Salt Rheum, Hands Would Crack Open

"I cannot say too much in praise of Hood's Sarsaparilla, as it has worked wonders in my case. I was afflicted with salt rheum on my hands for many years. I tried many remedies but did not obtain relief. My hands would crack open and bleed profusely and the pain was terrible to bear. Since taking Hood's Sarsaparilla the flesh has healed and my hands are as smooth as a farmer's hands could be. I have recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla to my friends, and as far as I can learn it has proved satisfactory."—LLOYD B. CHASE, Potterville, Mass.

GEORGE WASHINGTON

THE HERO, HAS ALWAYS OBSCURED GEORGE WASHINGTON THE MAN, AND YET THE STEERING QUALITIES OF THE MAN MADE THE HERO. Whenever the two characters have made separate studies, with the result that one class of writers make him a sublime genius and the other a commonplace man made great by circumstances. Washington was as great in wisdom and foresight and as unerring in judgment as a statesman as he was as a soldier. His physical endowments, his qualities of mind, his habits, education and training—all tended to appear in the thirty odd portraits of himself, a few painted in the effulgent regalia of war and all in the habiliments of a cavalier. He was as straight as an Indian, six feet two inches tall, with large bones and broad shoulders, wide at the hips; feet large, requiring a No. 11 shoe, and Lafayette said his hands would have been a curiosity for a medical museum. This may explain why he rarely shook hands. He weighed 210 pounds.

To his clothing Washington devoted much thought and attention, not only as a young man, but all his life. A journal written when he was sixteen has several long and elaborate entries about how to have his coats made. In 1754 he records having bought a "superfine blue broadcloth coat with silver trimmings," "3 pps. of the very neatest shoes" and "2 pps. of fashionable mixed or marble color'd silk hose." It is evident that he always strove to be in the fashion. During Washington's presidency a caller describes him as being dressed in purple satin, and at one of his levees, he was clad "in black velvet; his hair in full dress, powdered and gathered behind in a large silk bag; yellow gloves on his hands, holding a cocked hat with a cockade in it, the edges adorned with a black feather about an inch deep. He wore knee and shoe buckles, and a long sword with a finely wrought and polished steel hilt; the scabbard was white polished leather." Wherever he happened to be Washington was constantly demanding a washrag.

WHERE HONOR IS DUE.

If you please, you may laud George up to the skies. As the man who won battles and never told lies. You may tell of his virtues in story and song; How he carefully sifted the right from the wrong; Or his wisdom in counsel, his bravery in war; How he drove the grim British away from our shore; You may cherish forever his hat and his sword; And you to the skies our brave Washington laud. Long may we hold him an example to us; For honesty, temperance, courage and truth.

While we gaze with delight on a structure so grand, Let us honor the builder who drew out the plan. And added, through years of infatigable care, Small stones upon stone, firmly fixing them. And though this may be but a girl's point of view, Let us give credit where it is certainly due. And pick from his laurels one leaf for another. So there cheers for our George, and four for his mother.—YOUTH'S COMPANION.

WASHINGTON AS AN OLD MAN

Age Found Him Nobly Generous—Dignified at All Times.

"You will meet, sir, an old gentleman riding alone in plain drab clothes, a broad-brimmed white hat, a hickory switch in his hand, and carrying an umbrella with a long staff, which is attached to the saddle-bow. That person, sir, is Gen. Washington." This delightful portrait of Washington in his old age, when the storms had passed and life ran in quiet groves by the side of his beloved Potomac, was drawn by young Custis, or stood meditatively, in the shade, doubtless dreaming of passed glories. Every day while making his rounds of the farms, Washington never failed to stop before this field, lean over the fence and call "Nelson."

"At the sound of his voice the old steward would pick up his ears and run neighing a greeting, to curie his neck under the caressing touch of his master's hand. This was the war horse, "Nelson," whose strong limbs had borne his master safely through the carnage and tumult of many a bloody battle to the crowning honor at Yorktown, where, sitting on his back, the commander-in-chief of the American armies had received the surrender of Lord Cornwallis. In this active, unostentatious way passed the last years of the noblest man of his age—perhaps of any age.

KNOCKED WASHINGTON DOWN.

Father of His Country Given a Black Eye by a Virginia Politician.

Washington was an eminently fair man. He had a quick temper, but as a rule he kept it under control. Sometimes, however, it got the best of him. This was the case once in Alexandria, Va., when Washington was knocked down by Lieut. Payne. Payne was a candidate for the Legislature against Fairfax of Alexandria. Washington supported Fairfax, and when he met Payne, sitting on his back, that Payne considered an insult, and Payne knocked him down. The story went like lightning through the town that Col. Washington was killed, and some of his troops who were stationed at Alexandria rushed in and would have made short work of Payne had Washington not prevented them. He pointed to his black eye and told them that this was a personal matter and that he knew how to handle it. Every one thought that this meant a duel. The next day Payne got a note from Washington asking him to come to the hotel. He expected a duel, but went. Washington, however, was in an amiable mood. He felt that he had been in the wrong, and said: "Mr. Payne, I was wrong yesterday, but if you have had sufficient satisfaction, let us be friends." There was a decanter of wine and two glasses on the table which Washington had ordered to smooth over the quarrel. The two drank together and became such strong friends that that Payne was one of the pall-bearers at Washington's funeral.

THE WASHINGTON COAT.

adopted son of the patriarch, and intended to assist the recognition of Washington by a gentleman who had asked to be directed to him.

