

OREGON MIST.

Aug. 11, 1899.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Mrs. Mayger has ice cream on sale every day.

Largest stock and lowest prices at W. H. Dolman's.

The town treasurer has a call for warrants in his issue.

Mrs. D. J. Switzer spent several days at Seaside this week.

For a complete stock of merchandise call at Wm. H. Dolman's.

Mr. James Kennedy, of Goble, was seen in this city Friday.

Dad Bumgardner, of Deer Island, was in town last Friday, as was also Charles Olsen.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleaton attended the reception of the soldiers at Portland yesterday.

Mrs. Ellerson, of Portland, visited her daughter, Mrs. J. H. Sheldon, several days this week.

Miss Lulu Shannahan, of Portland, visited her sister, Mrs. Cleaton, in this city, last Sunday.

Mrs. James Dart and children went to Seaside last Saturday, where they expect to remain some time.

A. J. Deming and family and Mrs. Ellis went to Seaside Wednesday where they expect to remain some time.

Mr. E. E. Quick and family spent several days this week in Nehalem valley, fishing and otherwise rustating.

The county clerk issued a marriage license on Monday to Mr. Nels A. Nelson and Miss Mary Dunn, both of Rainier.

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Bagley, of Hillsboro, spent last Saturday and Sunday in this city, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Cleaton.

Rev. Mr. Philbrook will preach at Bachelor Flat Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and at Scappoose at the usual hour in the evening.

The new depot to be built at Rainier will be of the same design as the one at Clatskanie, in which event Rainier will have a neat and substantial structure.

There are a number of loose planks in the sidewalks of this city which should be spiked down before some one breaks a leg and the city is called upon to pay damages.

Sheriff Rice's condition is somewhat improved, although he is not able to leave the house. His ailment was of a much more serious nature than was at first thought.

Oscar Weed, son of Mr. Judson Weed, came up from Coville river last Friday, and proceeded over the mountain to Nehalem valley, where he expected to visit for a brief period.

You need not go to Chicago to have your picture enlarged, but call at the gallery in Rainier and get a fine carbon picture 10x20 inches, for $1. Best work and material guaranteed.

Rev. H. K. Hines, of Portland University, will preach at Houlton Sunday at 11:30 and at St. Helens at 8:00 p. m. Dr. Hines was pastor of the M. E. church here early in the '90's. He is an eloquent speaker.

The soothing and healing properties of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, its pleasant taste and prompt and permanent cures, have made it a great favorite with the people everywhere. For sale by Dr. Edwin Ross.

Mr. John Hendricks, an old resident of this county, residing for many years near Paris, died on Friday last at the home of his brother, Jesse Hendricks. His remains were laid to rest at the Briggs burying ground on Sunday.

Mr. T. B. Wallace, of Paris, who is agent for Shapp's Giant Library, is meeting with much success in his canvases for subscriptions. This work is well worth the price, and all lovers of good literature will do well to secure a copy of it.

The Artisans of Houlton will have an open meeting tonight (Friday) at which a literary program will be rendered and ice cream and cake will be served, the proceeds to be used for the benefit of the assembly. All are invited to attend.

The Cherrington estate in Nehalem valley, was sold by auction last Friday at executor's sale, the purchaser being Omar Shannahan, the price being $630. The property was appraised at $1400, and until the probate court confirms the sale, matters will remain as they are.

Mr. J. C. Johnson, one of the most successful dairymen in the vicinity of Scappoose, was in town last Friday. Mr. Johnson says he is doing a good business with his creamery this season and predicts a prosperous era for the future in the dairy industry in Columbia county.

Charles Meserve, formerly of the Astorian, has accepted a position with the enterprising firm of Board & Stokes Co. and will hereafter look out for their interests in the surrounding cities. Mr. Meserve is a hustler in the line of drumming up business and no doubt will prove a valuable man for the firm.—Astoria Budget.

