There is only one absolutely sure cure for these troubles, and that is

Warner's Safe Cure

"It has stood the test of time."

Bottled Up!

Whether in the form of pill powder or liquid, the doctor's prescription for blood diseases is always the same—mercury or potash. These drugs bottle up the poison and dry it up in the system, but they also dry up the marrow in the bones at the same time.

The suppleness and elasticity of the joints give way to a stiffness, the racking pains of rheumatism. The form gradually bends, the bones ache, while decrepitude and helplessness prematurely take possession of the body, and it is but a short step to a pair of crutches. Then comes falling of the hair and decay of the bones,—a condition truly horrible.

Contagious Blood Poison—the curse of mankind—is the most horrible of al diseases, and has always baffled the doctors. Their potash and mercury bottle up the poison, but it always breaks forth again attacking some delicate organ, frequently the mouth and throat, filling them with eating sores. S.S.S., is the only known cure for this disease. It is guaranteed purely vegetable, and one thousand dollars reward is offered for proof to the contrary. It never fails to cure Contagious Blood Poison, Scrofula, Eczema, Rheumatism, Cancer, or any other disease of the blood. If you have a blood disease, take a remedy which will not injure you. Beware of mercury; don't do violence to your system. Don't get bottled up! Our books sent free to any address. Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Indian Rainmakers.

All the Indian tribes had rainmakers, and some are yet left. This is one of their methods of operation. A large body of Creek Indians had gathered, all decked out in thier best finery. Two elderly men retired a short distance and seemed to be mumbling to each other something like prayers or invocations; after some time a fire was made on the bank of the stream, when the two rain-makers gave an order, and a young man plunged into the river, which was there very deep. When he came up he had a blue catfish in his hand, which one of the old men took and threw into the fire, the tribe looking on in perfect silence. Then there was more mumbling, accompanied by various contortions and gesticulations, when the gathering dispersed. It rained that night. Perhaps, on the whole, the Indian rain-maker is more generally successful than the civilized one occasionally appearing on the frontier in times of drought, the former having shrewder and more experienced forecast of weather probabilities and putting in his incantations at the right time.—N. Y. Tribune.

CREASE AND INCREASE.

An elephant wears more creases to his trousers than any other animal. They seem to be sort of a kilt pleat with a bias slope. He is not very fashionable, but is up to date in taking care of himself. Some sudden, violent pains crease, twist or contract the muscles or tendons, and this is the nature of a bad sprain. If neglected, the creases increase, and so does the pain, until sometimes it is very difficult to straighten them out, but by the prompt use of St. Jacobs Oil, the friction or rubbing in its application and the curative qualities of the oil will smooth out the worst twist or crease and get the muscle in natural shape, where it will remain, restored, strengthened, cured. Promptness in using it insures prompt cure, and when the sprain is cured, it is cured for good.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

LOSS OF THE ANDROSA

Terrible Tale of Suffering on the Stormy Atlantic.

HEROIC STRUGGLES OF THE CREW

The Androsa Was Valued at £25,000 and Carried a Valuable Cargo From This Coast.

Boston, March 26.—The steamer Ontario, which arrived here from London today, brought into port twenty-seven men, comprising the crew of the British ship Androsa, Captain Moran, which was abandoned at sea March 8, 800 miles west of Falmouth, England. The Androsa left San Francisco in October for London. She sprung a leak in a furious storm, became unmanageable and was abandoned. The greater number of the rescued men were well-nigh helpless from exhaustion when taken from the Androsa, and they had been working the pumps and jettisoning the cargo for many days and nights without intermission. Several times during the battle with the elements men dropped from their places and were carried below by their comrades, and after resting they would drag themselves to the deck to again engage in the work, even though in some cases they could not get upon their feet, and worked while on their knees.

After the rescue of the men they had to be put to bed on the steamer, but they are now fairly well, and will probably be returned to Liverpool by steamer this week by the British consul.

When last seen the Androsa was fast sinking, preparatory to taking her final plunge to the bottom. The lost vessel was an iron ship of 1892 tons net, built by Oswold, Mordaunt & Co., of Southampton, in 1881, and was owned by E. F. & E. W. Roberts, of Liverpool. She was valued at about £25,000, and is said to be nearly covered by insurance in English companies, while American companies have large policies on the cargo, consisting of about 200 tons of grain, and a large quantity of canned salmon, canned fruits, California wine and tallow. The cargo was said to be the most valuable that had left San Francisco during that year, and while the exact valuation is not known, it is estimated it would reach the hundreds of thousands.

