OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER.

The words of Admiral Dewey in positively refusing to entertain a proposition to accept a nomination for the presidency but reflect the thoughts of a great many others, who, owing to their loyalty to the gallant commander, were too modest to so express themselves in the face of popular sentiment until Dewey himself had led the way. Dewey may or may not be fitted to hold the highest executive office that the people are able to confer upon any man, but if he is qualified for the place there is no sense or reason in hurrying him into the presidential chair because of the heroic manner in which he has performed his duty at Manila. There are others who have performed their sworn duties in an equally creditable manner with Dewey, though the fact has not been brought so forcibly to the notice of the public, and who are entitled to places ahead of Dewey, and whom we know to be eminently qualified. All this can be said without detracting in the least from the honor that belongs to the popular hero. In fact he has settled the question himself by refusing to be a candidate for the presidency. Even though he might have aspirations to the high office—it seems however that he has not—he is too much a man of honor to infringe upon the claims of those who made it possible for him to attain the high position that he now holds. Dewey is a plain, honest soldier, fittingly qualified as such, and according to his own decision will for the present remain a soldier. If, after time has permitted careful sober thought, the people see fit to lift him to a higher seat than the one he now occupies, then the whole country will join in the popular movement.

Two-thirds of the states since the commencement of the year 1899 have been occupied in selecting United States senators to succeed those whose terms expired by limitation on the fourth of March. In the great majority of the states the duty has already been performed. The republican incumbents who have so far been re-elected are Hale of Maine, Proctor of Vermont, Lodge of Massachusetts, Aldrich of Rhode Island, Hawley of Connecticut, Burrows of Michigan, Davis of Minnesota, Clark of Wyoming, and Hanna of Ohio. Democratic senators who have been returned are Daniel of Virginia, Bate of Tennessee, and Cockrell of Missouri. Stewart, the silver republican, has been re-elected from Nevada. In three states there has been a change of personality, but not of partisanship. Thus Chas. A. Culberson, (democrat) succeeds Mills (democrat) in Texas; Addison G. Foster (republican) succeeds Wilson (republican) in Washington; and in Vermont Jonathan Ross (republican) succeeds to the unexpired term of Senator Morrill, deceased. In seven states republicans have been chosen to occupy senatorial seats in the Fifty-Sixth congress which are now filled by democrats. They are Chauncey M. Depew, who succeeds Murphy in New York; John Keane, who succeeds Smith in New Jersey; Louis E. McComas, who succeeds Gorman in Maryland; Nathan B. Scott, who succeeds Faulkner in West Virginia; Alfred J. Beveridge, who succeeds Turpie in Indiana; Joseph V. Quarels, who succeeds Mitchell in Wisconsin; and a republican—Johnson—who succeeds Roach in North Dakota. A republican senator was elected in Nebraska to succeed a democrat, and in Montana, William A. Clark, a democrat, succeeds to the seat of Mantle, a silver republican.

Lumber and Shingle Shipments.

The total rail shipments of lumber and shingles from Washington for 1898 amounted to 30,123 cars; lumber 10,400 cars, and shingles 19,623 cars. A little speculation as to these figures will prove of passing interest. Taking the combined shipments of lumber and shingles by rail only, coupled together as one solid train, the cars containing this lumber and shingle output for the year 1898 would present a train 228 miles long. The shingles alone would make a train 149 miles long.

MUST SPRAY ORCHARDS.

Good Legislation for Protection of Fruit Trees.

The last legislature passed a good law intended to protect the fruit and hop industry of the state so far as possible from vermin. The law is especially valuable in one respect, as it will rid the country of all the run-down orchards, of which there are many in this section that have been abandoned to the codlin moth, wooly aphis, etc., which have promptly seized upon them as their breeding places and made them a curse to the country. The law provides among other things:

"That it shall hereafter be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation owning or operating any nursery, fruit orchard of any kind, hop yards, flower gardens or ornamental trees, to throw cuttings or prunings from any fruit trees, nursery stock, ornamental trees or hop vines into any public road, highway, lane, field or other inclosure, or into any water-course of any kind; but shall destroy such cuttings or prunings with fire within 30 days from the time such cuttings or prunings are made.

