CANNERYMEN AT WAR.—It is evident that the lower Columbia river cannerymen are at war with each other in a struggle for the largest share of the fish to be obtained during future fishing seasons.

THE WOOL MARKET.—Dalles Chronicle: The wool market, from all appearances, is opening up. A number of sales of small clips have been made at fourteen cents during the last few days.

A SHORT PACK.—The salmon pack on the Columbia this season is estimated to be 110,000 cases short, owing to the fact that many independent fishermen sold their fish to the cold-storage concerns, where they received a quarter of a cent per pound more.

FAIR MERCHANTS.—The Tillamook Herald says: "From the way travel men are selling goods on the installment plan to the people of Tillamook county, it is quite evident that they have forgotten all about the steel range man."

MACADAM ROADS.—There can be little doubt that Clatsop county needs a rock crusher for making good roads. The time was a century ago in New England, when they had better roads than Oregon ever boasted.

OUR SUMMER RESORTS.—Columbia county's popularity as a delightful place to spend a week or a month away from the heat, dust, and business of a lively city is becoming rapidly and firmly established.

AN EDITOR'S HARD LOT.—A melancholy picture of an editor's life in the state of Oregon is drawn by the Bosclyn (Mich.) Sentinel. "There are a few things those who publish jokes with whichers on them, some will say that you ought to be in a lunatic joint."

About one month ago my child, which is fifteen months old, had a seizure of diarrhoea accompanied by vomiting. I gave it such remedies as are usually given in such cases, but as nothing gave relief, we sent for a physician and it was under his care for a week.

Charles Gable visited Portland Tuesday. Mrs. J. H. Sheldon was in Portland Tuesday.

Judge Doan was up from Rainier last Friday. Mr. C. L. Olson was up from Deer Island Tuesday.

Mr. H. B. Borthwick was up from Goble last Monday. Eugene Blakesley was sightseeing in Portland Monday.

W. E. Stevens, of Lake Farm, was in the city last Saturday. Mrs. Frank Dow and sons are visiting at Rainier this week.

I. G. Wikstrom was attending to business in Portland Tuesday. Wm. Mellinger, ex. lately of Vernonia, is said to be in Chicago.

Mrs. Otto Kulper, of Portland, is visiting relatives in this city this week. G. W. Barnes came up from Quincy Tuesday and continued on to Portland Wednesday.

Charles Moserve now has charge of the subscription route and advertising department of the Astoria Daily News. Chas. Mellinger, U. M. Beeghly, L. B. Fitzgerald, and Wm. Placko, of Vernonia, were in town Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawhitwaite, of Oregon City, and Miss Mary Conyers, returned from camp on North Scappoose Tuesday afternoon. W. A. Harris and daughter, Birdie, expect to start Sunday for New York, to visit relatives.

John Cooper, who has been fishing on the Lower Columbia for several weeks past, returned home the forepart of the week. James Sheldon's meat wagon now pays weekly visits to Scappoose and Warren—each Friday.

Mr. Clarence Bragg, of Castle Rock, and Miss Stone are visiting Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Mayer this week. Experts who have watched the progress of the war are wondering how a Spaniard ever manages to come off victorious in a bull-fight.

Terry Gilliam, well known in this section where he has fished for several years, is now running a fish market at Gervais, near Salem, Oregon. George H. Sitts, of Vernonia, made final proof on his homestead before the county clerk last Saturday, as also did T. J. Frahl, of Clatskanie.

Norman McKay, of Scappoose, and Lou Fitzgerald and Wm. Placko, of Vernonia, returned last Saturday from the lower river fishing grounds. Mrs. H. R. Cliff and children and Mrs. A. H. George and children went to the mountains to camp last Sunday. They are at Dr. Cliff's place, near Bunker hill.

Rev. G. Grover Haley will preach in Houlton next Sunday, at 11 a. m. and in St. Helens, at 8 p. m. Subject of evening discourse: "The Duty of the Husband."

Mr. A. B. Little returned the latter part of last week from southeastern Oregon, where he had spent several months inspecting government surveys of public lands.

The five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Stevens returned last Friday from the hospital at Portland, where he had been undergoing treatment for pneumonia.

Best brands of hams 11 1/2 cents; best brands of bacon 10, 11 and 12 cents; Union Meat Co. and Cudahy's best quality, 45 and 50 cents per 5 lb. pack at St. Helens Meat Market.

Henry Bungardner and John Tompkins, of Deer Island, were in town Monday afternoon. The boys have their hayling finished, and report a large crop and excellent quality.