Senator McBride returned from New York to Portland on Thursday of this week, much improved in health. After attending to some important matters throughout the state in regard to appropriations for public improvements, the senator will come to Columbia county, where he will spend some time before returning to Washington in December.

Mr. Max Berg, of Warren, was in town last Monday, and to a Miss reporter stated that in his opinion the price of potatoes would range almost as high as that prevailing for that commodity this spring and summer. Mr. Berg says the crop will be very short, attributable to the fact that planting was necessarily late on account of the backward spring. Fruit is also scarce, says Mr. Berg, hay is plentiful and of a very good quality.

Mr. George Brinn, of this city, received a letter recently from Jack Wellington, formerly of this place. In the letter Jack stated that he was confined in the naval hospital at Mare Island, suffering from the effects of a fractured bone of the elbow of his arm, sustained while doing duty on board the cruiser Philadelphia during her engagement at Manila several months ago. Jack stated that he expected to receive his discharge in a very short time.

During the civil war, as well as in our late war with Spain, diarrhoea was one of the most troublesome diseases the army had to contend with. In many instances it became chronic and the old soldiers still suffer from it. Mr. David Taylor, of Wind Ridge, Greene Co., Pa., is one of these. He uses Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and says he never found anything that would give him such quick relief. It is for sale by Dr. Edwin Ross.

Prosperity Does Prevail.

The fact needs no parading before the public that prosperity again reigns in Columbia county. Not since 1892 has there been such a lively business period, not only in this county, but throughout the entire state, as that now prevailing. There is no reasonable excuse for men being idle. Work is to be had on every hand, and those desiring it need not be idle an hour. In most cases, however, the amounts paid for labor are not as large as did prevail for similar work a few years ago, when $2 a day was the smallest wages paid for the commonest kind of labor. But despite such a fact, it is now possible to secure employment at fairly good wages, and it may at once be taken for granted that he who is not now employed does not want employment. Farmers who have produce to sell can dispose of it to good advantage. Butter has commanded a good price all summer, eggs have not sold lower than 15 cents a dozen here this year, potatoes have been very high, and beef cattle have brought a fancy price for many months. Occasionally you hear some unsophisticated individual complaining, but in fact it is the shiftless, calamity-crying element, and it is a safe prediction that when a wall of hard times goes up from an individual the one who makes it would refuse, absolutely, to go to work and strive to better his condition.

"Pell Was Hopping."

Warmer times never than those now prevailing for a few minutes on our streets Tuesday morning. There seems to have been several infractions of the code of ordinances, and the duds had their way. There was once an ordinance by the common council of this city which said the people of St. Helens should be allowed to ride a bicycle on the sidewalks, but it seems that all the people did not ordain, and an appeal for that offense was ordered Tuesday morning. The law has been defied ever since it became a law, and since the council at a recent meeting voted to uphold the ordinance, every person found violating it should be punished according to its provisions without fear or favor. The council also proceeded to order woodpiles and rubbish removed from the streets, and there was a very rapid disappearance of objects of that character from public view. All this is well and good, and care should be taken that the ordinance is not a temporary nature. It should become a permanent thing. Hopes are entertained that within twenty-four hours persons will not be permitted to commit the same offense and go unpunished, for which that offense was ordered a few hours before. May be this outbreak is the beginning of the end.

Paid Well from the First.

There has probably never, if ever, been a better paying logging investment than the Coville boom, in its earlier years. The boom was built in the fall of 1888. Miles Sheerin, of Rainier, superintended its construction and ran it successfully until June, 1893. The original boom company consisted of Charlie Forsythe, Steve Dodd, Sam Paquette, Dorse Moore, Jim Fidler, Dean Blanchard and four other parties. Ninety days after the boom was constructed, Miles Sheerin paid the company $5000 and the same amount in the next ninety days. Mr. Sheerin, with ten men, has rafted 1,000,000 feet per day on many occasions. The largest amount of rafting done in one season was 100,000 feet. The charge for rafting is 50 cents per thousand. The original shares of stock were valued at $100 each, and ran up to $500 each. From 1888 to 1893 the boom company spent $100,000 in betterments and improvements. There is little logging done on the Coville, compared to former years, and in consequence the boom does less business.—Clatskanie Gazette.

