 Wm. Simmons, who was sent from here two or three months ago, to the hospital for the measles, and, for treatment, has returned to St. Helens, and is now occupying apartments in the county jail; not, however, as a criminal, but because he is awaiting the disposition of his case by the authorities. He should be sent to some institution where treatment could be had, and required to remain there.
 It is reported that an effort has been made to compromise the rate war between the railroad and the O. B. & N. Company. The latter company made a proposition to the railroad people to put the fare at $2.50 single trip and $4.00 round trip between Astoria and Portland and the O. B. & N. Company to charge $1.50 single trip and $2.50 for the round trip. The railroad company refused to accept the compromise and the indications are that the rate war will last all summer.

 If one man is as good as another, he does not have to insist that he is.
 Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Cleaton spent last Saturday and Sunday in this city.
 If you want to make a man real angry just keep cool when he abuses you.
 Rev. Mr. Philbrook will preach next Sunday at Benson Flat in the forenoon and in this city in the evening.
 Mrs. W. H. Dolman will leave the first of the week for California, where she will visit relatives for some time.
 Met Pomeroy has resigned the position of purser on the Itala and will engage in business for himself. His place was taken by his brother, Frank.
 J. B. Godfrey, with explicit confidence in his ability to foretell future weather conditions, has commenced garden making. He will—well, we'll wait awhile.
 An advertisement in The Mist reaches a great many more private people—the substantial element—than an ad in any other paper in the county. Remember this.
 The Odd Fellows held an installation of officers last Saturday evening. After these ceremonies a lunch was indulged in to the satisfaction in many ways of the members present.
 Mr. R. F. VanValkenburg and Miss Araminta Hahn, both of Mist, were married at the Oriental hotel in this city Tuesday evening. Rev. Mr. Philbrook conducting the ceremony.
 Will Meserve was in town last Friday. He had just arrived down from Vancouver, where he had been as a witness in the land contest cases of the railroad versus the settlers on Gray's river.
 Two Mormon elders were in this city a day or two this week. They desired to conduct services here according to their belief, but so far we have failed to hear of any very great uproarious times.
 The judges and clerks of election for Beaver Falls precinct, which we failed to print last week are: J. W. Meserve, Conrad Snyder, J. W. Boals, judges; W. H. Kyeer, A. J. Quigley, clerks. Polling place, Meserve's hall.
 The only thing lacking about the registration law is that a voter should be compelled to pass a medical examination before he is allowed to register. The law provides for everything else but that.
 Cold storage men say they are going to double their salmon shipment this season, and that as high as 7 cents per pound will be paid for fish. We don't see how the cannerymen are going to make much money this year paying that price for salmon.
 The gentlemen of Scappoose who wrote us a very spirited communication last week about one of their neighbors, will have to excuse us. If you have any grievance of a personal nature against your neighbor, go and settle it with him. We cannot publish such a communication, although your signatures are attached.
 Attorney W. H. Conyers was up from Clatskanie Tuesday on professional business. Mr. Conyers has been appointed by the state land board as their attorney for this county. All applications for loans on land and any other business to be transacted for or with the state board will hereafter be attended to by Mr. Conyers.
 Someone with fair knowledge of the ways of the world has embodied a whole volume of good advice in the following few words: "Drink less, breathe more; eat less, chew more, ride less, walk more; clothe less, bathe more; worry less, work more; waste less, give more; write less, read more; preach less, practice more."
 The time in the justice court of this precinct was occupied last Saturday in a re-hearing of the election suit of Merrill vs. Enyart. The case was tried in the same court on Monday before, but the jury disagreed. At the latter trial the jury brought in a verdict in favor of the defendant, and now the plaintiff will appeal to the circuit court.
 The qualified voters of the Houlton school district held a school meeting last Saturday and voted a 10 mill tax for the purpose of improving the school building and maintaining the school for the next year. It is said to be the intention to hire another teacher and otherwise improve educational facilities at that place.
 Another of those pleasant social dances is bulletined for St. Helens on February 22nd. Aylesworth's orchestra, of Portland, composed of four pieces, has been engaged, and Mr. Willard Johnson, of Castle Rock, will direct the floor. The management of the affair will be very careful that good order will prevail. See bills later.
 If you want all the circuit court, county court, or justice court news, real estate transfers, all the local news, and the general news of the day, you will find it in The Mist each week. Citizens all over the county are realizing this fact, and as a consequence, our subscription list is rapidly growing. Remember that one dollar pays for The Mist for one year.
 A. L. Pulliam, of Herrington Point, Wash., while starting away from the shore in a row boat last Saturday, was bored through and through with a long shot from a shotgun which was in the boat. A dog attempted to enter the boat, and in doing so discharged the gun. Mr. Pulliam was immediately taken to Portland, where he died on Monday. Deceased was a brother-in-law of Ed Hillsberry's.
 Wm. Simmons, who was sent from here two or three months ago, to the hospital for the measles, and, for treatment, has returned to St. Helens, and is now occupying apartments in the county jail; not, however, as a criminal, but because he is awaiting the disposition of his case by the authorities. DO YOU KNOW?
