day we were riding in the cars in Chicago and she began to read, 'Pink Pills for Pale Peo-It seemed to tickle her and she would rattle it off just as if she had learned a line of poetry, and sometimes she would get it turned about and say, 'grandma, what is Pale Pills for Pink

Well, you see I got familiarized with the name of Pink Pills and one day when I got a little book about them I sat down and read it all through. I was not good for much else but sitting down or lying down, and I thought I'd give them a trial. I guess there is not much more to say. Look at me. I don't look much like an invalid today, do I?"

It was perfectly true that Mrs. Lock terms with the man wild not look much like an invalid, and admire his own plety. it is no secret that she was married only about six mouths ago. She said that she always keeps the pills by her bed-side, and produced a handful of the little round boxes as evidence of her faith in them. "I have had it on my mind to write to Dr. Williams direct and thank him for all the good they have done me; but one thing and then another came up and I have not writ-ten yet. I have recommended them to scores of people and probably that did more good than writing. Oh! you can put me down for the Pink Pills every time. I believe in them and I can tell the genuine pills, too, right off. There is nothing that is 'just as good' for me —I want the real pills every time."
Mr. Francis Shulty, of 712 Taylor street, said: "Yes, the Pink Pills did for me all that was claimed for them. I used them for about five months. They were recommended to me by a druggist on the corner of Oak and Gough streets, the Eagle drug store is the name, I think. I was run down, very nervous, and suffered from indigestion. CIGAR WRAPPERS FROM MEXICO

Their Use Not Yet Increased by the Present Troubles in Cuba There is a growing idea among smokers that, owing to the trobules in Cuba, there will be a searcity of Cuban leaf tobacco, which will soon affect both the quality and quantity of domestic clear Havana cigars, and a rumor is prevalent that already many of the so-called clear Havanas are covered with Mexican tobacco, and that It cannot be detected by experts. The best-informed persons in the trade deny this rumor, and state that most of the large American firms have enough Cuban tobacco to last them for a year or more, and that there is little or no tobacco in smoker. They say, also, that Mexican tobacco is detected easily at sight, and while it may be possible in future years to produce tobacco for wrappers which will be a long time coming, as or date no effort has been made by the ket. The Mexican leaf is thicker and duller in appearance, without the rich gloss of the Cuban variety so attractive to American smokers. What is still more to the point, it rapidly deteriorates in appearance after being worked up into cigars. Still another reason is that all the available Mexican wrappers worth anything are called for by the Mexican trade, one firm of which is said to be under contract with Englishmen for 500,000 cigars every two weeks. The government statistics also give an important hint in this matter. The total export of filler tobacco from Mexico for 1893 was only 48,451 pounds, of a value of $11,456; in 1894, 57,840 pounds, valued at $18,507, while the total amount of wrapper tobacco for 1895 was but thirteen pounds, valued at $7. This country imported from Cuba in 1893 21,694,891 pounds, valued nt $8,940,058; in 1894, some 14,578,000 pounds, valued at $5,838,964, and in 1895 some 20,147,000 pounds, valued at $7,233,474. The total amount of imported wrapper tobacco from Cuba paying duty into the United States treasury during 1805 was 28,130 pounds, valued at $38,320. These are the facts in the matter, and as soon as Mexican tobacco begins to come in for use on domestic-made clear Havana cigars its arrival will be shown in the weekly tables of imports published in trade and shipping organs. What is very likely is that the consumer of Havana cigara will soon have to face a darker tobacco on his cigars than he has been wishing for lately.—New York

Early Paper Making. For the art of paper making, the world is indebted to the Chinese, who, with their usual liberality when dealing with their own historical dates, assign its invention to a Chinese king about 12,000 years ago. As a matter of fact, it was probably made in China before the Christian era. The invention was taken to Samarcand, whence it was introduced into Europe in the seventh century. In 712 the Saracens were making paper in Spain from cotton fiber. Its use became general a little later, and most of the bulls of the pope in the eighth and ninth centuries were written on cotton paper. Linen and cotton rags instead of raw cotton were first used by the Saracens, and the earliest dated document on linen paper is a treaty between the kings of Aragon and Castile, in 1177.