Not Required to Post.

The intent of the new law in regard to collection of delinquent taxes is interpreted as not requiring the sheriff to post a notice of levy upon the land about to be sold. Heretofore it was necessary to proceed in that manner, but Judge McBride rules such a course as not being required. The sheriff had a number of deputies out this week posting such notices on lands, but they have been called in. Heretofore the city has made about $1000 each year by proceeding in such a manner. The law has been changed relative to executions and levies, and the warrant of the county clerk upon the delinquent tax roll is interpreted by the county clerk to mean the sale of lands for delinquent taxes will hereafter be the same as any other execution for the sale of lands. The sheriff makes the levy in his office.

Killed by a Tree.

A letter from the Riverside Lumber Company, of Humboldt county, Cal., to J. E. Vining, of Mayger, gives the following in regard to the death of James Vining: "Jim Vining, your brother, was a sawyer in our logging woods. While in the act of cutting a windfall oak he was struck by his death. The windfall was small tree sixty or seventy feet long. He chopped it off at the top, and when he had done this it started to roll down hill and caught against a stump; this swung the top up hill, catching Jim behind the ear, fracturing his skull and killing him instantly. On receipt of the news at the office we telegraphed you, but had to bury him before we received an answer. We shut the mill and woods down, and the boys attended the funeral in a body."

Resembled the Ark.

On Tuesday morning a peculiar appearing vessel bore in sight at this place, in the form of a steamer, and at first appearance it was thought to be Ark No. 2, but it subsequently developed that it was only a large scow loaded with household goods, farm implements, sawmills, stock, hay, etc., belonging to Gus Wikstrom, who was moving his family from their home on McNulty creek to the sawmill, near Kalama. Gus says his business kept him away from home so much of the time that he considered it an economical move as well as one of comfort and pleasure for himself and well as his family to all live at one place. The move is only temporary, however.

Another Fruit Pest.

A new fruit pest has been discovered in Western Washington fruit trees, and is what Horticulture Commissioner Baker calls a "black spot." It is a dangerous microbe and when once started takes the whole fruit of a tree. The black spot, so far as now known, is confined to Western Washington, and is not bothersome in well cared for orchards. Any fungicide is said to be a remedy for the pest.

Transcribing Records.

The clerks have been devoting considerable time of late in transcribing records of lands contained in the grant to Washington county last winter. The exact description of all the lands contained in the eleven sections, together with vacant lands, etc., has to be furnished.

Teachers' Examination.

The quarterly examinations for teachers of our public schools is being held at the courthouse in this city this week. The board consists of Superintendent Copeland, Mr. G. G. Halsey and Mrs. S. S. Way. There are but four applicants, Catherine J. Tracy, Retta Kennedy, Edith L. C. Tidcombe and Katherine M. Beck.

Produce Potomac Germs.

The hot summer months are particularly favorable for the germs that produce ptomaine, according to an expert on this subject. He warns people to be very careful regarding suspicious ice cream, cream pills and stale meats, and the latter case the danger is all the greater because it is insidious, for ptomaine poisoning generally occurs when meat that is rather putrid is eaten, and there are none of the warnings that are given in odor and taste and putrefaction.

Divorces Come Cheaper.

Heretofore the plaintiff in a divorce suit will not be required to pay the $10 fee to the district attorney for appearing in the case, as has been the rule heretofore. When district attorneys consent to a salary it was claimed that the fee above mentioned should be turned over to the county treasurer, but Judge McBride rules that the law has no such intent, and that heretofore the fee should not be collected. The docket fee of $5, the trial fee of $2 and the officer's fee of $10 is the extent of costs for securing a divorce, aside from the attorney's fee.

