

ADMIRAL SAMPSON'S FORMIDABLE FLEET.

A FIGHTING COMMANDER.

Dewey, the Hero of Manila, Has Been Hard Service.

In his sixty-one years of life Admiral George Dewey, the hero of Manila, has seen a great deal of red hot fighting. He was born among the green hills of Vermont and received his appointment to the Naval Academy at the age of 17. When he graduated in 1858 he went with the steam frigate Wabash on a cruise in Mediterranean waters. When Fort Sumter was fired upon Dewey was promoted from ensign to lieutenant and assigned to the steam sloop Mississippi, which was to take part in the fierce fighting of the West Gulf squadron. The Mississippi was a side wheeler of seventeen guns, and was commanded by Commander McKim Smith. The West Gulf squadron went at once to the Mississippi River to force its way up. The "History of Our Navy" thus describes the sort of things the men on the Missis- issippi experienced when they preceded Farragut up past New Orleans: "The Pensacola and the Mississippi steamed slowly, with their black hulls at regular intervals sheeting the air with lurid fire as they replied to the forts. Abreast of St. Philip, where the Confederate fire was hottest, they drew in so close that the gunners afloat and those ashore heartily cursed each other as they worked."

The Mississippi was with the squadron again when it ran down past New Orleans on the way back, fair targets for nineteen big guns at close range.

The hardest fight that the Mississippi ever was in was the one that ended her. The fleet was trying to run by Fort Hudson with its powerful batteries. None of the squadron got by. The Mississippi ran aground in the fog and smoke and stuck hard and fast. In thirty minutes she was shot full of holes. Her crew climbed into boats on the side opposite the forts, and after setting her on fire, made for the other side of the river under a withering rifle fire. Upon this occasion Lieut. Dewey stuck to his guns until the last and he did not quit the ship until all others had left. Admiral Porter singled him out for special praise.

In July, 1863, Dewey was on the gunboats that engaged the Confederates below Donaldsonville. In 1864 he was attached to the North Atlantic blockading squadron, assigned to the steam gunboat Agawam. The Agawam was one of the great crescent of warships, big and little, that plumped shot into Fort Fisher in December, 1864, and January, 1865. Dewey received his commission as lieutenant commander on March 3, 1865, and served for two years on the European squadron, first on the steamer Kearsarge and then on the frigate Colorado, the flagship. In 1868 he was assigned to duty at the Naval Academy. In 1870 he received his first command, that of the Narragansett, which was employed on special service until 1875.

The Pacific survey of 1872-75 was entrusted to him. After two years as lighthouse inspector and five as secretary of the Lighthouse Board he was put in command of the Junata on the Asiatic squadron in 1882. In September, 1884, he was promoted to be a captain and placed in command of the Dolphin, then brand new, and one of the four vessels to which the name "white squadron" was first given. From 1885 to 1888 he was the commander of the Pensacola, the flagship of the European squadron. In 1888 his energy and ability to complete matters of detail was recognized by making his chief of the bureau of equipment and recruiting, which carried with it the rank of commodore.

In May, 1893, he took another turn on duty as a member of the Lighthouse Board. He was made an actual commodore on Feb. 26, 1896, and was at about that time put at the head of the important Board of Inspection and Survey. He was transferred to the command of the Asiatic squadron Jan. 1, 1898.

Dog Kennel that Cost $5,700.
This is a $5,700 kennel, built for the dogs of a wealthy California woman, at Pleasanton. Its fittings include baths and infirmary and many "cozy corners." One cannot help wondering what that same amount of money would do if expended for friendless and neglected children.

Hens Hatch Fish Eggs.
In China hens are employed to hatch fish eggs. These are sealed in an eggshell and placed under the unsuspecting hen for a few days until the spawn has warmed into life. The contents of the shell are then emptied into a shallow pool, where they can bask in the sunshine until the minnows are strong enough to be turned into a lake or river.

THE SAVING GRACE OF A HOBBY.

It Revives Hope and Enthusiasm and Makes Life Worth Living.

"A priceless thing is a hobby. The daily tasks by which hosts of women support life are favorless, barren, almost hopeless. To such ones a hobby may offer the dearest hopes of ultimate freedom from the unwelcome daily task; it will at any rate serve to entertain and give point and flavor to an otherwise blank existence," is the position taken by Carrie E. Garrett discussing "Woman's Dreams and Hobbies" in the Woman's Home Companion.

"Hobbies have the power to concentrate and absorb the scattered energies which might otherwise be expended in purposeless flirtations, building superfluous bonnets, reading cheap sensations, gossiping away precious moments, picking out our friends' foibles, dissecting our own emotions, and wishing vaguely for everything which is attainable. If the hobby did nothing else but prevent these frivolities it would be a boon to humanity.

"Man found out the value of hobbies long ago. Almost every man who is good for anything has a purpose which he thinks is quite the most magnificent one which a man could pursue. It is no matter whether it is law-making, pill-making or shoemaking, he pursues it with absorbing enthusiasm, and strives to make the best laws or pills or shoes (as the case may be) to be found anywhere. And when he has not felt this sweeping enthusiasm which the genuine hobby inspires, but has been content to languidly saunter along the path of endeavor, it will commonly be found that his laws or pills or shoes are not among the best on the market. If our hobby is a power which we feel within ourselves, and which we determine to develop to its fullest extent, how rich we feel in the possession of that power, even in its feeble beginnings, and with what joy and pride we contemplate its growth and perfection! Woman has found that it is not enough to merely look pretty; that love cannot be her 'whole existence' (the poet to the contrary, notwithstanding), and that even with the richest plenitude of gowns, jewels and enjoyments life still needs a purpose. If it is at all a respectable purpose, and pursued with general zeal, it cannot fail to thrive and increase and bear fruit."