Captain Morgan says that after the Androsa left San Francisco she encountered only ordinary weather until December 13, when to the westward of Cape Horn the first serious storm occurred. In this storm the cargo shifted, and the vessel hove down on her beam ends, and for some hours her main and foreyards were dragging in the water. Said Captain Morgan:

"We were favored with good weather for the next seven weeks, and made rapid progress toward our destination. On March 1, however, came the disaster. When the ship was within 400 miles of Cork, Ireland, strong westerly gales set in, accompanied by a westerly sea. The wind steadily increased in fury until, on March 2, it was blowing a hurricane, the sea becoming more and more frightful. The barometer reached the low mark of 28.80, indicating a continued spell of bad weather.

"That afternoon the fore lower-maintopsail was blown to pieces, and shortly after a mountainous wave swept the ship, bursting the poopdeck, carrying away the three lifeboats and skids from the forward house and all the movables on deck. The bulwarks were swept away, all the plates torn off and the huge volume of water had hardly swept over us when all the topmasts went by the board. We began jettisoning cargo to keep afloat. When the wave struck the vessel the second time, David Evans, was jammed under the poop, and his back so severely strained that we removed him in a helpless condition to his berth, where he suffered intensely for some days.

"All that night the men were engaged in throwing over boxes of salmon to lighten the vessel. They worked incessantly, without food or drink, until the next day, when the weather moderated a little, but still blew a bad gale. On the morning of the 3d we sounded the pumps, and found eight feet of water in the hold. It was then discovered that the ship was leaking in the after part. When the leak was discovered we fastened the crew to the pumps with bowlines around each man, and, as only the weather handle of the pump could be utilized, we attached a bell-rope to the handle, so more of the men could work at once. Part of the crew continued jettisoning, and, being unable to leave their work for fear the vessel would founder under them, they had no nourishment for two days and nights. It was then that I succeeded in bringing some biscuit and canned meat and water to the men. Most of them suffered terribly from swollen feet, which became four times their normal size. After awhile some of them were unable to bear their weight upon their feet, and had to be carried to their berths.

"That night the storm increased, and blew furiously until the morning of the 7th. On Sunday, March 7, the weather again moderated, and blew a moderate gale until the 8th, when we were rescued by the Ontario."

The Dinner to Cabinet Members.

Washington, March 26.—The first formal social function at the White House under this administration took place tonight, the occasion being a dinner given by President and Mrs. McKinley to the members of the cabinet and their ladies.

Marriages Illegal.

Tacoma, Wash., March 26.—Superior Judge Keen this morning handed down a decision to the effect that the state law making it illegal for persons who have been divorced to contract another marriage within six months from the time the decree of divorce has been granted remains in effect in case the person so prohibited marries outside of the limits of the state. This decision will affect several persons who have married in Portland and Victoria, B. C., immediately after securing divorces in Washington.

THE FRUIT OUTLOOK.

A General Survey of Present Conditions in the Northwest.

A correspondent writing from Salem, Or., in regard to the fruit outlook in the Northwest, says:

All are looking anxiously to see the fruit trees of our wide reigon pass through the ordeal of springtime, for that is the critical period with orchards. It is not often that any severe injury is done in the fall and winter, and if fruit trees are in good condition at the middle of May there is no reason to fear harm while the fruit is being perfected.

The past fall was exceptional in respect to damage done, for the heavy freeze that occurred late in November was quite disastrous in many localities. While this is no doubt true, it will not be possible to trace the extent of the injury until the growing season comes, for while in the dormant state it cannot easily be known how much harm was done.

It was said at the time that the Italian prune was especially affected, which appears to have been true at The Dalles region; also at Hood River. Mr. D. J. Cooper, of Wasco county, told me that much harm had been done in that district. He thought it was chiefly due to overmuch and too late cultivation and irrigation, for he says he had noticed that where there was light cultivation and irrigation was not continued late, the wood ripened early and trees are all right.

Mr. E. L. Smith, of Hood River, who is a very close observer, says much harm was done in that country to young apple trees, and the Spitzenbergs were especially suffering, the heavy freeze having in many instances, killed the tops, as it occprred when the sap was flowing. In many cases the bark had split on the trunk, but he doubted if the damage would all show until spring came.