 That Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Decker left on Saturday last week for Cornelius, Washington county, where they will reside in future.
 That the steamer Mascot was raised from the bottom of Lewis river on Thursday of last week, and towed to Portland between two barges. She will be repaired and again placed in commission as soon as it is possible to complete the work.
 That interest along the skirmish line among the politicians is increasing, and unfortunate as is the case, the hue will soon burst into a full-blown campaign. There are dozens of good men who are willing to be sacrificed upon the political altar.
 That the sheriff sold a piece of mortgaged land under foreclosure proceedings last Saturday. The parties to the suit were James H. Pearson, plaintiff, vs. Sarah Burton et al. and the piece of land was the southeast 1/4 of section 28, township 7 north, range 2 west. Cleaton and Anderson were the attorneys for the plaintiff.
 That the county court did not decide upon the tax levy for the 1899 assessment at its last sitting, but adjourned until the state levy, and in order to act intelligently in the premises an adjournment was taken until such time as the state levy had been made.
 That the reason why 1900 will not be a leap year, although it is divisible by four, is that according to the Gregorian system, on which our calendar is based, every fourth year of a century is never a leap year unless it is exactly divisible by 400. The next leap year will be 1904, the last having been 1896. Ever since 1600 the leap years at the end of a century have been separated by a gap of eight years, but the year 2000 will interrupt the series.
 That there are some people who always cry about the future, before they get to it; in other words, they borrow trouble, and make their associates and themselves miserable by croaking out their gloomy forebodings of impending evil. Just now there is such a class in Columbia county. They can see all sorts of dire calamity for the future, but upon what grounds they base their reasoning is an obscure quantity. Prevent evil if possible is a magnificent way of conducting business; but borrowing trouble is as useless as the former suggestion is commendable. Just give yourselves less concern about matters which are being ably taken care of.
 That the following item appeared in last Saturday's Oregonian, the same having some reference to one of our local infant industries—in age, only, however: "St. Helens is now the center of quite a wood-chopping industry, according to Harry Cline, a resident who was in Portland recently. William Slaughter has between ninety and 100 men in the woods, and there is work for all who offer themselves. Choppers cannot be obtained in the summer time, as men prefer to follow the more certain and profitable work of the winter season. For next winter's use. Men are paid 80 cents to $1.25 per cord, according to the kind of land the wood grows on. If level and convenient, the smaller price is paid, while if hilly and difficult of access, the price is raised to have the top price in order to make wages. The late wet weather has interfered with the work, and it is during these damp spells the men like to make flying trips to town. Chopping and splitting is not considered desirable work by the men, but the crescent saws can be run in nearly all kinds of weather, if the workmen have good luck in selecting locations."
DEER ISLAND NOTES.
 Travis Ross, loaded two cars of wood the last week.
 Miss May Enyart has recovered from her recent illness.
 Norman Merrill, of Clatskanie, was seen on our streets Sunday.
 Walter George is cutting ash wood for A. A. Merrill this winter.
 E. J. Barnes' new beard is the principal topic of discussion here.
 Mrs. Merrill was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. J. Wany, Monday night.
 Miss Rhoda Myers, who is at the Bumgarner home, will return to Clatskanie soon.
 An examination it developed that the sealions killed by J. M. Payne some time ago were nothing more than otters.
 The two young gents who walked up the railroad track have nothing to brag about but the fact that they did not have to go home alone, nor ride on the corner of a wagon box, either.
 Some party or parties without the fear of the Lord in the soul, and with the powder of the devil in their being, wrote several Deer Island items to The Mist two or three weeks ago, leaving the impression that the regular correspondent wrote them, and which seemed to cause no end of criticism. The most criticized was the item which spoke of the Christmas tree. No doubt the article was written for a good purpose, but the regular correspondent does not claim the credit. The next week, however, the item was properly and fully answered, although we noticed some misstatements in the answer, especially as to the sum of money realized as a result of the contribution. We do not know the exact amount raised, but we do know of several persons who contributed one dollar each, and we were at the hall time to see two collections taken up, the proceeds of which was put to excellent use by paying for the music. One would presume by the article "Not Haunting a Row," that the complaint included the supper; but it did not, as we understood. The supper and program to which we were treated were all that could be asked for, and could not be excelled anywhere. Of the collection there was over $5 spent for candy and nuts. We are not acquainted with the gentleman who got his candy and went home, but it is a sad fact that some persons who contributed as much as one dollar got a sack of candy which was not of a first-class quality. For the regular correspondent he can say he is well satisfied and that he never enjoyed himself better at any public demonstration; the dance also being a success. We hope our citizens will permit the dead to bury their dead, and all heartily join hands for another good time next Christmas.