Mayger Shingle Makers.

Fluhrer Brothers, of Mayger, Oregon, shingle manufacturers, have orders for more shingles than their present capacity will supply. Mr. Fluhrer, the father of the bright young men who carry on the business, is probably the best shingle maker in the Northwest. His experience in the shingle business is many years prior to coming to the coast, has stood him in good place. Mr. Fluhrer is not only a shingle maker, but an inventor as well, and the machinery necessary for the manufacture of dimension shingles is his own design and manufacture.—Clatskanie Gazette.

Will Get off the Earth.

Judge McBride, of the 6th judicial district, was in the city yesterday, says the Oregonian of Tuesday. He says he has been hard at work all through the warm weather, and will start in a few days for a month's outing in the woods. He is going into the wild country east of Mount St. Helens, where he defies any one to find him, and says that during his absence his lawyers must apply to the county judges for their orders. He will be out of touch with civilization and out of reach of telegrams and letters or papers, and intends to have a genuine rest from the cares of business.

Seeks a Change of Climate.

County Clerk Watts left Portland Monday evening for Eastern Oregon, where he goes in quest of a dryer climate, calculated to be more in keeping with the requirements of his constitution. For some time, in fact ever since Mr. Watts was attacked last winter with the grippe, his health has been very poor, and his present trip was to seek a change. Mr. Watts expected to go direct to LaGrande, and if relief was not found there he intended to continue over into Idaho. Mr. Watts will return when he thinks his health has been benefited sufficiently. Meanwhile, Mrs. Watts and the children will vacillate some time in the vicinity of Mayger.

Jack Hoover Not Dead.

The statement made by the Rainier correspondent to the News last week that the man who committed suicide at Rainier three weeks ago was Jack Hoover, of Nehalem, was without foundation, and absolutely erroneous. The identity of the suicide is yet unknown, but that he was not Jack Hoover is made certain by the following statement sent to this office by the Rainier correspondent: "The man who committed suicide at Rainier, Aug. 6.—(To the Editor).—Jack Hoover, whom it was reported committed suicide at Rainier a short time since, is alive. He crossed the mountain from Pittsburg to Houlton with me on Saturday, August 5, and remained over night with me."—W. P. Tucker, "Houlton-Vernonia mail carrier."

Best Hops for Oregon.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson says the world will be ransacked to secure the best early hops for Oregon, and Oregon growers. Last year a number of varieties were sent to the government experiment station at Corvallis. Some of the roots arrived in bad condition, and for other reasons did not do well. Now another collection is being provided for by the department of agriculture. The idea is to extend the picking season, and to avoid some of the consequences of the early fall rains that often make the saving of the hop crop a difficult matter. The object is a commendable one. The department of agriculture, from the chiefs down to its humblest workers, is being directed by Secretary Wilson into practical channels. The prevailing idea is to do something useful for the men who till the soil and feed the nation.

The Same Here.

There are a few significant facts staring us in the face which cannot long be ignored by the most unthoughtful, prejudiced, unreasonable fault-finder. Cattle, hogs, sheep, horses, poultry, wool, hops, lumber, etc., command excellent prices with an upward tendency along all lines. It has been provided for the S. P. company, and as much freight business as it is doing at the present time. The carrying capacity of all sea-going and coasting vessels is to its utmost. The pulse of commerce is throbbing with a vigorous, healthy movement, indicative of real growth of prosperity. The great army of labor seekers has vanished. There is not a corporal's guard left to tell the pitiful story of starving wife and children; only now and then the contemptible, professional tramp, without excuse for being hungry and in rags. In making a general tour of the county we hear only this complaint: Laborers are scarce and wages high. Surely, in the presence of all these facts and the general admission of the democratic fusion press that times are much better in the last six months than in times previous, the man who will stand up and assert that all the people are in destitution, and the county rapidly going to the dogs must be blind and deaf and daff.—Roseburg Plaindealer

A SEASIDE EPISODE.