"It shall hereafter be the duty of any person, firm or corporation owning or operating any such nursery, fruit orchard, hop yard, flower garden or ornamental trees, and knowing such to be infected with any kind of insects, pests or disease, to immediately spray or destroy the same in such manner as the fruit commissioner of the district may direct."

The penalty for a violation of the act is a fine of not more than $25 nor less than $10. The law is now in effect, having been provided with an emergency clause.

He Sees the Mistake.

County Judge Sappington, of Tillamook county, makes the statement that if the money expended in graveling roads in his county had been used in planking instead of graveling the roads, all the main roads in the county would now be nicely planked. He asks this query: "After expending enough money on gravel to plank the county roads, what kind of roads have we got today." The judge has been watching quite closely the work put upon a number of roads and how easily they are cut up, and he is perfectly convinced that the most economical solution of the problem of good roads, for his county at least, is to plank them, owing to so much rainfall and lack of foundation. We believe the judge's head is level on the plank road question. Of course there are those who do not coincide with them, but the next few years will demonstrate whether gravel or plank is the best for roads in Tillamook county.

Big Demand for Good Potatoes.

"It pays to raise good potatoes," said a farmer Friday, as he sold a load of choice Burbanks for 90 cents per sack. There are only a few places about town where a sack of good potatoes can be secured, as the generality of dealers will not pay 90 cents or $1 a sack for them to sell again, and yet there was no less than 6000 sacks of choice potatoes shipped to California on the steamer Thursday night. Just what they will bring there remains to be seen; but the shippers paid from 80 to 90 cents a sack for them here. So it will be seen that there are plenty of choice potatoes here, and it is only a question of paying the price to secure them. If everybody would or could raise choice potatoes, the price might not go so high, but it is cheaper to pay $1 25 for a sack of good potatoes than 75 cents for a sack that is no good. —Oregonian.

Buying Oregon Cattle.

C. N. Thompson, representing the cattle-dealing firm of S. W. Allerton, Chicago, was in Portland last week. He has been buying large numbers of cattle from Oregon stockmen during the past three years, and is now in the market for 20,000 head, which he desires to ship to the company's pastures, near Chinook, Mont. He has already made some purchases in Baker county. A. L. Falconer, a cattlebuyer of Hutchinson, Minn., is in Portland meeting Oregon stockmen, who have cattle to sell. Mr. Falconer bought several thousand sheep in the vicinity of Walla Walla and Dayton last year, which he shipped to his Minnesota feeding grounds. This season he desires to purchase 2000 head of young cattle out here.

Mills are Humming.

Activity in the lumber business has opened with a vim with the advent of spring. The Metcalf & Wade and Coweeman shingle mills are now running with full crews. Metcalf & Wade have more orders for shingles than they can fill for the next sixty days, with their mill running at full capacity. This means a big business, as the output is about 500,000 shingles per day. J. F. Hart, of the Coweeman Company, informs us he has a ready sale for the entire output of his plant. The prices are not so high as the mills would like, but some better than last year, with a strong demand.—Kelso Journal.

One On Tongue.

A good story is told on Representative Tongue. Wu Tingfang, the Chinese minister, is a great society man, and he has a keen eye for pretty women. He saw and admired Miss Tongue very much, and some time later, when he saw the representative from Oregon, spoke in high praise of the congressman's daughter.

"Have you any more children, Mr. Tongue?" asked Mr. Wu.

"Yes," responded the Oregon man, "I have six."

Mr. Wu leaned over toward Mr. Tongue, and said, questionally, in a confidential tone, "One wife?"

Microbes and Death.

If dirt makes microbes and microbes make death, then cleanliness is healthfulness as well as godliness. The man who throws dead cats, defunct old hens, offal and tin cans half full of rotten fruit into back yards and permits all this to remain the year round hankers for death and has contempt for godliness. The logical conclusion is that he has no chance here below, and if orthodox view be correct none hereafter. He is, in fact, according to the scientists, murdering not only himself but his neighbor and his neighbor's wife and children, but he is in addition defying the laws that make saints.
