JULY 13, 1900.

The annual statement of the financial condition of the County, issued on the 1st day of the present month by the County Clerk, makes a most creditable showing. The report shows that during the twelve months preceding its issue the indebtedness of the County was reduced $6,233.75, as on July 1st, 1809, thirty years. There has in that time, outstanding unpaid warrants however, been an increase of only 60 the amounted to $25,943.49, and on July per cent in our yearly imports of foreign let, 1900, the same amounted to $19,- goods. The financial condition of the County can be said to be in first-class shape, which is pleasing knowledge to the people. That it we have been little to impress upon people that summer is at hand? But the callendar says so. Notwith-standing weather conditions people are preparing to go to the coast to spend the season there, presuming that some of these fine days it will be unduly hot in this section of God's footstool. West; dismissed. Bryant vs. Conyers; set for trial Aug-ust 6th. Is our last issue was published an article purporting to voice the sentiment of the Fish Commissioner relative to shortening the fishing season on the Columbia River, as a necessary means for the protection of the salmon fishing industry. It is evident enough that some sure means should be adopted, but the method proposed is far short of being the proper one. The salmon industry has been the means of vast fortunes being amassed, besides the and the progress of Time. dustry has been the means of vast for-tunes being amassed, besides the an-nual distribution among the laboring class of hundreds of thousands of dol-lars, and today the enormity of the in-dustry may well have been greater than ever before, instead of as it is, border-ing closely on the verge of almost com-plete extinction of the Chinook salmon. Legislation, touching the salmon indus-try, in both Oregon and Washington has been particularly favorable to men of large means and quite unfavorable to the class of money each year by the process of gillnet fishing. Trapp and seines have been permitted to operate, greatly to the disadvantage of operate, greatly to the disadvantage of chanics to get her ready.

THE Bryan convention has met, nominated Mr. Bryan for President, and adjourned, and the country has been given nothing more than was offered it by the previous nomination of that To the by the previous nomination of that same alleged statesman. The outline of principles emballed in the platform are an almost self demunciation of the issues county cloud the above-named County, hereby submit the fol-iowing report of the condition of the issues upon which Mr. Bryan appeared before the people four years ago, when free silver at 16 to 1 was made the paranount issue. This matter has place in the late platform, not because it was vanted for any good reason, but merely to hold the vote of the repudiationist, the Populist and the iller. The principal eature of the late platform is an attack on the war policy of the present adminstration, an issue which will prove by ar less popular than the 16 to 1 fanatiism. The contents of the Kansas City latform demonstrate to the people of he United States in a more precise manner than ever that Democracy has but one purpose-that of opposing the Republican party on all National questions, be they good, bad or indifferent. It offers nothing new; merely attacking the policies of the party in power. Mr. Bryan's overwhelming defeat four years ago will as certainly be repeated as the day comes for the casting of the ballots. Four years ago everything on every hand was unsettled and uncertain, but today the people and the country are prosperous and on this point no score can be recorded for Democracy or Democratic principle, and on matters relating to wars and their results Mr. Bryan will find that the side he has chosen to uphold is quite as unpopular and incorrect as his wild theories of the historic campaign of four years ago.

Clark, who is running s large Area Helpers. H. H. Clark, who is running a large ranch at Warren, on the Northern Pa-cific Railroad, twenty miles from Yort-land, says he has been forced to employ Japanese on account of the scarcity of white help, and he finds that s good, smart Jap is superior to many of the "cultus" specimens of the Caucansian race. "I have now ten of the little brown fellows on my place," he said typeterday, "and I, keep them busy in clearing land and doing the general work of the farm and dairy. Tou al-ways know where to find them and they are not continually itching to get off into some other part of the country, where wages are said to be higher and hours shorter. They are willing to learn, and are cheerful in their work, and do not get into a pout when found that with, like a Chinese gang would. I have worked Chinese and found them tery apt to get huffy and when they get the sukes it's almost impossible to do a thing with them." Mr. Clark has found it so difficult to obtain white milkers that he has de-clided to teach the Japs the art of milk-ing, and two of them are now quite expert in assisting in the twice-a-day "paing" the fifty-five cows. The Japa afready up in the new art are very proud of their new accomplishments, and seem anxious to educate the rest of their countrymen in the business. The cream separated from the milk of ST.  The cream separated from the milk of the cows on the ranch has heretolore been disposed of in Portland, he said, but when the new creamery now being finished at Warren gets into operation, the cream will be churned into butter there. This new creamery building has been erected at a cost of $2000 and the machinery will require $1500 more. The plant will be capable of making butter from the cream of 500 cows and Mr. Clark hopes to be milking 200 of these before many months, as the large acreage in connection with the W. C. Noon dairy is being rapidly cleared and planted to clover with the aid of the Japs. The new creamery will be in operation by October.

By this method the money made is cen-traitzed and hoarded by a few individ-uals, where, upon the other hand, had the use of those methods been prohib-ited, the gillnet fishermen would have carned and spent millions of dollars, and today instead of it being necessary to the mination of the industry, by and today instead of it being necessary wholly cured." The proposition to shorten the fishing season to two months, in order to save the industry, is not nearly so practicable or important as the abol-ition of the trap or seine, and if Com-missioner Reed desires to recommend to the Legislature an outline of laws calculated to preserve the industry he Average number belonging had far better make the use of traps had far better make the use of traps and seines illegal than to recommend the shortening of the season.