Columbia County Gentlemen Figure Prominently in the Case.

This county is well represented at Seaside this year, and from the accounts of important events that are transpiring at that popular resort the criterion from here are doing their parts well in seeing that excitement does not lag, a prominent characteristic of certain of them. Messrs. Dr. Cliff, D. W. Price, Frank Dow, N. A. Perry, W. B. Dillard and numerous other gentlemen from this section, with their families, are comfortably situated at the Grimes grove, and are said to be having all the fun out of sun life that it is possible to get, and we conclude they got all there is.

Dr. Cliff, whom we all know to possess a wonderful liking for pets, concluded that a Billy goat would not only be a decided favorite with his own party, but would be a decided asset to the eyes of everybody at that resort. Acting upon the impulse, he made a special trip to Portland on Thursday last week and there secured the exact animal to gratify his desires. The doctor says he purchased the goat from an old washer woman. He says the old lady winked at him as he led the goat away at the end of a clothes line, though at the time he looked upon the affair as an honorable business transaction. Had it been a horse he was buying he would have asked about the habits of the animal, but it never occurred to him that there was any cheating in goats.

The doctor and the goat arrived at Seaside at the same time last Saturday, when the doctor forthwith procured the assistance of his gentlemanly friends at the camp and a suitable place for keeping Billy was soon improvised near the tent. The conduct of the goat during the entire journey had been of such a lamb-like character that the entire party was delighted with him. Withal, he received much attention during the entire evening, being fed all the dainties that could be mustered, but Frank Dow says subsequent events leads to the belief that Billy, later in the night, must have dined on dynamite and siege guns from Fort Stevens.

About 5 o'clock the next morning the doctor heard a little disturbance coming from the direction of the goat's quarters, and looking from underneath the side of the tent he beheld an unknown woman leaving the goat pen head first, and the goat was just taking his last breath from her poliostrals in a manner which the doctor considered, with his views of propriety, very ungentlemanly and decidedly impolite.

Believing that there was some misunderstanding and that the goat was too easily incensed in presuming that a party was his enemy, the doctor hastily pulled on his trousers, picked up the crab and went to the front. The goat saw the doctor coming, stood up on his hind feet and gave the grand halloo sign of distress, and as the doctor stepped toward him the other members of the party were up, he felt an earthquake strike him a little bit below where he had his suspenders tied about his body. The vibrations were from every direction indicated by the compass. The doctor repeated a portion of the beautiful Easter service and climbed upon an old barrel which stood near by, when Frank Dow, who had come forth from his tent to start a fire, was espied by the former gentleman.

Mr. Dow is a man who grasps such a situation at once, and although he is a man who deliberates much on any great undertaking, when he saw the strange woman making decidedly good time in putting distance between herself and the goat, and the doctor standing on the barrel, he felt that there was need of a great mind right there and then, and he took his hat and went to the sea to the beach. He also took a barrel stove and the hatchet. He told the doctor there was but one way to deal with a goat and that was to be firm and look it square in the eye. He walked toward the goat with his eyes set, and the doctor says, "I noticed the way the goat looked at sheepish, that Dow was a regular lion tamer. Just as Frank was about to strike the fatal blow he caught the strings of his drawers in the nails of a loose barrel hoop, and as he stooped to pick them up a hammer or a three inch iron, and advised Newton to seek counsel from Mr. Dillard. Mr. Perry said that one with his experience with animals should not be afraid of a goat. Said he, "I don't want to do it, but I can't let the animal in to gain their confidence." Perry said that in two minutes he could so gain the affections of that goat that it would follow him about like a dog, and he called up to Billy, stroked his head, scratched his ear, and asked his friends if they could not see that they had taken the wrong course with the goat. "Come, Billy," said Perry, as he moved off, snapping his fingers. It is Perry's unbiased opinion that Billy came. Not that he saw Billy come, but he said that a considerable suspicion, from a feeling of numbness some two feet from the base of his brain, that William had arrived in that immediate vicinity, and while he was recalling his scattered thoughts and feeling for any pieces of spine that may have become detached from the original column, Billy came again. The second coming was equally forcible with the first. Proceedings of this nature had continued long enough, according to Perry's opinion, and proceeding backwards, he craved him to the top of a woolpile, when he declared he had received the worst mental and physical shock he had ever experienced.