Mr. Smith thought the excessive rainfall in the mountains made it worse there than out in the open country. The Hood river valley is in the very heart of the Cascade range, and when there were light rains west of the ranges, there was constant, heavy rain there last fall, and the effect was to keep the sap flowing and the trees growing. At the time the freeze came, late in November, the leaves were all on and held their dark green color, so the effect of the cold snap was more disastrous than if it had occurred in a normal season, as the sap was frozen, and much tender young wood was killed. We expected to hear of harm done wherever people had piowed or cutivated late, and so kept sap flowing but conditions at Hood River were exceptional, and the damage seems to have been general.

There seems to have been damage done in many parts of the country. Clark county, Wash., was said at the time to have suffered loss in the Italian prune, which is planted largely there. As to orchards in this valley (the Willamette), it is not probable that much harm was done where they had not too much and too late cultivation. People had to learn that there can be too much of a good thing. There has been too much pruning, as well as too much cultivation. What is needed is to assist nature, not to take the job too much out of her hands. Only a few days before that freeze, one of those very enthusiastic orchard men told me he had kept on plowing and cultivating up to date. I asked him where he would be when a freeze came, and thought of him the first thing when it did come.

I hear of some damage (to Italian prunes especially) done to orchards near here on prairie land, and to some extent in the bills. The Oregon Land Company has 3,000 acres of trees on high hill land a few miles south of Salem, that they cultivated late, and I hear some harm was done there. The lesson to fruitgrowers is that there is a time when trees should mature their wood, as well as their fruit, and if we ignore the laws of nature, we are apt to pay heavily for it. A gentleman who is engaged in fruitgrowing reports that he was in Southern Idaho after the freeze, and young orchards along Snake river were almost destroyed by it. They were, no doubt, forcing growth by irrigation, and overdid it; so suffer as a cosequence. It was a warm November up to the freeze, and the change came suddenly and was disastrous.

While this must be true of many, it is safe to say that the older orchards of the Pacific Northwest are in good condition to produce well, and that we may hope for the largest yield for the season of 1897 that ever was known. The short crop of 1896 leaves the trees well rested, and with vigorous growth of fruit buds. We are almost at the end of March, and yet the trees are not in bloom, when they often are in full bloom before this time. There is more danger from late spring rains than from winter freezes. If we have a late bloom time, and no cold rains later, we may look for an exceptional fruit year all over this Western Oregon, as well as the Indland Empire. We have had so much to learn that it has been a school of experience up to date, and henceforth we should reap some of the practical results.

The Bill Killed.

Springfield, Ill., March 29.—The senate anti-department store bill came up in the house today on first reading, and was ordered laid on the table. This action practically kills the measure.

The Case of Butler.

San Francisco, March 29.—United States Marshal Baldwin has received the mandate ordering him to deliver the Australian murderer, Butler, to agents of the British government. Two men will watch the murderer day and night until he sails April 1 for Australia. The Australian detectives fear he may commit suicide.

Manual Training for Women.

New York, March 29.—William R. Grace, his wife, Lillius Grace, and his son, Joseph Grace, have jointly set aside $200,000 for the founding of a manual training school for young women and girls. A bill providing for the incorporation of the institution has been introduced in the legislature. The school when established will be knonw as the Grace institute of New York city. The plans are not yet completed in detail.

WEEKLY MARKET LETTER.

Downing, Hopkins & Company's Review of Trade.

Trading in wheat this week has not been widespread, but to a great extent was confined within the ranks of the professionals, who are considerably worked up over the increasing amount of bad crop news. St. Louis appears to be the center of the disturbance and has been persistently loading the wries with stories of great harm done. Many traders have been disinclined to give the reports much attention, and in fact have only arched their eyebrows when brought to their notice. Many of those who have been loathe to acknowledge these stories are now changing front and think there must be some fire where there is so much smoke. The country at large, though, is only buying wheat sparingly, but St. Louis professionals appear to be taking hold liberally, and are pinning their faith in the reliability of crop damage in the Southwest. This is just the time of year for a genuine crop scare, and, with the weather conditions as they are, damage tales will multiply instead of diminish.