CLATSKANIE ITEMS.

 Rev. George Whittaker, president of Portland University, spent the Sabbath in our town, preaching Quincey in the morning and here in the evening.
 Edgar Quigley's friends are gratified to see that he is improving and likely to get around again shortly. He is getting over a very severe attack of typhoid pneumonia.
 Alex and Duncan Chisholm came over from Oak Point recently to see their brother, Will, who is sick at the Clatskanie hotel. They returned this week after seeing that Will was getting better.
 Notices are posted calling a meeting of the voters of our school district. No. 12, to discuss the question of voting a tax for school purposes. Some eloquence will, no doubt, be poured forth on that occasion.
 Jack Stacy, of Rainier, has been stopping with the family of John Quigley and wife the past week, taking care of Edgar during his illness. Jack has proved himself an excellent nurse and takes pleasure in seeing his charge recovering.
 The late rains have raised the water in Clatskanie enough to let another lot of logs come down. This water has been a fortunate one for our loggers in that respect. A number of logs passed by town on Tuesday to be caught and rafted about the mouth of the Clatskanie.
 Isaac Bumgardner took passage on the steamer Monday evening for himself and family, intending to spend some time on the Washington side of the river. He thinks he has a better logging chance there for the coming season, but says he does not expect to sever his relations with our community only temporarily.

CAPTAIN WAUD'S DEATH.
 After many weeks of anxious waiting, a few days since Mrs. Nellie Waud received a letter from Fred Caples, a cousin of the late Captain Waud, who was with him at the time of his death, giving particulars concerning the sad affair. He said that while the captain seemed perfectly well up to 2 o'clock of the afternoon of the 16th of November, at that hour he was taken with a terrible headache and extreme nausea, vomiting terribly, and finally became unconscious, dying at 4:45. At that time he was at his claims near Dawson. The writer said he had no idea that the captain received a letter going to die, so suddenly did the illness come upon him, and remains were buried there temporarily, and as soon as it is deemed advisable and the weather moderates, the body will be brought to this city.—The Dalles Chronicle.

OFFICIAL TRIBUNALS.
County Officers are the Targets of Curious and Abuse.
 Some people seem to imagine that as soon as a man is installed in a public office he at once becomes a football to be kicked and knocked, and a target for the aim of all sorts of abuse, and the amount of the whimsical and imaginary abuses for which those gentlemen are responsible seems to have no bounds in the minds of many people. But forbearance on the part of the public servant is at all times a forced virtue, realizing, as he does, that he is a servant, and must meekly submit to all complaints and things which are hurled at him by many "know-it-alls." He has not recovered from one drubbing when comes a good, healthy tongue-lashing from somebody else with a grievance. Our experience has taught us that a county official will do more to accommodate the public than nine-tenths of the people, not office-holders, would do to accommodate a neighbor. A case in point occurred this week when a person appeared at the clerk's office, and desired to make the purchase of the tax title of certain lots in Clatskanie, when Clerk Watts, acting in a kindly spirit, notified the owner that there was probability of additional costs being imposed upon him if the back taxes were not forthwith paid. Imagine the chagrin of the clerk, when he received a missive from the—was going to call him gentleman—stating that the clerk might do well to mind his own business. The letter concluded with the statement that "I do hope the time will soon come when honest men will be elected to office in Columbia county."
 We are not apprised of the name of the person who is author of this letter, neither do we care who he may be; but let us say this: That when you hear a person utter such sentiment, it safe to conclude that the individual has attempted repeatedly to beat the county out of tax money, and because he has been headed off, he accuses dishonesty on the part of the officers, hoping to shield his own dishonest methods. To this same end of people, subjected to a very great extent, the existence of a public debt, through their refusal to pay their tax, and so soon as it is no longer possible to escape the law, which aims to force the payment of just debts, every credit and everybody are accused of dishonesty except the one who is directly dishonest. Mark it down, that in these statements there is more truth than sentiment.

