OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER.

ALL persons are not constituted alike and it is well that such is the case. Likes and dislikes vary; the ambition of one person in certain respects may tower to the highest pinnacle, while in another individual interest in the same object or subject may lie dormant or even sluggish. Intense interest in the world's champion yacht races, now being run, is manifest throughout the land. After all, to the average person there is but one object to create interest. Pride in our country's ability to outdo some other nation in a certain respect prompts us to turn an attentive ear or eye to the outcome of the contest. We can truthfully say that aside from the one object of hope of predominance of our superiority in the line, we are not particularly interested in the boat race. One of the boats is owned by J. Pierpont Morgan, of New York, the other by a flash-advertising tea merchant of Great Britain. In a degree there is little question of American or English superiority involved. It is a question as to whether a man named Herreshoff, living on this side of the water, can build a faster boat than a man named Fyffe, living on the other side, both being furnished with unlimited means, perhaps gained through questionable transactions or snatched from the people by fraud in light-weight tea packages. We surmise that a good many people are not unlike us in this respect. A man who tills 160 acres of land and eats fried ham three times a day out in the rural districts or over in Nebraska or down in Texas, pauses to wipe the sweat from his eyes that he may see whether his scythe needs sharpening, and not to pursue telegrams stating that the Columbia has just luffed and is now headed sou'-sou'-east-by-sou', or that the Shamrock has broken out her spinnaker and is standing up well. When it is all over, the man with the hoe, "brother to the ox," will lift his feet off of his whiskers and hit the oats another wallop, neither exultant nor depressed. After all, as we said before, all people do not look at these things alike, and while pride in some instances, profit in others, creates intense interest, we have attempted to present only the other side. Next week will decide whether "the cup" is to remain in America or go back across the water from whence it came.

THE close relationship that exists between the crops and national prosperity naturally invests the crop reports of the government with exceptional interest to all classes of producers and tradesmen. It might be said also that the crop prospects for the year preceding a presidential campaign are of more vital concern to the people than the crop reports of any other year. As a matter of fact, populism had its birth in the crop failures of the West. Popular discontent over the workings of natural law has always been the prolific breeder of revolutionary and impractical political ideas. The decline of populism, indeed, may be attributed to the general prosperity that has come from successive bountiful crops and from the restoration of public confidence through the maintenance of a sound and stable currency. When the official acreage of wheat for the year shall have been revised and the actual threshing results of rate of yield are secured it is believed that the official estimate of the crop of the year will reach 530,000,000 bushels. It is remembered, however, that the government September report of the last year placed the crop at 535,000,000 bushels, but the official returns afterward made it 675,000,000. It will not surprise anyone, therefore, if the wheat crop of 1899 should reach 600,000,000 bushels.

EVERY day makes it more evident that the democratic party cannot be rallied in undivided support of the anti-expansion policy. Like the advocacy of free silver coinage at 16 to 1, the support of anti-expansion views requires an abandonment of the historic position of the democracy. The democratic party from the time of Jefferson has been the expansionist party. It has added more territory to the Union than the whole area of the original states; and this has been accomplished in face of stout opposition. The attempt will surely fail, at this late day, to put the party in the attitude of pulling down the flag where it has been rightfully planted. Our place in the Philippines has been established by our arms. Our title has been perfected by treaty. We have paid for the archipelago both with blood and treasure. We shall keep all the islands and set up free and orderly government therein. Against this programme there can be no rally at democrats. The leopard cannot change his spots.

WHEN the door of a school opens it receives an army that is fitting itself for the duties of a future life. The first few days mean much. Half of the success is assured if good beginnings are made. New comers have first claim upon the teacher's attention. Their entrance into school marks an evolution in their lives. Most of them are tots, just from their mothers' arms. Each one thus far has been an object of loving care and from the moment the pupil is assigned to a class in the schoolroom all this ends. The pampered child becomes a citizen and soon realizes that it must share the burdens of teachers and companions. Happy is the school that is void of apparent partiality, and it takes a teacher of rare tact and broad sympathy to produce this impartial effect; but there are many such teachers in our primary schools, and their influence will live and bless their pupils in years to come.

HERE AND THERE.

Corn is now worth 30 cents per bushel in Nebraska, at which price the value of the crop of that state is about $60,000,000. And still the demo-populists imagine they can carry the state again.

Think of it: Multnomah county dropping enough on her assessment to make a difference of about $75,000 on state taxes. Can't Yamhill run a little razzle-dazzle on this line?—McMinnville Transcript.

Some idea of the growth of the Oriental lumber trade may be imagined, when it is known that one lumber exporting firm in Portland has secured orders for the delivery of 27,000,000 feet of lumber during the next twelve months to China alone, and is soliciting figures from the mills. The growth of the Oriental lumber trade is bound to assume mammoth proportions in the next few years and the Columbia river will receive its share of the business.

"Don't talk to me about Bryan," says George Haldron, of Butte, Montana, in a New York paper. "In 1896," he added, "I stumped the state for Bryan, and I told the people that prosperity was impossible without the free coinage of silver. That was my slogan. But prosperity is here, and, although silver has appreciated somewhat, free coinage is still in the dim and distant future. I am a republican from this out." Mr. Haldron is president of the Basin Gold & Copper Company, of Montana.