At this juncture Dr. Cliff espied Doc Price, and called him over. He told Price if he would dispose of the infernal goat they would all join in a petition to have his party as a restaurant at Seaside raised. There is no class of our citizens more accommodating than our postmasters, and Price walked up to the goat and gave it a push with his foot. The goat seems to have been satisfied, and he turned to speak with the doctor. The words had no more than vaporized in the chill, salt air before the goat planted two triphammer blows into the seat of government. Price recovered after a little fanning by Mr. Dillard. The gentlemen of such lofty positions made up a purse of three dollars for Mr. Dillard if he would take the goat away. He secured a turnip, offered it to the goat, which followed him away, evidencing every sign of contentment.

The gentlemen came down from their positions, and he had to look at the thing with a cold eye, and he took a leading oath that none were ever to tell of the experience. Our correspondent at Seaside, however, sent us the facts.

VERNONIA ITEMS.

We are badly in need of a good rain. Blackberries are very plentiful about Vernonia.

Bill Stewey and wife were in town last Sunday.

Otto Malmsten went up to Keney last Saturday.

John Baker came in from Houlton last Monday on his wheel.

A social dance was held at Keney last Saturday evening.

Chas. Malmsten went out to his ranch on East fork last Monday.

Vernonia Sunday school will soon have some new song books.

Ed Worth, of Upper Nehalem, was in town last Friday evening.

Miss Eva Malmsten came over from Houlton on Thursday of last week.

Ed Joseph and wife are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Mellinger this week.

George Smith came home last Thursday from Westport, returning Monday.

Mrs. M. E. Sias, of Portland, is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tracy this week.

A number of the Beaver people were down to Vernonia Sunday attending church.

The Sunday school entertainment will be held on the evening of the 25th, at Vernonia.

Thomas North brought in a load of flour for E. A. Zillgett last Friday from Forest Grove.

Oscar Weed came in from St. Helens last Friday on his wheel to rusticate with friends.

Tell Soble and Bert Horsford were hauling wood for Rev. Mr. Stroup last Friday and Saturday.

Dr. Whittier, the medical lecturer, returned from Mist last Saturday and continued on to Burxton Sunday.

Bills are out announcing a grand reunion of all old soldiers. Some of our G. A. R. men expect to attend.

The Parker boys returned from their hunt down the river last week. The boys say blackberries are very abundant.

James Emmons and sister, Mrs. Tracy, went out to Clatskanie last week with a load of chickens, returning home Wednesday.

Miss Emma Haines closed a very successful term of school at Beaver last Saturday and returned to her home in West Portland Monday.

Mr. Jackson, accompanied by his aunt, Mrs. Blinn, from Portland, came over from St. Helens last Friday and enjoyed a few days of mountain air. They returned Tuesday.

Jack Hoover did not happen to be the man who shot himself at Rainier. Jack has been working at Mist all summer and says he don't care to die just yet, if people did think so.

T. H. Miller and wife and Mr. and Mrs. Schoonover and daughter, from Cornelius, came over last Wednesday for a few days outing on Rock creek. They returned home Friday.

Sid Malmsten, O. C. Spencer, Doc Beeghly and Chas. Mellinger returned from St. Helens last Thursday to which place they had taken a drove of cattle. They report that the cattle were shipped to Clatskanie on the steamer Kellogg.
