Gilson, of Houlton, who some time since bought a piece of land between this city and Houlton, has been busily engaged for some time in clearing and since bought a piece of land between this city and Houlton, has been busily angaged for some time in clearing and country as against other countries. While I should like to see the whole world prosper, my flust thought is the success of our own people. We do not want any more experiments which come so high as the experience of the logged and almost entirely cleared clean through to within a short distance of Houlton, and to say the least, Mr. Gilson has a strip of perhaps twenty acres of land, that is excellent property.

THEY WERE CONVINCED .- When Mr. Geer spoke in Astoria last week there were two young men sitting well up toward the front, each wearing a Bryan button. When the speech was about half finished one said to the other: "Say, let's take these buttons off," to which the other responded, "I will if you will." This was no sooner said than the two Bryan buttons dropped to the floor and remained dropped to the floor and remained there. This incident can be vouched for by a gentleman who sat immediately behind the two young men and beard the conversation and saw the heard the conversation and saw the litation of that article or he cannot purchase it at any price; and to have the price it at any price; and to have the pri

INTERESTING RELATIONSHIP.—Salem Statesman: A peculiar and interest ing case of kinship was brought to the notice of a Statesman reporter that has few, if any parallels in Oregon, at any rate. The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Simpson, of this city, is possessed of ten grand, greatgrand and greatgreat-grand parents, all living and all greatly interested in the deatiny of their little descendent. The father and mother of Mrs. Simpson are living, being Mr. and Mrs. Shepard; Mrs. Shepard's father and mother are living and they make four; the name of the latter couple is Pottorff and Mr. Pottorff's father and mother sill live, making six in this group of progenitors; Mr. Shepard's mother is also alive, thus making a seventh. Mr. Simpson's father and mother are living, making nine, and Mrs. Ashley, the aged mother of Grandaus Simpson, is yet in the land of the living and makes the tenth in the line.

Took Their Own Medicine.—The Bryan club of Astoria made a bluff at the republicans of that city last week to engage them in joint debate. The chairman of the McKinley club accepted the proposition and offered to match Hon. T. J. Cleaton against any man they might name. This was a sunner to the Bryan men, and they at once began to hedge, stating that they did not wish to meet anyone except residents of Clatsop county, and in fact, when it came to a show-down were not so anxious to meet anyone except residents of Clatsop county, and in fact, when it came to a show-down were not so anxious to meet anyone except residents of Clatsop county, and in fact, when it came to a show-down were not so anxious to meet anyone except residents of Clatsop county, and in fact, when it came to a show-down were not so anxious to meet anyone except residents of Clatsop county, and in fact, when it came to a show-down were not so anxious to meet anyone except residents of Clatsop county, and in fact, when it came to a show-down were not so anxious to meet anyone of a disorganized department. Colonel Eastwick came down to investigate Scappoose bay in accordance with a resolution which was presented to the last congress providing for the improvement of that place by the government. His NECK BROKEN.—A sad accident occurred at Mooresville, back of Goble last Tuesday morning, which caused the death of Jacob Lengescher. Mr. Lengescher, in company with several other men, was engaged in getting out fish trap poles from which it was necessary to take off the bark.