A part of a cargo of lumber for China is being cut at Rainier by Gilbert & Sons. This order amounts to 400,000 feet, 300,000 being 1x6 flooring, and the balance assorted rough. This firm is operating their mill at the mouth of the Cowlitz in connection with the Rainier mill. They make a specialty of cedar lumber. On Wednesday they shipped an order of 300,000 feet to Portland, besides 100,000 feet of dressed lumber to San Francisco. There are few firms in the lumber trade that have given the business more care or conducted it with more skill than this firm, which accounts for the success they have made.

Manager Edwards of the H. B. Borthwick Lumber Company returned last evening from a trip among the lumber and shingle mills along the Columbia between Astoria and Portland. He found everyone of them overcrowded with orders and running to their full capacity. The greatest difficulty with them was to secure sufficient men. The loggers were in the same condition and were crowed with orders. Mr. Edwards purchased 9000 shingles, which was all that he could find, but gave orders for more. He says that from the present outlook only orders that are placed long in advance can have any chance of being filled on time.—Astoria Budget.

It is a curious fact that in our Gregorian calendar no century can begin with a Wednesday, a Friday or with a Sunday. Another curious fact is that the same calendar can be used every twenty years. January and October of the same year always begin on the same day, as do April and July, and September and December. February, November and March also begin with the same day. Another very curious thing is that every day in the week is sacred among some people. Sunday is the sacred day of the Cristians, Monday with the Greeks, Tuesday with the Persians, Wednesday with the Assyrians, Thursday with the Egyptians, Friday with the Turks and Saturday with the Jews. So all days are equally sacred among the differeet nations of the world.

The amount of money paid by the Astoria creamery to our local farmers for butter fat during the month of August will be a surprise to many Astorians who thought the starting of this enterprise meant nothing to the city and vicinity, says the Astoria Budget. It also shows what can be accomplished by the owners of the hundreds of acres of tidelands within short distances of the city if they will only engage in raising cattle and conducting dairy farms. There is no place in the country where stock can be raised more cheaply or with better success than in Clatsop county. Nature seems to have arranged everything for fostering the industry. There is an abundance of hay on all the tidelands and slopes and the mild weather of the winter months makes the cost of feeding and caring for the stock a very small item. With a slight effort on the part of our citizens it will be but a short time before at least $5000 will be distributed among the local ranchers each month by the creamery.

According to reports the assessor of Multnomah county is lowering the assessment of that county nearly one-half. In that case the county will pay only one-half of the state tax it formerly did and the other counties will have to make up the differences. This is the strongest kind of evidence that there should be some kind of a state equalization board. It is now a race to see which county can get out of the most state taxes and with no board of equalization the assessments as made will have to stand. As the Sentinel commented at the time, it is to be regretted that Governor Geer saw fit to veto the law creating a new state board of equalization. Admitting that the law was not perfect, still its veto leaves the state with no equalization. The old cumbersome board was expensive while the new board sought to be created by the Mulkey bill, being composed of state officers, was practically inexpensive and would have proven quite efficient in operation until the legislature could meet again and amend the law in several essential points.—Salem Sentinel.

A country editor is supposed to have plenty of nerve, but we meekly haul down our colors, for our stock in that line was discounted the other day several per cent. We yield the palm to a citizen of Newberg, in good circumstances, but who squeezes his dimes so hard that they have to be sent back for identification. He does not subscribe for the home paper, not by any means, but he came into the office the other day and asked for the last Graphic. We handed him the paper expecting the forthcoming nickel. Our expectations were somewhat previous. He took the paper out with him, sat down and read it through carefully, and when finished brought it back "good as new" with the complacent remark that he wanted to "borrow it." Our only source of comfort is that it takes all sorts of people to make up this world, but—it takes more of some sorts than others.—Graphic. We don't see any use of kicking about a little thing like that, Bro. Woodward. We'll bet you the gum that you haven't a man in your community who not only bums your paper, but who insists on tearing all the wrappers off your main exchanges and carrying them home that he may "get the news fresh." That man recently moved out of this community because the papers of the town were causing his property to advance so rapidly in value that the progressive air was nauseating to him.—McMinnville Transcript.

On the 10th of September, 1897, Rev. S. A. Donahoe, pastor M. E. church, South, Pt. Pleasant, W. Va., contracted a severe cold which was attended from the beginning by violent coughing. He says: "After resorting to a number of so-called 'specifics,' usually kept in the house, to no purpose, I purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which acted like a charm. I most cheerfully recommend it to the public." For sale by Dr. Edwin Ross.

On Every Bottle

Of Shiloh's Consumption Cure is this guarantee: "All we ask of you is to use two-thirds of the contents of this bottle faithfully, then, if you say you are not benefited, return the bottle to your druggist and he may refund the price paid." Price 25 cts., 50 cts. and $1.00. Sold by Dr. Edwin Ross, druggist, St. Helens, and N. A. Perry, Houlton.

During the winter of 1897 Mr. James Reed, one of the leading citizens and merchants of Clay, Clay county, West Virginia, struck his leg against a cake of ice in such a manner as to bruise it severely. It became very much swollen and pained him so badly that he could not walk without the aid of crutches. He was treated by physicians, also used several kinds of liniment and two and a half gallons of whisky in bathing it, but nothing gave any relief until he began using Chamberlain's Pain Balm. This brought almost a complete cure in a week's time and he believes that had he not used this remedy his leg would have had to be amputated. Pain Balm is unequaled for sprains, bruises and rheumatism. For sale by Dr. Edwin Ross.