CREDIT FOR OUR SCHOOL.
A Display of Talent; An Occasion of Pleasure and Profit.
 The rehearsals which have been going on among the school children for some time for a public entertainment, came to a climax last Saturday evening, when a programme, which for display of talent and good progress, has never before been equaled in our city on such an occasion. Each number of the programme was an entertainment within itself, which not only merits commendatory remarks on behalf of the children, but reflects credit upon the teachers for their diligence and care in training the young mind to be able to render their several parts so creditably. The entertainment was given for the purpose of raising funds with which to purchase a new desk for the schoolhouse, a commendable undertaking, and all friends of the school, pupils, citizens and everybody will be pleased to know that in this particular the effort was handsomely rewarded. No admission fee to the entertainment was charged, but all who wished so to do were invited to take a box or basket of lunch, which was disposed of by auction after the programme had been rendered. From the sale of the baskets there was $26.65 realized, with expenses not exceeding $3; hence a sufficient sum of cash was realized to purchase a large and serviceable national emblem, which soon will be hoisted over our public institution of learning. Not only the teachers and pupils, but the entire population of our city feel a mutual interest and satisfaction over the good returns from the efforts of those to whom much credit is due. To go into detail and speak of each part of the programme is not necessary. It was a success, and was well received by a very large audience. While Mr. Cleveland and Mrs. Way feel grateful to the public for the manifested and financial aid rendered, it is but feeble acknowledgement of the kindly feelings of an interested public to say that the interest in our school, taken by the teachers, is universally commended and duly appreciated.

ABOUT REGISTERING.
Naturalization Papers Must Be Exhibited by the Voter.
 Although the new law requiring the registration of voters has been in effect but about two weeks, enough confusion has developed to render life a burden to county clerks, and in a number of cases voters have declared they would forego the privilege of voting before they would undergo the trouble necessary to secure the right of franchise. The difficulty lies in the matter of naturalization, those acquiring citizenship in that manner being forced to produce legal evidence of the fact that they are naturalized. Legal evidence in this case means their original papers or certified copies of them, and to many of the old timers this is no easy task. In many cases men who have voted for twenty years and more in Clackamas county will be shut out unless they can secure copies of their papers issued in eastern Oregon long years ago. Another class who will suffer are they who were under age at the time their father took the oath of allegiance. In order to make their title clear they must present a copy of their father's papers or take out papers in their own name. As one year must elapse from the time of making the declaration of intention before the final papers can be issued, it looks as though many votes would be lost from that cause. Taking it all around, the naturalized voter has troubles of his own, and to the success in securing his rights in most cases it will be at an expense of from $1 to $3 for certified copies. But there is one thing to be kept in mind, do not blame the county clerk if he refuses to register you. His duties are defined very clearly and he has no option but to adhere strictly to the letter of the law. He may know you are entitled to register but have to refuse you unless you produce the "legal evidence," not to convince the clerk, but to satisfy the law. And above all, keep in mind the democratic slogan of "vote early and often"—and—register early.—Oregon City Enterprise.

Having a Great Run on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.
 Manager Martin, of the Pierson drug store, informs us that he is having a great run on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He sells five bottles of that medicine to one of any other kind, and it gives great satisfaction. In these days of grippe there is nothing like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to stop the cough, heal up the sore throat and lungs and give relief within a very short time. The sales are growing and all who try it are pleased with its prompt action.—South Chicago Daily Calumet.