Mr. J. B. Godfrey, who some time since took the civil service examination for federal appointment, received notice Tuesday of his rating, which is considerably above the requisite per cent.

Dudley Bonney, of Yankton, went to Linton Wednesday, where he expected to purchase a horse. The canny at that place is well supplied with horses now, and no doubt there is good bargain offered.

The concert by the Somers family was well patronized Monday night. The family was in this city about a year ago and gave a good concert, but their recent visit demonstrates that as a specialty company they have wonderfully improved.

The public school of this place will begin on Monday, September 5th, with Mr. G. A. Hall in charge of the higher grade and Mrs. S. S. Way in charge of the primary department. Eighty-eight children drew school money in this district last year, and if the attendance is in proportion to the number drawing money, teachers will have their hands full.

To tell our people to be careful of fire at this season, is a timely admonition. A little carelessness now might cost us the loss of many hundred dollars. The high winds which frequently prevail at this time of year would add to the fury of flames that our department would be absolutely unable to handle a fire should one start. We all should be careful.

HOULTON NOT A SUBURB.

It is developing into a beautiful and prosperous village. The village of Houlton, one mile west of St. Helens, can no longer be looked upon as a mere suburb, but is rapidly developing into a beautiful little town, with resources to sustain the claims of her people that it some day will be the metropolis of Columbia county.

Of course, Houlton has not the advantage of the river to assist in her strides of great and worthy development, but circumstances demonstrate that progress is nevertheless being made. Facilities for shipping by rail, however, are all that could be desired, and when absolute necessity demands, her people, though a little inconvenient, take advantage of the cheaper rates offered by the steamer service at St. Helens.

The last six years has witnessed a wonderful change in the town of Houlton, and if the same rate of progress is maintained, the place bids fair to rival some of her more fortunate sister.

Houlton has advantage in one respect. The entire country west of the place noted for its productive qualities, and the many new and neat residences built and being built, and the small homes being cleared and developed, indicate the truthfulness of all our sayings. We believe that to be a most extraordinary, timely, and effective conclusion on the part of the people settling near Houlton.

The idea of large "farms" with no land cleared has rapidly given place to small homes well developed, and as a consequence more people find residence places and improvements more substantial and lasting, adding value to surrounding lands and stability and wealth to the whole section.

A recent and valuable improvement noted at Houlton is the beautiful residence of Mr. N. A. Perry, just completed and occupied. There is no more handsome residence in Columbia county. It is modern in every respect, and being located where it is, shows to splendid advantage and gives the town a much improved appearance.

In fact, Mr. Perry has been instrumental in the development and building up of Houlton. Only a few years ago Mr. Perry entered upon his business career at that place, with not the slightest prospect in store, but through eternal vigilance and the employment of careful business methods he has succeeded in a most satisfactory degree in establishing a large, growing, and profitable business. His first mercantile establishment was primitive, but he now owns and occupies a commodious store-building, with every convenience.

Mr. Lindley Meeker, a gentleman of enterprise and energy, has had much to do with the development and advancement of the community and town. Mr. Meeker's place lies south of the railroad, and the prime condition of everything about his place indicates his industry and progressive spirit. Captain Henderson, David Henshaw, John Lamberson, Captain James Cox, A. N. Clark, John Urie, G. D. Olson and many others have been instrumental in assisting the place to its present stage of progressiveness.

The village enjoys the convenience of a postoffice, express office, railroad ticket office, a modern two-room schoolhouse, blacksmith shop, shoeshop, large hall for public meetings, and a church edifice in contemplation. The population of the place and within a radius of one mile numbers about 150, and many new families are constantly moving in.

A section crew, composed of residents of the place, draw their salaries at the office of N. A. Perry. The principal industry is cutting and marketing cordwood, which affords employment to many of the people of the place and the surrounding country. Houlton is fast developing into a beautiful little city.

Cruelty to Animals. Since operations were resumed at the Linton cannery immense herds of horses have been shipped there from the interior for slaughter. It is needless to say that these poor animals were not put aboard of the railroad cars with a view to their comfort while in transit, and occasionally several were trampled to death.

This morning a trainload arrived here over the O. R. & N. line, on which were found nearly 60 dead carcasses. They were of small horses and ponies, who lost their lives either through suffocation or crushing. This incident was reported to Chief of Police McLachlan, who will cause Humane Officer Caswell to investigate it. In the event he can make a case against the shippers or the corporation, it will be prosecuted in the courts.

The Linton cannery finds a market for most of its product in Europe, and it stands to reason that its interest lies in canning nothing but pure meat. Hence the company will also find it advantageous to cause its livestock to be shipped in better condition.