Statistics are, of course, just as favorable for an advance as at any time recently; in fact more so. Visible stocks are decreasing and the world's stocks are steadily diminishing. The world's shipments are running from 3,000,000 to 3,500,000 bushels below the weekly requirements of the United Kingdom and the continent, but for all that, foreigners are not alarmed over the outlook. They are certainly not taking the wheat from this country in such quantities as one would expect under the circumstances. Cables are merely fractional in quoting changes on the other side. Exports of wheat and flour from both coasts for the week are 100,000 bushels more than last week, and exceed those for the same week in 1896 by about 5,000 bushels. We have had war scares of the opera bouffe order, but war seems to be just as distant as ever.

There has been a fair amount of trading in the corn market this week and speculation has been brisker. Wheat no longer exerts much of an influence upon values.

NATURE'S BEST REMEDY.

Paine's Celery Compound Prevents Nervous Breakdown.

Spring has come.

It is time for all persons to think seriously of their health.

But that doesn't mean taking the first spring remedy that happens to be offered.

Persons who make it their business to get the most effective remedy to be had are sure to carry home Paine's celery compound. No other remedy is capable of cleansing the blood, nourishing the nerves and regulating the bowels and digestive organs like Paine's celery compound.

If you are troubled at all by rheumatism, neuralgia, headaches or sleeplessness, even if these attacks come only now and then, now is the time to purify the system of them. Don't procrastinate and dally till frightened into doing something when you find the task of getting well has assumed desperate proportions.

Paine's celery compound will cure kidney trouble, heart palpitation and disordered liver accurately, intelligently and permanently when other remedies only raise hopes that are never fulfilled.

Paine's celery compound, which owes its origin to the most distinguished physician and investigator this country ever produced, Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL.D., of Dartmouth college, has been publicly indorsed among medical experts as the only spring remedy in any sense entitled to that name.

It can be said without fear of contradiction that no other remedy can truthfully refer to men and women responsible, so trustworthy, so convincing, because of their straighforward, enthusiastic and easily-verified testimonials in praise of Paine's celery compound.

It is foolish to take poor health "philosophically" these spring days. There is no reason why anyone should sit hands in lap, and submit to headaches, poor appetite, continual tired feeling or constipation. If every disheartened invalid will go right at getting well by using Paine's celery compound, that person will be astonished and delighted with the quickness with which this wonderful remedy is able to call a halt to wasting diseases, diseases of debility and a "run-down" condition.

Paine's celery compound does wonders in making people well.

Here is what a woman, an ambitious and hard-working member of the legal profession in New York city, says of this great remedy:

220 4th Ave., New York.

While a student in the New York university law school and under great pressure from work and study, I was advised to take Paine's celery compound. I did so, and its beneficial results to one whose nerves are under the trial of severe mental effort, I am only too ready to assert. After taking three bottles I found that it produced quietness of nerves and induced sleep, very beneficial to my health. For those troubled with insomnia I can heartily recommend it as a harmless inducer of sleep on account of its quieting effect on the nerves. Yours very truly,

(Signed.) Florence H. Dangerfield,
Attorney and Counselor at Law.

Paine's celery compound, which makes the weak strong, has received testimonials from thousands of people who had almost despaired of ever again being in perfect health.

A Pretty Face

Tells a story of health. It is the reflection of strength in all the vital parts. A face is expressive of joy and mirth, caused by health, or of misery and suffering, caused by disease. The nerves that are irritable and tired cannot give brightness to the eye; blood that is sluggish cannot make the cheeks rosy; so ill health tells its story, too. But nature provides a cure for all such troubles.

Dr. Sanden's Electric Belt

Whence comes the joyous vital force? From electricity—animal magnetism. Dr. Sanden's Electric Belt saturates the vital parts with its warming, vitalizing power, which gives new life and healthy blood to all parts of the body. It arouses the energy of youth and makes life a pleasure.

"I have received very much benefit from the use of your Belt. My health has been very much better this winter. I am relieved of that tired and worn-out feeling; also of the numbness of my hands and twitching of the eyelids. I am well pleased with the Belt, and would not do without one for a good deal more than it cost if I could get it. I shall always remember the Sanden Electric Co. with a grateful heart."—D. C. COYNER, Montesano, Wash., March 22, 1897.

Men or women who are weak, read Dr. Sanden's book, "THREE CLASSES OF MEN." It is free, sealed from observation, by mail.