Development of the Transvaal.

In 1892 the main trunk line from Cape Town was pushed forward from its then northern terminus to Johannesburg. The distance from Cape Town to Johannesburg by rail is 1,013 miles. In 1894 the road was completed from Delagoa Bay, a port in Portuguese territory on the southeast coast of Africa, to Johannesburg—a distance of 377 miles. The third road reached Johannesburg a year later, from Durban, a port in the British colony of Natal, distant 483 miles.

From 23,000 ounces of gold in 1887, the annual output has risen to 3,000,000 ounces in 1897, giving the Transvaal the second place in the world's gold production. There is no doubt that the present output of the country will rapidly increase; and probably within a few years, notwithstanding the increased output of other countries, the Transvaal will rank first as a gold producer.

The town of Johannesburg may be taken as a good index of the wonderful expansion of the gold-mining industry of the district. From a few tents in 1886, it has developed into a town unexcelled, if indeed equaled, in the imposing character of its buildings by any of the enterprising mining towns in Western America. Indeed, Johannesburg has but little of the aspect of an American mining camp. In its general appearance it reminds an American more of Spokane or Salt Lake City.—John Hays Hammond, in the Engineering Magazine.

FROM GARCIA'S CAMP.

Washington, May 28.—Secretary Alger and General Miles today conferred with two officers from the staff of General Garcia, General Colonel and Lieutenant Charles Hernandez, who came direct from Garcia's headquarters, bearing credentials from him to perfect a plan of co-operation with the American forces. They accompanied Lieutenant Rowan, of the United States army, on his return from Garcia's camp at Bayamo, in Central Cuba, and shared with him the danger of a two days' journey in an open boat from the coast of Cuba. They reported first to the Cuban delegation here, and Secretary Quesada was careful to keep their presence secret until General Miles had made the fact known.

Lieutenant Hernandez says his headquarters at Bayamo, with a body-guard of several hundred men, are quartered in the city. The infantry and cavalry are quartered in the suburb of South Bayamo. In all, about 8,000 men are thus quartered. They are well armed with Remington and Mausers, captured from the Spaniards. Most of them have machetes, but only the officers carry other small arms. The cavalry have small horses, much like the Indian mustangs, hardy and reliable.

Hernandez says communication is maintained with General Gomez and with points along the coast. From this he has a general idea of the forces outside of those with General Garcia at Bayamo. He estimated that there are 13,000 men, all of whom are well armed, east of La Trocha, and constituting the forces in the eastern division of the island under Garcia. These include the 3,000 at Bayamo, the others being scattered at various points. He estimated General Gomez's immediate command at about 5,000 men, with 5,000 men scattered at various points. In all there are, according to Coloco and Hernandez, about 20,000 to 25,000 troops.

It is understood the visit of Garcia's officers is to give general assurance to the authorities here of Garcia's desire to give every possible co-operation to the American movements. Similar assurances have come from General Gomez, and have been presented by Quesada. The Cuban officers have made a good impression here, and the authorities were agreeably surprised to find them men of ability and sound, soldierly bearing, speaking English well.

The Second Draft.

Washington, May 28.—The officials of the war department are not yet prepared definitely to announce their programme with respect to obtaining the 75,000 volunteers called for yesterday by presidential proclamation. There will be some consultation on the subject between the president and the war officers before a conclusion is reached. It is said, however, to have been determined to fill to their maximum strength the 100 and more regiments of volunteers already called for, most of which are organized at the minimum number allowed by the law.

The President's Proclamation.

The following is the proclamation issued by the president:

By the president of the United States, a proclamation:

Whereas, An act of congress was approved on the 36th day of April, 1898, entitled "An act declaring that war exists between the United States of America and the kingdom of Spain," and whereas, by act of congress entitled "An act to provide for temporarily increasing the military establishment of the United States in time of war and for other purposes," approved April 23, 1898, the president is authorized in order to raise a volunteer army to issue this proclamation calling for volunteers to serve in the army of the United States; now, therefore, I, William McKinley, president of the United States, by virtue of the power vested in me by the constitution and laws, deem it sufficient occasion to exist, have thought fit to call forth and hereby do call forth volunteers to the aggregate number of 75,000 in addition to the volunteers called forth by my proclamation of the 28th of April in the present year, the same to be apportioned, so far as practicable, among the several states and territories and the District of Columbia, according to population, and to serve two years, unless sooner discharged. The proportion of each arm, and the details of enlistment and organization will be made known through the war department.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this 25th day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety eight, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and twenty-second.

WILLIAM MCKINLEY, President.

By William B. Day, Secretary of State.

These facts are from an old Scotch paper published in 1848:

"The inhabitants of the larger islands of the West Indies, St. Domingo, Cuba and Porto Rico were indolent but mild in disposition, fond of dancing and other games, governed by kings called caciques. They had an established priesthood, believed in the existence of a deity and a future state of rewards and punishments. These simple people showed great kindness to Columbus and his companions while visiting their islands, and observing the Spaniards' love for gold gave them all they possessed."

"A remarkable speech has been preserved which an old man, a native of Cuba addressed to Columbus when presenting him with a basket of fruit. The speech shows the quiet disposition of the people and their profound veneration for their white visitors."