Later in the day Humane Officer Caswell visited the stockyard. The scene before him was absolutely sickening. The dead horses had wounds of nearly every conceivable nature. From some of these—small cuts—the entrails were even protruding. Among the lot he found one yet giving off a few spasmodic kicks and that animal he put out of misery with a pistol shot.

These animals, dead and alive, were packed in the cars almost as solidly as sardines in a box. How they managed to breathe or to move so as to injure one another is inexplicable. The shipper of these horses is T. H. McCarthy, of Hanington.—Telegram.

What One Man Has Done. Tillamook Herald. As an evidence of what industry and perseverance, combined with good management, may accomplish in Tillamook county, we submit the following interview with a well-known dairy farmer, Mr. Frank Ely: "I arrived in Tillamook county nine years ago with three horses and a wagon, and over $500 in debt. I sold the horses for $270 and traded of the wagon for a cow. My wife and I went to work in a logging camp, and remained at it for about two years. Then I bought 20 acres of land on the Tillamook river, south of the old Treeman Harris place, on South Prairie, for which I paid $400. The land was all covered with brush and the heavy growth of spruce timber. I sold the timber to Frank Severance, who logged it off, and I slashed and burned the brush and built me a box house 14x23 with a V-four rooms—sheds roof; made the shingles myself. Built me a barn 42x22 out of stuff I split myself. Did not work out much after the third year I was here. I began to sell butter when I had only one cow. By the fourth year I had four cows and they brought me in $200.50. I also raised berries and potatoes for market, and sold some hay, calves, and hogs. In seven years I had paid all my debts and had $500 in the bank. With that I bought 27 1/2 acres off the Treeman Harris place which joined me on the north, going over $500 in debt for it. I then built me a new house on the land I last bought, which has cost me nearly $300 thus far. It isn't quite finished yet, but soon will be. I now have 17 head of cattle, a good team of horses, a wagon, a carriage, and hay enough to last me two years.

"I acquire my success to hard work and square dealing and minding my own business."

IN MEMORIAM. On the 3rd day of August, 1898, the citizens of Mt and vicinity were startled by the intelligence of the very sudden death of Mrs. Mattie Lane, at the age of 67 years, 6 months, and fourteen days.

She had prepared breakfast, and no unusual complaint was made until within one hour before the fatal change, which was probably from heart failure. A dispatch brought her son, Newton, from his home in Washington on the same evening. On the morning of the 5th, the large number of persons who gathered at Mt to attend the funeral told the high esteem in which she was held. At 10 a. m. the funeral procession started from Mt to the cemetery near Fishhawk, at which place quite an addition swelled the number in attendance. The sermon was preached from John xi, 25: 6. While all sought to comfort the bereaved husband and the attending relatives, no condolence could stay the unbidden tears. Nor do we think God would have it otherwise. He has not planted tender affections here and hidden us so Stiles. When the treasure he has lent us are suddenly removed, and the strongest cord which binds heart to heart is severed by the parting, he would not have us grieve that we are wounded. Al though to the bereaved "The earth seems loneliness" and it has certainly so, we confidently believe that another soul entered the portals of glory and joined the number of whom it is written "These are they that have come out of great tribulation." For early had she learned the mood "That 'tis woman's highest glory to be good." The victory is all the more glorious by being gained in the wilderness. No lively Christian church with Sabbath devotion secured her in the conflict, and with peculiar significance can she now say: "Thanks be unto God who giveth us the victory through Jesus Christ our Lord." To her, God has truly said: "Well done, thou good and faithful." Reader can he say this to you? Remember he cannot lie. AMOR.

Joined the Benedictines. Keeler H. Gabbert, the Oregon City correspondent of The Telegram, became a Benedict last Wednesday. On that day he wedded Miss Estella, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Rowland, of Eugene, at the residence of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Gabbert have the best wishes of many friends. They will make their home in Oregon City. [Mr. Gabbert is well known at this place, having been employed on this paper several years ago.—Ed.]

The Rev. W. B. Costley, of Stockbridge, Ga., while attending to his pastoral duties at Ellenwood, that state, was attacked by cholera morbus. He says: "By chance I happened to get hold of a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and I think it was the means of saving my life. It relieved me at once." Watkins cave, so named last week for the discoverer, Frank Watkins, is situated in Pine Hollow, thirty-five miles from More. The discoverer and Art Barnum entered it and found the first room as cold as ice, about a 20-foot ceiling, 12x13. They had no appliances for definite observations, but from what was seen and felt they are quite sure that an abundance of ice may be secured there.