The wish of Washington when old "to move gently down the stream of life until I sleep with my fathers," was granted. And yet, his latter days at Mount Vernon were busy days; for, every morning, rain or shine, he would mount his horse and make the circuit of his farms, a distance of between twelve and fifteen miles. Not a field or orchard, barn or cabin, wood or clearing, but what passed daily beneath his watchful eyes. His journal tells of a morning spent in tracing a rebellious coral honey-suckle vine to the entrance of some state forest tree; of the clearing away of the underbrush from a grove of favorite pines; of making drills for the sowing of holly-berries, etc.

Each day he gave personal directions to his overseers, regulating almost with the care of a father the busy life of the negro world, and sometimes even attending directly to their needs and complaints.

In a field of the richest grass and clover Mount Vernon could afford, a tall old crop, with white face and legs, cropped, in its season, the inimitable herbage

MR. JOHNSON'S GREAT STRENGTH

And How He Developed His Power to Handle Thirty Tons Weight of Lumber per Hour on a Saw Mill Floor Daily.

MINNIVILLE, Or.—Dear Dr. Darrin: Your electric and home treatment for the past few months has wrought almost a miracle on me. When I first came to you I was almost crazy from kidney trouble. I was wholly unable to work. Now I am strong and hearty, and able to handle 30 tons weight of lumber across the sawmill floor every day. It is a wonderful and radical cure. I thank you with all my heart. I will stand by you and recommend you first, last and all the time. My mother (Mrs. M. A. Johnson), who formerly lived in Salem, Or., now here, has never had a return of her deafness of 12 years' standing, cured by you two years ago. Gratefully yours,

Dr. Darrin's System of Treatment.

Electricity, the invention of the 19th century, will worthily the patient years of investigation and experiment that have been given to the science of the ablest and most advanced votaries of science. Galvani, Volta, Humboldt, and others equally distinguished, spent years in studying the phenomena of this wonderful agent, and then Morse gave it a physical value in the invention of the telegraph. And now, as we have become familiar with the constant miracle of lightning, bending obedient to the slightest touch of man, we see a new wonder in its application by Dr. Darrin, who, by skillful mechanism, directs this subtle force to the destruction of disease and the building up of wanting vitality. Dr. Darrin treats with electricity and medicines all curable chronic, acute and private diseases. Blood taints, loss of memory, diseases caused by mercury in the improper treatment of private diseases. Office, 235 Morrison street, Portland. Hours, 10 to 5 daily; evenings, 7 to 8; Sundays, 10 to 12. Consultation free and confidential; question blanks and circulars sent gratis. All addresses, patients cured home. Enlarged Prostate Cured.

The Bane of Old Age No Longer To Be Dreaded.

A Man Eighty-two Years of Age Cured in Dixie, Ark.

One of the oldest and best known men in Perry County has the satisfaction of enjoying his old age in comfort and ease. He has been afflicted with chronic prostatic enlargement and inflammation, and will cheerfully tell anyone how he was cured.

Mr. H. L. TRUNDLE.
We want the best of every reader of this paper. Mr. H. L. Trundle, Dixie, Ark., is eighty-two years of age, as hale and hearty a man of his age as can be found in the State of Arkansas; in fact, he looks as young as a man of sixty years. For more than fifteen years he has been afflicted with prostatic enlargement. He says that he has never enjoyed the days of unrest, the nights of torture and the pain, the loss of sleep, the loss of water and the inability to do so. He could scarcely get about the house, feeling, trembling and racked with pain from his head to his feet. In this condition he read the startling announcement in this paper that a new method of curing prostatic disease had been discovered. He wrote to the address given for full particulars and at once obtained the remedy. It is less than ten days more he had the satisfaction of experiencing relief. His case was chronic, difficult, and the chances of recovery on account of his age were against him. Yet sixty days of continuous use of the remedy cured him.

You men who are afflicted can have the same experience if you do what Mr. Trundle did. It is described in two neatly-written books which you can get free of charge, by mail, by sending your name and address to the Medical Supply Company, 215 M. Smith Building, Boston, Mass. It won't cost you a cent to get the information, and it may be worth hundreds to you. Write today, and refer to this article.

YOUNG AT SIXTY.

Berens comfort and happiness in advanced years are realized by comparatively few women.

Their hard lives, their liability to serious troubles on account of their peculiar organs and their profound ignorance concerning themselves, all combine to shorten the period of usefulness and fill their later years with suffering.

Mrs. Pinkham has done much to make women strong. She has given advice to many that has shown them how to guard against disease and retain vigorous health in old age. From every corner of the earth there is constantly coming the most convincing statements from women, showing the efficacy of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in overcoming female ills. Here is a letter from Mrs. J. C. Orms, of 230 Horner St., Johnston, Pa., which is earnest and straight to the point:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I feel it my duty to tell all suffering women that I think your remedies are wonderful. I had trouble with my head, dizzy spells and hot flashes. Feet and hands were cold, was very nervous, could not sleep well, had kidney trouble, pain in ovaries and congestion of the womb. Since taking your remedies I am better every way. My head trouble is all gone, have no pain in ovaries, and am cured of womb trouble. I can eat and sleep well and am gaining in flesh. I consider your medicine the best to be had for female troubles."

This present Mrs. Pinkham's experience in treating female ills is unparalleled, for years she worked side by side with Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and for some time past has had sole charge of the correspondence department of her great business, treating by letter as many as a hundred thousand ailing women during a single year.
